Men Are Religious
Ants Are Foolish—and Men
Kidnaping and Torture
The Poor Indians

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

"EVERY sweet has its sour; every evil its good."

Emerson said it; British Tories believe it. The attack on religion in Russia has created intense feeling in Britain. If Premier MacDonald's Labor government refuses to break off relations with Russia, it will probably be driven from power.

MEN and nations, with their radios, movies and other interesting things, may seem to lose interest in religion.

But such an attack as Russia makes on established beliefs shows that religion retains its hold on the human race.

DR. DITMARS, who studies animals, from elephant and whale to ant and microbe, will broadcast, by greatly magnifying sound, noises made by ants in their colonies, working, celebrating, etc.

STRANGE is insect life. Among katydids there are 20 males for every female. This will interest women, for the katydid is one of the noisiest of insects. The males make all that racket.

Tiny mites and blind, little, defenseless beetles pat the ants with their feet, and then the ants pat them.

NOT so different from human beings that have money. Sycophants flatter them. "Pat them" with compliments, then they feed the sycophants, and sometimes let them marry their daughters.

CHICAGO police hold seven men and one lady, accused of conspiring to kidnap citizens, torturing them to extort money.

Theodore Kopelman, head of an insurance company, identified the kidnapers. The lady, his former wife, had "tipped" the kidnapers that if they got him, "he would be easy."

He obeyed orders, and paid when threatened with red hot irons.

POLICE investigators attribute six other "torture-kidnaping" cases to the same gang, and the prosecuting attorney says he will have them all sent to the electric chair. Death is the punishment for kidnaping in Illinois.

That seems a little severe, and capital punishment is barbarous.

Kidnaping, with torture, is also barbarous.

FROM Devil's Lake, North Dakota, comes the sad story of Sioux Indians that drank antifreeze mixture for the sake of its alcohol.

It was the wrong kind.

Jerome Onehouse, Mike Goodhouse, and two other Indians are dead, three more expected to die. They drank "antifreeze" at a dance, which adds a touch of sadness.

CAPT. RICKENBACKER talks about flying, with authority. In the war he flew after many German planes, and they did no more flying after that.

CROWDS BRAVE RAIN TO HONOR TAFT AT LAST RITES

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP.)—William Howard Taft was committed to his Maker today in funeral services which bestowed the last tender offices of the government he served, the church in which he worshiped, and the people whom he loved.

Thousands paid their homage as he lay in state under the dome of the Capitol. Then in All Souls Church, high on Sixteenth Street Hill, he received the simple ministrations of the Unitarian faith in which he lived. The federal government claimed him last of all, for military burial at Arlington.

A blustery March rainstorm, which whipped into the faces of his military escort and drenched the great flag draped about his casket, overcast the somber picture of the passing of the only man in American history to serve both as President and chief justice of his country.

HOOVER BOWS IN TRIBUTE

President Hoover led the nation in tribute. As the cortege passed the White House he stood bareheaded with Mrs. Hoover beneath the portico. At All Souls Church, with all of the other high officials

FIRST WOMAN PICKED ON JURY FOR BLONDE

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 11.—Six jurors, one of them a woman, had been chosen today on the jury that is to decide the fate of Irene Schroeder, on trial charged with slaying Corp. Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol.

The woman juror is Mrs. Jennie Curtis, widow, of Union Township. She testified that she had no conscientious scruples against capital punishment, if the evidence warranted a verdict carrying the extreme penalty.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand ordered jurors drawn for a new panel when the first list was exhausted this afternoon. All except six had been challenged either for cause or by peremptory rights of counsel. The defense has exhausted 15 of its 20 peremptory challenges. The state has used only 11.

The blonde former waitress complained of feeling ill soon after court opened today. A 10-minute recess was ordered. Irene left the court room with Mrs. Frank N. Johnston, wife of the sheriff. She returned a few minutes later, apparently refreshed.

"She's not feeling well, but

GETS TIRED WAITING, RUNS OWN TROLLEY

When the motorman of an eastbound night car on Second avenue saw another car running westbound early today, when there shouldn't have been one in sight, he knew something was wrong. At the first opportunity he stopped his car and called police. Lieut. Frank Shunk and two patrolmen hurried out Second avenue.

At the Tenth Street Bridge they met the car and stopped it. The operator, in civilian clothing, said he was Edward Breenan, 24, of 7009 Fletcher way. He had been visiting in Hazelwood, police say he told them, and was in a hurry to get home, and no car being in sight, he took one from the Hazelwood car barns.

"I didn't do so bad at that," he said, after learning he had driven the car about five miles.

FORNEY TELEPHONE NUMBERS LINKED

Telephone numbers which Rudolph Valhovich had given in his testimony before the grand jury and again in the trial of Al Forney, alleged slot machine king, were identified today by J. L. Wigton, manager of the commercial department of the two North Side Bell telephone exchanges.

One number in the Fairfax exchange, was that of Forney's home in Perrysville avenue, Wigton testified. Calls for repairs to slot machines, it had been testified, were made to this number.

Wigton also identified another number mentioned by Valhovich as being the telephone number of George J. Rathke, 10 Painter way, alleged slot machine repairman and missing witness. Other numbers also were identified by Wigton.

P. A. Carney, clerk for the Railway Express Company, testified that three years ago the Mills Novelty Company made numerous shipments to A. W. Forney, and county employes following Carney on the stand revealed that many slot machines seized in raids bore the Mills stamp.

RESERVE BANK CUT IN REDISCOUNT SEEN

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(INS.)—As a further step to promote prosperity, the Federal government is expected to approve shortly a 3½ per cent rediscount rate for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, now on a 4 per cent basis. Government officials indicated today the lower rate would ease the money situation and stimulate trade.

The Federal Reserve Board also is considering having its member banks purchase large volume of government securities in the open market. Such a transaction, it was explained, would place more than $100,000,000 in circulation for commercial purposes.

Irene Tells of Love For Dague and Her Boy

CHAPTER I.

By IRENE SCHROEDER

"IRON IRENE—The Two-Gun Girl—The Gun-Girl of the Steel Country!" Those are some of the names they call me.

But I know myself, and I'm no woman of iron, but soft all through and so weak that I don't know how I did it all.

But that's not true. I DO know how I did it. I had to do it for Glenn Dague, the man I love, and for Donnie, the little boy that's mine. If I hadn't been strong when the highway patrolman covered us with guns on Butler Pike, and when all those sheriffs blocked the road in St. Louis and in Arizona, then Glenn wouldn't have been strong, either.

Love Strong As Iron

GLENN loves me. And a man protecting the woman he loves is strong just so long as she is strong. He goes to pieces when she does. If I was "Iron Irene," that's because love is as strong as iron.

A lot of nonsense has been told about us ever since we ran away from the place where Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania State Highway Patrol was fatally shot two days after last Christmas. They got all twisted trying to guess how we got clear across the United States through cordons of police and civilian posses.

And if it wasn't so miserable to be held in this cell in the jail at New Castle, while Glenn is confined downstairs and my dear sweet Donnie is where I can't see him, in the detention home, I'd have to laugh at the crazy stories about our last stand on the desert mountain in Arizona, while the posse shot at us from behind rocks.

I've been promised a chance to tell the jury my story when I go on trial for killing Corporal Paul—a thing I didn't do—and Glenn didn't do.

Story She Will Tell

WHAT I'm writing down is what I'm going to tell the men who will decide whether I'm to live or die—stay behind prison bars until I'm old and ugly and gray, or see my Glenn and my Donnie again soon and go away with them to some place where we aren't known.

I won't stop now to tell about the wretchedness that drove Glenn Dague and me to do the grocery store robbery in Butler, Pa., that got us into all this trouble. First I'll tell the true story of the meeting with Corporal Paul and his partner, Private Ernest Moore, and of how we got out of the steel country though every

REAL ESTATE MAN DISAPPEARS HERE

Verne A. Kirschler, 37, of the King Edward apartments, Bellefield, disappeared six days ago and the next day his empty wallet and checkbook were found on the downtown Allegheny wharf, 50 yards from the water, his sister, Mrs. Grace Loheyde, of 6013 Rodman street, reported to the Bureau of Missing Persons today.

He was expected to board a trolley car at Stanwix street. The spot at which the wallet and checkbook were found is directly below Stanwix street.

Kirschler is a nephew of Charles F. Kirschler, a mayor of old Allegheny.

Couzens' Son-in-Law Now Bond Salesman

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(INS.)—William Chewning, Jr., who eloped with Miss Margaret Couzens, daughter of the Republican Senator from Michigan, a month ago, has quit his job as a bank clerk, it was announced today. He now is a bond salesman for G. M. P. Murphy & Co., brokers.

Dravosburg Council Upholds Election

Dravosburg council at their meeting held last night, upheld the election of Arthur Richards as borough fire chief, and ordered him to take office the first of next month.

John Piper, present fire chief, claimed that the fire volunteers' election was illegal, and continued to serve as chief. The borough solons were requested to settle the two-months' controversy.

LABOR CHIEF BEGINS SENATE CAMPAIGN HERE SATURDAY

Today's political developments:

1—Labor Secretary Davis today annnounced that he would formally declare his candidacy for senator when he visited Pittsburgh Saturday and at the same time denied he would resign from the Hoover Cabinet for the campaign.

2—William S. Vare announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Senate and his support of Davis for senator and Francis Shunk Brown for governor.

3—Congressmen Porter, Kelly and Campbell, of Allegheny County, will have no factional opposition for renomination, it was learned, while the Vare-Davis-Brown group has reached no decision as yet on contests against Congressmen Sullivan and Estep, of Pittsburgh.

4—Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, was reported chosen as candidate for Superior Court judge on the Davis-Brown slate.

5—Gifford Pinchot, seeking the governorship, announced as third plank in his platform "equalization of taxes, now unfairly assessed and collected."

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will formally announce his candidacy for the United States Senate in Pittsburgh on Saturday.

"I am deferring a formal statement until then," he said today. "I am much gratified at the tender of support by William S. Vare. We are always pleased when nice things are said about us by anyone."

REMAINS IN CABINET

Davis' statement followed announcement from Philadelphia by Vare of his withdrawal as a candidate and his support of the Secretary of Labor. Davis denied he would resign from the cabinet to make the campaign, saying publication of such a report "is a great injustice to me, and if broadcast will do immeasurable harm to President Hoover."

TAXICAB STRIKERS DIVIDE OVER PEACE

With a split in the ranks of the striking taxi drivers developing, two conferences in an effort for peace were held today in Mayor Charles H. Kline's office.

The first was between the Mayor and a committee representing a "back-to-work" faction of the strikers. The second was between the Mayor and three attorneys, one representing the leaders of the strikers and two the Parmelee Transportation Company.

3 HOLDUPS LAID TO 'SHEETZ GANG'

Three holdups by members of a gang of bandits headed, according to police, by Mrs. Elsie Sheetz, 20, figured in police court hearings today. Mrs. Sheetz and 10 alleged members of the gang were arrested last week.

James Gilmore, alias Owens, 24, of Cleveland, confessed member of the gang, died last night in Mercy hospital of a bullet wound inflicted by Turnkey John Hooper.

Two masked men who boasted they were members of the "Sheetz Gang," held up Anthony Cobbetto in his store at Pitcairn early today and escaped with $150.

In Morals Court today Harry Ziff identified James Funnicelli, Carl Sommerfeld and Morris Kaminski as bandits who held him up in his store at 1301 Penn avenue, blackjacked him, and stole $185 and a $675 diamond ring. Magistrate Thomas Jones held them for court.

Funnicelli was charged also with holding up the restaurant of Peter Tselvelis, at 1813 Penn avenue. Police say Gilmore participated in the robbery.

U. S. REFUSES TO JOIN PACT AS FRENCH AID

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, March 11.—No matter what the consequences may be, the United States will refuse to join in any consultative or any other kind of a political pact as an inducement to France to reduce her tonnage demands, it was learned from a highest authoritative source today.

The American delegation to the Five-Power Naval Parley is united in this stand. The other four delegations have been fully acquainted with the American attitude, and there is not the slightest question in the mind of any statesman at the conference as to how the United States regards the controversial security pact.

The American delegation, it was learned, will maintain this attitude even at the risk of making a

SOVIET ANTI-CHURCH WAR SPREADS, 2,000 IKONS BURNED

CITIES MOVE TO PREVENT WORSHIP

World-Wide Denunciations Inflame Atheists and More Synagogues Are Closed

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, March 11.—The heated anti-religious campaign sweeping throughout Soviet Russia continued unabated today, with new reports of atheistic demonstrations from various parts of the country.

Demonstrators at Lisichansk, near Charkov, collected 2,000 ikons or sacred idols seized from churches in the vicinity and threw them together in an enormous pile in the public square.

A torch then was applied and the demonstrators shouted denunciations of religion and the church as the brilliantly-painted idols went up in flames.

Collective farmers at Sverdlovsk burned 12 wagon loads of ikons in a similar manner. Workers at Tula drew up a petition submitted to the Soviets asking permission to close down 11 churches in the vicinity.

SPURRED BY ATTACKS

Instead of decreasing their activities, world-wide denunciation of the Soviets' anti-religious campaign has served to augment the enthusiasm with which the All-Union Society of Militant Atheists is continuing its assaults against religion and places of worship.

Spurred on by protests from abroad against religious persecutions, the press daily reports success scored in the anti-religious campaign. A few of the "victories" are:

The City Soviet of Chita, following the lead of the Soviet of Odessa, closed all churches and synagogues in the city in one swoop by administrative order.

Postal authorities in Kiev refused to deliver mail to priests or rabbis or church workers.

Decision of a Moscow trade union to accept an ikon instead of money as admission to the union's clubhouse movie and theater performances.

MANY CHURCHES CLOSED

It was officially announced that 73 churches had been closed or torn down in Moscow last year. This is about 15 per cent of the number of edifices remaining in the city.

The press and periodicals are filled with cartoons and caricatures of foreign and domestic church leaders. One cartoon is that of a shuddering priest pressing a huge revolver against his right temple. The caption above the picture reads: "All that's left for him to do."

It was revealed today that 17 ecclesiastics are involved in the trial of 45 Russians at Charkov on charges of counter-revolutionary activities.

FORNEY 'PHONE NUMBER LINKED

cautious witness" by the court, Charles W. Collins, investigator for the Children's Service Bureau, testified relative to a raid on the Painter way repair shop. His answers to questions had been cautious. At one point in Collins' testimony the judge remarked: "We are not interested in what you suppose or think. We want facts."

The first witness today in Criminal Court, where Forney is standing trial, described a financial transaction in the German Club of Allegheny between Forney and the club steward, but he was not able to link the transaction with slot-machines operated in the club.

MONEY TRANSACTION

The witness, Henry Mende, member of the club, said the money was on a table in the barroom in which the machines were kept. The steward gave Forney 40 per cent of the money, Mende said he understood.

Mende was followed on the stand by J. G. Steinmark, treasurer of the club, who appeared to surprise Haggerty by testifying he didn't know who owned the slot machines.

Nine of the 15 witnesses called yesterday failed to respond to testify against Forney, and of the six who did take the stand, all of whom had slot machines in their stores or clubs, none gave damaging testimony against the defendant.

TESTIMONY BLOCKED

Once Mende appeared on the point of telling of Forney and an officer of the club "settling up," but Forney's counsel was able to keep the statement out of the records with a contention that the statute of limitations outlawed that testimony.

Haggerty, pleading that the testimony of his witnesses surprised him, was allowed to cross-examine them, but even this unusual procedure produced no revelations. The prosecutor seemed bent on bringing out that the telephone number called by shop-keepers when they wanted their slot machines repaired was that of a private phone in Forney's Perrysville avenue mansion.

STRIKERS SPLIT ON TAXI PEACE

Temple roof garden February 28, the "back-to-work" committee demanded that Mayor Kline arrange for another vote of the striking drivers, "to be safeguarded from irregularities and intimidation."

The "back-to-work" committee remained with the Mayor about 30 minutes. After the interview Maurice Fromme, spokesman, declared Mayor Kline "sided" with them, and had said he believed the vote on peace terms taken February 28 "was not a fair one." Mayor Kline, however, refuted Fromme's statement. He said:

KLINE REFUTES STORY

"I received the committee headed by Mr. Fromme. They told me that the vote taken on the company's settlement proposition February 28 had not been fair because it was not a secret ballot. They said the company's proposal had been read off hurriedly and that all the men had been asked to vote by raising their hands. They said they were required to write their names on the ballots, and so it was not secret.

"I expressed no opinion as to that—I couldn't because I was not there. I am concerned about settling this strike, and I do not want to muddy up the waters."

Fromme had said:

"The Mayor seems to side with us. He says he believes himself that the Moose Temple balloting was not a fair vote and that the boys are bucking up against a stone wall. Mayor Kline said that he was glad a few came out publicly with a thing like this."

Following the peace faction's conference with the mayor, Attorneys Frank B. Ingersoll and C. K. Robinson for the taxi company, and Leonard Mazer, representing the body of strikers, were closeted with the city's chief executive. The call was on the proposal submitted by the strikers last Friday.

MAYOR HANDLES PROPOSAL

Regarding the conference with the attorneys representing the company and the men, the Mayor after the meeting issued this statement:

"The company came here today with the men's proposal changed and corrected. These changes were talked about at the previous conference yesterday. I have given the corrected proposal to Attorney Mazer to turn over to the boys' committee either for acceptance or rejection."

The strikers' committee was meeting late today to act upon the amended proposal.

ASK NEW VOTE

The "back-to-work" committee which called on the Mayor included Harry Levine, Maurice Fromme, August Runzo, James H. McCoy, William Sullivan, Thomas Willis, John J. Sullivan, Henry Cimino and Clyde Hill. Their petition demanding a new peace vote said:

"We charge that the vote did not represent the true attitude of the majority of the men present, because of unfair conditions surrounding it and because of intimidation of those who were prepared to vote to accept the company's offer.

A statement from George Siebert, business agent of Pile Drivers, Wharf and Dock Builders' Local No. 2264, a leader of the taxi strike, denied charges of intimidation at the vote in Moose Temple. He said:

BYRD'S PARTY CONFUSED BY CITY BUSTLE

Comforts of Civilization Strange After Lonely Months Near South Pole

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 11. — (AP.) — Somewhat confused by automobiles and street cars after spending more than a year in the snow-bound and desolate loneliness of the Antartic, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and the members of his expedition today renewed acquaintance with civilization while the barque City of New York went on drydock for refitting preparatory to the party resuming its journey to New York.

After dodging automobiles, Maurice Hanson, chief radio engineer, said that previously he had thought New York was the largest city in the world, but since his return here yesterday he could not help but think Dunedin, which has a population of about 85,000 was the hub of the universe.

Admiral Byrd declined to divulge any important conclusion he reached after his exploration in the Antractic. He stressed the importance of the flight during which he discovered and surveyed 280,000 square miles of previously unmapped territory and rated his perilous flight over the South Pole as secondary. The survey of the region which he named Marie Byrdland, by scientists and geologists, with the expedition, he said, "should prove useful," but he declined to amplify the statement.

Byrd, at New Zealand, Heard on Radio Here

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's voice was heard in Pittsburgh and the rest of the civilized world this morning for the first time in two years, when the National Broadcasting Company and WGY succeeded in a two-way communication with the explorer at his base in Dunedin, New Zealand.

Pittsburghers heard a conversation between Adolph S. Ochs, New York publisher, and Admiral Byrd, through KDKA and WCAE, stations in the NBC network.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

The feat was one of the greatest achievements in radio. It was really the first station-to-station radio call and spanned about 10,000 miles.

The voice of Byrd, speaking into a telephone receiver at Dunedin, was carried by submarine cable to the short wave station WYA at Wellington, New Zealand.

WYA broadcast the voice to VK2ME in Sidney, Australia. VK2ME then relayed the broadcast by short waves to WGY in Schenectady, where Ochs, Martin P. Rice and others talked with Byrd for more than an hour in what appeared to be an ordinary telephone conversation.

HAS LOST 12 POUNDS

Byrd said he was feeling fine, had lost about 12 pounds and would be glad to see the United States again.

KDKA through its short wave transmitter at East Pittsburgh, relayed the entire program back to Admiral Byrd's crew at Dunedin.

It was a history-making broadcast.

Alarm Brings Police Take Robber Suspect

Kirner's book store, 309 Market street, has been robbed three times lately; so a burglar alarm was installed. The alarm sounded last night. Police, responding, found a man on the third floor who said he was John Glancey, 42, of 45 South Thirteenth street. In Central Police Court today Magistrate Leo Rothenberg held Glancey for further investigation.

Mrs. Kresge, former wife of the five-and-ten magnate and a Pittsburgh girl, against whom Michel Rosenberg, Parisian realtor and boulevardier, has opened suit for $500,000, charging that she trifled with his affections.

DORIS MERCER SUED FOR BALM

NEW YORK, March 11.—Jilted, he says, Michael Rosenberg, called the most handsome boulevardier of Paris, today filed suit for $500,000 against Doris Mercer Kresge, former wife of the 5 and 10 cent store magnate.

The Parisian believes a woman has no more right to trifle with another's heart than a man.

The romance, according to the complaint filed in the Supreme Court started in Paris last June.

The complaint adds:

"On or about the eighth day of August, 1929, plaintiff and defendant each agreed with the other to intermarry."

Furthermore, the papers declare, both decided to attach the nuptial bonds not later than January, 1930.

Michael sets forth that shortly after the rich divorcee sailed for the United States, he followed. At that time, he says, the fascinating brunet who had been so lovely and charming to him greeted him coldly.

In this connection, the complaint says:

"Without just cause or provocation, she refused in the city of New York to marry the plaintiff."

five-power treaty at London impossible.

The delegation is not opposed to consultative agreements in principle; scores of United States treaties of conciliation already providing for consultation in the event of emergency, but the delegates are unalterably opposed to a consultative pact in connection with a naval treaty in view of the circumstances prevailing here.

The American delegation feels strongly that any consultative pact concluded in connection with a naval agreement would be a substitute for the British guarantee of security to France which the French requested in their memorandum of December 5, and which great Britain flatly rejected.

If the United States entered a consultative pact, with France reducing her tonnage figures as her share of the agreement, beyond doubt in the case of France being menaced in the future she would have the strongest moral argument for insisting that the United States not only consult as agreed, but also make up the tangible warship tonnage France would have scrapped as a direct result of the American agreement to consult in case of emergency.

HOUSE ASKED TO CUT RUM PENALTIES

Christopherson Committee Proposes Six-Month Jail Term and $500 Fine

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Modification of the drastic Jones "five and ten" law, passed last year by Congress to tighten prohibition enforcement, was recommended today by the Christopherson House Judiciary sub-committee.

Under the amendment approved by the sub-committee, all minor violations of the liquor laws would carry a maximum penalty of $500 fine or six months in jail. The Jones law provides five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

"JURYLESS TRIAL" WEIGHED

The fate of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission's so-called "juryless trial" system of tightening prohibition enforcement was weighed by the same Committee today.

Unable thus far to reach an amendment on the Commisson's plan to revise Federal Court procedure by permitting United States Commissioners to hear minor dry law cases, the sub-committee met to consider substitute proposals as well as the Commission's bills.

WILL HEAR BEER PLEA

The Law Enforcement Commission is scheduled to meet again tomorrow to hear the plea of Representative Dyer, (R) of Missouri, for 2.75 per cent beer.

The action of Chairman George W. Wickersham in granting Dyer a hearing gave rise to reports among anti-drys that the Commission may make some definite recommendations on prohibition.

The House Judiciary Committee is scheduled to open its "wet bill hearings" again tomorrow, with the Drys presenting women witnesses from several cities.

IRENE WATCHED BY ALIENIST

For the first time today, Irene appeared nervous. Her face wore a worried look as the oft-repeated words, "death penalty," spoken by prosecution counsel in questioning prospective jurors, rang in her ears.

VICTIM'S MOTHER ARRIVES

Mrs. R. L. McGuigan, mother of the slain highway patrolman, with her daughter, Ruth Paul, and her son, W. M. Paul, arrived today from Washington, Ia., to attend the trial.

"We hope only that justice is done," said Mrs. McGuigan.

ALIENISTS ON HAND

Dr. C. C. Wholey, alienist, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. H. W. Mitchell, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane, Warren, Pa., occupied seats near Irene today, ready to testify that she is mentally sound, should the defense spring a surprise plea of insanity in the blonde's behalf.

"Absolutely no insanity," the two alienists reported to District Attorney John S. Powers and Special Prosecutor Charles Margiotti, after examining the trigger woman suspect.

Defense attorneys admitted that two Ohio alienists, Dr. Joseph Tierney, of Cleveland, and Dr. L. J. Goldblatt, of Youngstown, had visited Irene in her cell recently, but declined to state whether emotional insanity would be their defense.

RAIN THINS CROWD

Garbed in black, as yesterday, the blonde entered court this morning without having to press through corridors jammed with spectators. A cold rain discouraged spectators, and less than 100 were waiting for the courthouse doors to open, in contrast with the crowd yesterday.

One woman rejected as a juror admitted having formed an opinion which would be difficult to change, regardless of the evidence introduced in the trial, and another had conscientious objections to capital punishment.

"It would bother my conscience," she told Judge Hildebrand, trial judge, and the objections of the commonwealth were sustained. Several of the men called declared themselves to have scruples about capital punishment. Others expressed themselves as having formed opinions, and others "were not so sure" they could find a first-degree verdict against an accomplice in crime, who, the law holds, is as guilty as the perpetrator. Irene frequently conferred with her attorneys concerning the acceptability of prospective jurors.

Frequently all three defense counsel would confer on the qualities of a prospective juror, and now and then Powell would lean across the table while Irene bent towards him in whispered consultation.

86 ESCAPE FROM BURNING MINE AFTER 2 ARE KILLED

INQUIRY INTO TRAGEDY PLANNED

By CHARLES A. EARLEY,
Staff Correspondent.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 11.—More than 100 rescuers were at work today in Wolf Run mine of the Warner Collieries Company, 21 miles from here, striving to bring out the body of John Pwansky, 40, one of two men killed when fire trapped 88 miners for several hours yesterday.

At the same time the flames that still raged were being smothered slowly by the erection of concrete air-tight barriers to shut out air from all entries in the burning area.

86 RECOVERING

In this way, according to mine officials, the flames will be smothered slowly but surely, so that operations may be resumed within the next few days.

The 86 men rescued from the raging inferno under heroic circumstances were reported resting in their homes, where they are recovering from black damp exposure and near suffocation.

PROBE PLANNED

Pending a probe into the fatal fire, Coroner A. L. Bell, of Jefferson County, has not announced when an inquest will be held into Pwansky's and Paul Burkowsky's deaths.

Burkowsky's body was removed to the surface last night. His death was attributed to suffocation.

The probe in which company officials, the coroner and executives of the Ohio Bureau of Mines were to take part, was scheduled to begin late today.

Miners said the fire was caused by a spark igniting coal dust when a trolley wire deep in the mine was knocked down by a wrecked motor car. Immediately the interior was a raging furnace. Falling timbers and slate blocked the flight of the trapped men to safety and hampered rescue workers.

The first men to come out were Alex Burkowsky, son of one of the dead men; William Castaletti, Edward Featheringham, son of Supt. Featheringham; John Pvobok and Andy Zaleski, who were on the wrecked trolley.

FATHER SAVES SON

Kenneth Crawford, 16, who started working in the Warner Collieries Company's Wolf Run mine only last week, was rescued by his father, J. J. Crawford, 46. The elder Crawford also rescued his nephew, James Crawford. George Lantz, a brother-in-law, assisted in the rescue.

MINISTER HELD IN SLAYING

The Rev. Grady Nicholson, Negro, pastor of the Union Baptist Church, Swissvale, today was turned over to the coroner on a charge of murder for the shooting of Samuel Hammond, 57, of 431 Maple avenue, Edgewood.

Hammond was shot last Friday and died in Braddock Hospital today.

County detectives said Hammond struck the pastor's wife when they met at Benjamin street and Dennison avenue Friday and that the pastor then shot Hammond.

PERMIT ASKED FOR BUS LINE

The Public Service Commission held a hearing today on the application of Ezio Bigi for permission to operate a bus line between Bridgeville and Pittsburgh.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, the Penn Bus Lines, Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, which serve parts of Bigi's proposed route, opposed the application.

Bigi has operated busses for nine years between Bridgeville, Mt. Lebanon and Dormont over the Bower Hill road. He desires to extend the service from Dormont to Pittsburgh by way of West Liberty avenue and the Liberty tubes.

Four years ago he asked leave to extend his service to Pittsburgh, but the application was refused.

Since then, Dr. B. F. Wolf, superintendent of the Methodist Home at Mt. Lebanon, testified, the Bower Hill road has been improved, hundreds of new houses have been erected, and the need for increase in the transportation facilities has become acute.

WHALEN ACTS TO FIRE REDS

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP.)—A list of 300 persons among the employes of 12 industrial corporations, accused of being Communist agitators by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, faced loss of their jobs today.

The names were given to the executives of the concerns by the Police Commissioner yesterday. All of the employers said the persons listed as organizers, propagandists and agitators for the Communists would be discharged.

Commissioner Whalen said he planned to call other employers to his office and furnish them with similar lists. He said the information had been supplied by his undercover men who had obtained the confidence of the Communists. He intimated the total of employes against whom he was prepared to make charges of Communistic activity among their fellow workmen might reach thousands.

He said a similar campaign was being conducted in co-operation with the school board to rid the schools of pupils who have been conducting agitation under the auspices of the Young Communist League.

Officer's Charge Wife Beat Him Rejected

Elmer V. Streett, of West Park, McKees Rocks, police lieutenant of Stowe Township, was refused a divorce from Mrs. Anna Eleanore Streett, of Race street, McKees Rocks, by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court.

An opinion by the court held that the charges of cruelty and indignities were not established, that Streett's testimony of attacks upon him by his wife, including a charge that she had struck him on the head with a frying pan and threw a bottle at him, was not corroborated, while Mrs. Streett's testimony in detail was corroborated.

They were married October 19, 1916, and separated June 20, 1928.

INDICT SQUAWS IN KILLING

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 11.—(AP.)—White man's justice works quickly, it has been proved to two Indian women, against whom the county grand jury yesterday returned indictments for murder, first degree, in the slaying last Thursday of Mrs. Henri Marchand, wife of the noted artist.

Miss Lila Jimerson, 35, allegedly in love without his knowledge with Marchand, and Mrs. Nancy Bowen, 66, whom the younger woman is said to have influenced through use of Indian "black magic," and the Ouija board, to kill his wife, were arraigned before County Judge F. Bret Thorn.

District Attorney Guy B. Moore announced he would schedule the case for immediate trial, and it was indicated at his office that it would take place within two weeks.

ROBBER ADMITS HOLDUPS HERE

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—(AP.)—Charges of highway robbery and a possible court martial today faced Albert R. Laughlin, 22, of Philadelphia, and Robert L. Jolley, 22, of Pittsburg, Mo., two Army prisoners.

They were arrested late yesterday, three hours after overpowering their guard at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and escaping. Seizing the guard's rifle, they dashed through woods to a highway, stopped a motorist, robbed him of $15, and escaped in his automobile, it is said.

A woman who watched the pair abandon the automobile and rifle called authorities who caught the men as they alighted from a street car.

Laughlin was serving three years for desertion and robbery, and Jolley two and a half years for desertion. Laughlin, according to police, has admitted participation in a number of holdups in Pittsburgh, Pa.

HAITI ENVOYS, BORNO SPLIT

CAPE HAITIEN, Haiti, March 11.—(AP.)—Open conflict developed today between the Hoover commission investigating conditions in Haiti and Louis Borno, president of the island republic.

The Hoover commission, which is here in course of a tour of the nation, telephoned Port-Au-Prince that President Borno must keep his promise, given Sunday, to permit selection of a provisional government which would act until a constitutional government could be placed in power.

President Borno's answer was that he is still president of the country and would do as he pleased.

The commission today was considering issuance of an ultimatum to Borno that he must take all the consequences politically and personally if he refused to adhere to the arrangement agreed upon.

This ultimatum, if issued, would virtually withdraw all protection from him, and he might then be in danger of his life, so intense is public feeling.

FLYING offers a new field and a wide sky to courageous young women.

Elinor Smith, a small young woman, with a big heart, went up in her monoplane, more than 30,000 feet. Fainting at that altitude, she fell with her plane several thousand feet. Then she came to, and landed safely, having set a new record. She went one mile higher than any woman had ever flown.

SOMEBODY took Mrs. A. K. W. Gibbons' husband. She asked for $1,000,000 damages; the jury gave her $500,000.

Our prosperity problem would be solved if a million other wives could do as well. And many of them could congratulate themselves on making an excellent bargain.

Few second-hand husbands are worth $500,000.

THE Orthodox (Russian) Church of Jugoslavia proposes to make a saint of Czar Nicholas, murdered by order of the Bolshevik government.

Making him a saint will perhaps increase his standing in Heaven, where a saint presumedly takes precedence, even over a czar.

HOOVER BACKS SCOUT FUND

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(INS.)—Failures in citizenship and the betrayals of those elected to leadership would never happen if all those who voted were "good scouts" and those elected had ever been a real Boy Scout, President Hoover told 400 leaders of the Boy Scouts of America last night at a dinner commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the organization in the United States.

The President broke his period of mourning for William Howard Taft to attend the dinner because he felt Mr. Taft would have wanted him to address the organization. The Boy Scouts, he said, typify the life of the late former President and its work was one of his chief interests. Mr. Taft was the organization's first honorary president.

The President indorsed plans for $10,000,000 fund to increase the activities of the scouts in the United States.

Tully Challenger Felled By Doctor, Locked Up

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 11.—(INS.)—Riot reigned among beautifully gowned women and well-dressed men in a film colony cafe when Murphy McHenry, a newspaper man, took up the fight of John Gilbert and challenged Jim Tully, hobo author, to battle.

Tully waved his hand disdainfully and left, according to police. Wilson Mizner intervened when McHenry started to follow, but without avail.

Then, according to police, Dr. Frank G. Nolan, prominent film colony physician, stepped into the fray and McHenry went down for the count, with a right to the jaw.

Lindy Tried Polo; Poloist Now Learns Gliding

DEL MONTE, Cal., March 11—(AP.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's brief experiment with polo which ended when he was catupulated over the head of a pony recently, may not have done much to popularize the game among the uninitiated. However, his glider flights have brought at least one polo player into the ranks of sailplane enthusiasts.

This was disclosed with the arrival here of a training sailplane for J. Cheever Cowdin, noted New York poloist and Transcontinental Air Line official. Cowdin, friend and business associate of the flying colonel, watched Lindbergh's glider experiments with keen interest and has decided to take an active part in the new sport.

Cowdin did not say when he would make his solo flight, but it was expected he would take off the latter part of the week under Colonel Lindbergh's guidance.

Lack of wind prevented Colonel Lindbergh from making his proposed long distance flight down the coast yesterday.

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 11.—George Lantz, who dragged himself and assisted some of his fellow workmen for a distance of more than two miles through the dark recesses of the Wolf Run mine airways, today is looked upon as one of the conspicuous heroes of the Warner Collieries fire, which trapped 88 men, killing two.

In 1918 Lantz fought with the Fourth Regulars in France. This fact was recalled to the tall miner by a boyish comrade who rubbed the veteran's aching head in the temporary hospital at the shaft entrance.

"I thought I had forgot nearly all my experiences over there," said Lantz, "but when we were huddled behind the brattice it reminded me of our work in the trenches and hiding in shell holes. For two or three hours we were in doubt of escaping alive. Over there I was punctured by seven machine gun bullets, but I did not believe I was as near death as we were down there behind that flaming pit.

"We stood together as long as we could and not a man flinched. We staggered along and when one of the boys was overcome, those in better condition stood by and assisted him as long as they were able. There was no greater heroism in the Army than was shown in Wolf Run yesterday."

Vare, Withdrawing, Praises Davis and Brown Records

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—(AP.)—William S. Vare today announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the United States Senate and asked his friends to support Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for the nomination.

The Philadelphia Republican organization leader also asked his friends to support Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, former attorney general of Pennsylvania, as a candidate for governor.

Mr. Vare appeared in high spirits as he arrived at the West Philadelphia station where his statement of withdrawal was given out.

VARE STATEMENT

"I deeply regret," said Mr. Vare in his statement, "that my health will not permit me to engage in a campaign to regain a seat in the United States Senate to which I was honestly and legally elected four years ago. For a long time I thought my condition would improve to such an extent that I could be a candidate. My sincere wish has been to give the voters of my state an opportunity to express disapproval of the arbitrary refusal of the Senate to permit the Pennsylvania electorate to select whom they choose for the office of United States Senator.

"My physicians have advised me against entering into the activities of a political campaign and I must bow to their judgment. My first duty is to my family and myself. I want to express my heartfelt appreciation to the many thousands of voters who have urged me to be a candidate and have assured me of their support.

"Vindication of the right of each state to select and elect its own candidates has been to me an issue far above personalities or personal ambitions. For three years I have carried on almost single-handed the fight to re-establish state rights, that fundamental part of our Constitution which was rudely ignored by the action of the Senate.

"Physically handicaped to such an extent that my active participation in the campaign might mean my death, I ask my friends throughout the state to support the Hon. James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, for United States Senator and the Hon. Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, for governor.

PRAISES CANDIDATES

"I know of no more outstanding or capable men for the two places. Mr. Davis has been a member of the cabinets of three presidents — Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Frank Brown, descendant of two governors, has never sought political office. As attorney general of Pennsylvania, he was responsible for practically all of the human legislation which is now on our statute books. Both of these men have a deep understanding of the whole people of Pennsylvania, he was responsible for poor. The manufacturers, the labors, the merchants, the miners, farmers and the women.

"In supporting these men and the ticket that will surround them, my friends can best give to my state the same service that they wished to render through me.

"Since last Friday I have held many conferences and as the result I find the Republican organization of Philadelphia is practically unanimous for this proposed ticket."

MEETS MORIN

Before leaving Mr. Vare met former Congressman John M. Morin, of Pittsburgh, who handled Mr. Vare's western campaign in 1926.

A large number of Philadelphia ward leaders were also on hand to say goodbye.

Harry C. Davis, executive director of the Philadelphia City Committee announced that during Mr. Vare's stay in Philadelphia since last Friday, a canvass of ward leaders was conducted in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

"Forty-two of the 48 ward leaders have signed on the dotted line for the Vare endorsed ticket of Davis and Brown," said Mr. Davis.

DREW ON VARE SLATE

The anti-Grundy ticket was reported to have been virtually completed last night at a coference of Davis, Brown and Vare lieutenants. No names were announced officially, but it was said the ticket probably would include Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, of Wilkes-Barre, for the Supreme Court nomination; a business man from the central part of the state for lieutenant governor, Phillip S. Dwey, Tioga County, former master of the state grange, for secretary of internal affairs, and Judges James B. Drew, Allegheny County, and William B. Linn, Philadelphia, for the Superior Court.

Pinchot Promises Action To Relieve Tax Burdens

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, pressing his drive for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, last night followed up his declaration for abolition of the state coal and iron police with a promise that if elected he would exert every effort to find some means to make taxes more equitable.

"In the country," the statement said, "farmers are carrying tax burdens which in many cases are crushing and unfair. That must be set right. In cities the inequalities are almost, if not quite, as glaring.

"I charge that in all cities and towns of the commonwealth but notoriously in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, outrageous discrimination in real estate assessments exist today. Politicians control the tax-levying authorities and thus reduce unfairly the assessments on their favorites, corporations and individuals. They heap on the shoulders of the average citizens burdens utterly disproportionate to the real value of the property.

The entire system of levying and collecting taxes in the state is a gigantic muddle, with politicians enriching themselves and their friends at the expense of the community. This state needs equitable taxing machinery. If elected, I will do my best to see that it is supplied."

TALKS WITH VARE

Pinchot spent five minutes with William S. Vare today. After returning to his own suite the former governor said:

"Yes, I have just called on Mr. Vare. Politically we are not friends, but Mr. Vare is a sick man and is leaving for Florida under conditions which naturally excite my sympathy. We had a short but pleasant personal conversation in which he told me that he was getting along well."

Mr. Pinchot announced that on Thursday night he would go on the air over Station WPEN with a talk on "Fair Fares for the People." He said his address would cover state as well as local transit issues.

Irene Schroeder Tells Story of Her Life

Drive In Fear

AFTER the Butler adventure we were motoring back toward home, in Wheeling, W. Va., as fast as we dared. The Chevrolet was making about 25 per hour. We didn't want to draw attention by going too fast. Donnie was snuggled up between me and Glenn at the wheel.

I remembered how Donnie laughed and wiggled, and how tragic Glenn looked. It was just a "motobile" ride and lots of fun for little Donnie—awful for us.

I remember Glenn said: "If we get through New Castle all right, honey, we're safe."

Just then the two highway patrolmen stepped out in the road and signed us to turn out and stop.

"Maybe it's only to check up on licenses," said Glenn, but I could tell he knew it was a trap.

The one who turned out to be Brady Paul made Glenn pull out his license case. I saw what Corp. Paul was doing, but I didn't dare open my mouth. I nudged Glenn. Paul was using the license case to conceal his right hand, and I saw that he was getting a grip on his gun under the leather pocketbook. So that when Glenn took back his case there was Corp. Paul's gun pointing right at him and Donnie.

Corp. Paul said to Glenn: "I've got you covered, you—! Take that license out yourself, and be quick about it!"

Glenn sort of oozed out quietly into the road through the door on the driver's side, and I saw that he was going to stick there and have it out with the officers and yell to me to get away with Donnie. He had often said things about just that sort of scheme if we ever got caught.

Glenn means the world to me. I'll tell about how he showed me all I know about happiness, when childhood poverty and an unhappy marriage had just about convinced me that you don't have to wait until the next world to know all about hell. But that's for later. Now I'll stick to what happened on Butler pike.

Donie was beside himself with fright. "Don't let them hurt Glenn, mamma," he kept crying.

No fear. I'd rather be shot as full of holes as a sieve than see my man, Glenn, get a scratch. I don't care what people may say about Glenn and me not being married and having families we both left. When love gets as strong as what's hit Glenn and me, two people just don't care, and that's all. Right now, they can execute me twice over—slow—and cut me in mincement, if they'll make it the price of letting Glenn out of the cell just under mine.

Shooting Begins

THE firing started just as I grabbed my gun—a Spanish pistol from a pawnshop that may work or not, according to luck—and jumped in the road.

I can't tell a straight story about that firing. I wish I could. I suppose there were just a few shots, but it was as if the whole world was bullets and smoke and fire. I heard Donnie scream, and thought he was hit. I just sprawled into the car all over Donnie, feeling him for signs of blood.

I cried: "Are you hurt, Donnie?" It was heaven to hear him say no and feel his arms and legs move all right. Glenn sitting at the wheel and working the starter was the next thing I knew.

The business of changing cars with the fellow and the girl—Mr. Clarence Horton and Elsie Nickum of New Castle—is something I hardly remember now, after all that followed. I can remember how dazed that pretty girl was when Glenn ordered her to crawl out of the Chrysler and let us take her place.

Took His Money

THAT coupe was awfully noticeable, with its bright blue paint and aluminum wheels, so Glenn decided we'd have to circle through back streets of New Castle, in case we were going to meet with friends of the fellow and the girl. We took the fellow's money because we knew we would need gas.

It was on the road to Wheeling that I began to invent those tricks for outwitting the police that got us safe nearly across the whole country. I don't know how I could think up the ideas I had. All I knew was that we just had to win through. I felt that I had the whole responsibility. No harm must come to Donnie and Glenn.

I figured they would be watching for a man and a woman and a child in a car, so we picked up two fellows that wanted a ride to Steubenville, over on the Ohio River, and they didn't know they were helping us a lot when they sat up front where they could be seen.

I've heard how every road in and out of New Castle was watched, and how a half-dozen couples with children were taken to local jails, so I'll give the police what satisfaction they can get out of knowing exactly what route we took, through their cordon.

Took Back Streets

WE struck down, over all the side roads, through the Enon Valley country to Steubenville, where we took back streets to get on the road to Bellaire, O., where we were going to leave Donnie with Mrs. Ruby Schroeder, my sister. I married a brother of Ruby's husband.

We left Donnie in safety. Now it was Glenn and I against the world. It always will be, until the end.

I want to put in here something in rhyme I wrote to Glenn here in jail, sending it by the secret route I can't explain for fear of getting a good pal in trouble.

I might say, too, that Glenn and I have a way of keeping in touch that I hope they won't deprive us of when they read this. There's a drain at the back of my cell that connects with a catch-basin in Glenn's cell, just below. If Glenn sings loud into the basin, and if I lie flat on the floor with my ear in a certain spot, I can hear him sing to me. He has a lovely voice, and I can just see my man when that music comes through the floor.

What I wrote to Glenn is terrible rhyme, I know, but it tells how I feel:

Dear heart, be happy behind this prison wall,
For every man has to rise and fall.
But honey, some sweet day
We'll be answered if we watch and pray.
This old world seems awful tonight.
We walk the smooth road with the rough.
And we rove hand in hand, and we've been—
Man to woman, and woman to man.
I hear your sweet voice singing to me;
It soothes me just as the waves at sea
Soothed the old captain who went down with his ship.
Like he did to the end—I'LL STICK!

MINERS AWAIT STRENGTH TEST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—Settling down in earnest to business of the convention today, the 1,000 delegates to the international convention of the United Mine Workers of America anxiously awaited the report of the committee on credentials, so that they might learn the comparative strength of their meeting and the simultaneous insurgent gathering in Springfield, Ill.

Regardless of the apparent ease with which the convention moved, the principal topic of conversation today in the corridors outside the convention hall and during intermissions of the convention was concerned with action against the insurgent group.

GET NO SYMPATHY

No sympathy for the insurgent meeting in Illinois was evident among the 400 Pennsylvania delegates at the convention. Patrick T. Fagan, of Pittsburgh, president of District No. 5, said:

"One of the main reasons we are here is to help rehabilitate the United Mine Workers of America. The spirit of the union organization in Pennsylvania is stronger than ever."

Fagan and four other Pennsylvania delegates were named committee chairmen yesterday by Lewis.

FIREMAN HURT IN MT. LEBANON

One vreman was injured fighting a blaze in a 15-family apartment at Alfred street and Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, this afternoon. The flames started from a short circuit in an electric stove in the apartment of C. B. McGiffin, on the first floor.

Smoke attracted the other occupants of the building and they summoned aid.

James Pott, of the Mt. Lebanon Volunteer Fire Department, suffered cuts fighting the blaze. The flames, confined to the kitchen of the McGiffin apartment, caused a loss estimated at $800.

Helene Costello to Marry Saturday

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—(AP.)—Lowell Sherman, svelte film player, has filed notice of intention to wed Helene Costello, actress and daughter of the screen star, Maurice Costello. The Costellos are former Pittsburghers.

In giving his occupation the fashion plate of Hollywood Boulevard wrote: "Actor——?"

"Lots of people," he explained with a laugh, "don't think I'm an actor, even though I work at it, so I put that question mark there to satisfy them."

The wedding is set for Saturday. John Barrymore will be best man. His wife, Delores, sister of Helene, will be matron of honor.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO, 3 HELD

Three Negroes, one of whom was alleged to have fired two shots at a policeman, were held in Center avenue station today, following their arrest on a charge of stealing an automobile and running down a woman who was crossing the street late last night.

They said they were Robert Banner, 17, and Richard Harris, 18, both of 309 St. Mary's court, and Eldee Wryarett, 17, of 1525 Preeble avenue.

Police said they stole the automobile of E. Lawler, of 315 Winterhill street, in the 600 block of West Lacock street. At Crawford and Clark streets the car, driven, police said, by Banner, ran over Rosedelia Minor, 37, of Crawford street. She was taken to Homeopathic Hospital suffering from bruises.

William Smith, Negro, a plainclothesman of Center avenue station, reported that Banner fired two shots at him when he and Officers Thomas Martin and Raymond Miller approached the car to arrest him.

The funds were received from contractors who dumped excavated rock and dirt on the site of the park.

GRUNDY SEIZES TARIFF REINS IN SENATE

'Old Joe' Wrecks Coalition, Will Write Rates, Say Bolters, Aroused Too Late

By FRASER EDWARDS,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Last week when the coalition composed of Democrats and Progressive Republicans took charge of the tariff bill in the Senate, President Hoover called a hasty conference of the so-called Republican leaders of the Senate and House. During the heated discussion one of the House head-men turned on Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, with the rebuke:

"Well, you are the majority leader of the Senate!"

"You flatter me," returned the genial Jim. "I have the title, but Joe Robinson has the power."

Far off in London, the tariff bill forgotten and absorbed with problems of the floundering naval conference, the distinguished Democratic leader from Arkansas, no longer holds sway over the tariff bill. But neither does Jim Watson.

"And who is the majority leader of the Senate now?" queried a group of gaping reporters to a knot of senators of mixed allegiance. And the chorus came:

"Joe Grundy."

GRUNDY IN SADDLE

So, it appears, that in three short months the former tariff lobbyist has stepped into the Senate, wrecked the coalition, composed of senators from "backward states" with "no chips in the tariff game," and taken charge of the tariff bill.

"Grundyism" has become a part of the political vocabularly. But no one had a clear idea of "Grundyism" until Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, came to the Senate by appointment after "Bill" Vare had been spurned from the threshold of that august body.

Grundy has given his life to the protective tariff system. Since the Dingley bill was pending in 1897, "Old Joe" has come down to Washington to tell the "boys" how to do it.

The Senatorial toga now covers Grundy. His status has changed. He no longer has to come with his hat in his hand. He is a member of the club—one of the boys—and can talk as an equal.

A Senatorial toga, however, has not changed "Old Joe's" opinion that a Chinese wall of tariff protection for industry is the salvation of America. And that opinion vigorously voiced by him has wrecked the coalition-written tariff bill.

MAKES NO SPEECHES

Not that Grundy has made any speeches in the Senate on the tariff bill and by his eloquence and logic changed the minds of the coalitionists and brought them over to his opinion.

That is not how "Old Joe" works. He is at his best "in conference." He is never still, always moving about the Senate chamber and conferring. But most of his conferences are held outside of the chamber, in the cloakroom of the corridor.

When Grundy became a senator, he moved his tariff data bag and baggage, from a downtown office building into the Senate office building. He brought with him his bright young man, Warren F. Doane, editor of the "Manufacturer," the house organ of the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia, composed of staunch protectionists.

He pays the able Mr. Doane $500 a month and bewails the fact that he has not "10 more like him," a favorite phrase of Grundy—one that he applied to Charles L. Eyanson, lobbyist for the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, who was smuggled into the secret sessions of the Finance Committee by Senator Bingham.

DISCOVERED TOO LATE

Disclosure by the Hearst newspapers that the dynamic Mr. Doane was working for Grundy, who at first said Mr. Doane was merely a "visitor," has started a hue and cry among Democrats and Progresives to oust him from the Senate office building. But it's too late now. He has almost finished his work. He is going to write the tariff bill from now on.

He has convinced a sufficient number of senators that Gen. Hancock was right—that the "tariff is a local issue." In that way he has weaned away the weaklings from the coalition. He has shown them the way to "take a little bacon home," as Senator Barkley of Kentucky, put it.

Grundy points out how a high rate on this or that schedule will aid some industry in their particular state. He has Mr. Doane to bring in the figures to prove it. And they say:

"Well, if that's the case, I'm with you Joe."

Sugar, sweet and enticing, served to swing enough coalitionists to give "Old Joe" his chance. It broke the back of the coalition. The principle of the coalition is gone and now it is a scramble for the swag. But as one senator, a rigid Regular Republican, remarked:

"When I go home and try to justify my record on the tariff I'll rule the hours I've spent with old Joe Grundy."

FUMES KILL 1, OVERCOME 3

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 11.—Fumes from a gas heater in the home of R. C. Steifel, of Ellwood City, resulted in the death of Frank Good, 41, Negro gardener, and overcame Regina Schuster, housekeeper, and August Menni, of Butler, Pa., a painter, who was working at the Steifel home.

Good went to the basement of the Steifel home about 11 o'clock to light the furnace. The chimney had been plugged, it was found, and Good, it is believed, failed to remove the plug, allowing the fumes to come into the cellar. Miss Schuster smelled the gas and started downstairs, but was overcome. Menni heard her fall and discovered the plight of Miss Schuster and Good. He dragged them into thhe air. All were taken to the Ellwood City Hospital, where Miss Schuster and Menni are recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Steifel have been in Florida for some time and the home has been closed except for the attendants.

W.Va. Farmers Sue State for Trees Destroyed

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., March 17.—Suits numbering 26 and aggregating $40,627, have been filed by property-owners in Circuit Court at Charles Town against state entomologists for damages alleged to have been sustained through the cutting of cedar trees. The cedar elimination is done under a state law which allows damages and assesses the damages against fruit property owners. The cutting is done to eliminate cedar rust. Resistance to the cutting has been vigorous in this section. The claims range from $110 to $7,500. The suits are filed against the state of West Virginia and the county of Jefferson.

PARROT FEVER PENSION O. K.'D

BALTIMORE, March 11.—(AP.)—An accidental death benefit of $1,800 a year was voted to Mrs. Anna D. Stokes, widow of Dr. William Royal Stokes, of the City Health Department, who died February 10 of psittacosis, or parrot fever. Dr. Stokes was director of the Bureau of Bacteriology and contracted the disease while endeavoring to find a cure for persons suffering from it. The award was made by the Board of Pension Trustees and will cease if Mrs. Stokes remarries. The pension represents half of the salary paid Dr. Stokes.

The board refused a pension to Mrs. Catherine Siegmund, widow of Dr. Charles J. Siegmund, a veterinary inspector of the Health Department, who died from pneumonia. In refusing the pension the board ruled it was not liable to the families or beneficiaries of those fatally stricken by common diseases.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

SEEKS TO DROP NEGRO WIFE

CHICAGO, March 11.—(AP.)—Joseph M. Lillie was appointed "next friend" to James Banks, 79, in Superior Court, in order to permit him to bring suit for the annulment of Banks' marriage to Dolly Gardner, 56, a Negro.

Banks, last of the male line of an Atlanta, Ga., family, owns a plantation in Georgia, orange groves in Florida and considerable real estate in Cook County, Illinois. Suit asking annulment of his marriage was filed a month ago by Lillie on behalf of Mrs. Fannie Banks Calloway, Banks' sister.

He asked that Mrs. Banks surrender all property and render an accounting.

The decision found that Banks is suffering from senile dementia and is incompetent to manage his affairs. The Banks estate is estimated at about $1,000,000.

BOW WOW BLUES

Paul Miller dispensed a long-standing rule at KQV recently when he broadcast the description of a brown and white terrier that wandered from home. The dog was located by a fireman in Brookline and returned to the owner, a woman.

Grateful to Paul for his kind act, the woman baked him a cake. But someone at the station has a convenient eyesight for misreading addresses; Paul has advertised a liberal reward. Suspicon hangs on Jack and Tony who have sung, "My Sweeter Than Sweet" twice daily for the last three days.

RADIO STARS COMING

Christy Wilbert tells us the Stanley Theater has gone radio and will present in the next few weeks some of the ether's outstanding stars. Among them will be Little Jack Little, of WLW fame, who got his start at KDKA, March 21. Eddie Dowling, March 28. Ted Lewis, April 4, and Helen Kane, April 18. All will be heard on the Stanley Revue over WCAE.

Notice any improvement in KQV signals? Direction of the aerial has been changed.

WE'LL BANK ON IT!

Dear Darrell: You may be interested to know that the Aquarium at the Battery in New York City carries the following label on the "kingfish:"

KINGFISH — Found up the Hudson as far as Sing Sing.

Probably this will explain the collapse of the Great Home Bank.

Yours,
J. Warren McWhinney.

Who Gets the Car This Morning?

Breakfast chats these days usually develop into heated arguments as to who is going to get the car for the day. Many families, however, are solving the problem of keeping everybody happy and satisfied by the purchase of a second car. The practical thing to do is to buy a good used car. Your investment is small and you will be amply repaid by the added convenience.

If you have considered buying a second car for your family, now is the time to do it. Surplus used car stocks, which must be reduced before spring, have forced prices down to a new low level.

At the same time selections are unlimited—nearly every make and every model being available. Choose the Used Car that suits your needs from today's

SURRENDERS IN KILLING OF 2

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP.)—Jack (Legs) Diamond, who was indicted in connection with a double murder last July in the Hotsy Totsy Club of which he was the alleged proprietor, surrendered last night to police. Diamond was formerly a bodyguard of Arnold Rothstein, slain Broadway gambler.

The slayings at the Hotsy Totsy Club, which is in the Broadway white light district, occurred during a free-for-all pistol battle William (Red) Cassidy and Simon Walker, an ex-convict, were killed.

Charles Green, who was arrested charged with the murder of Cassidy, was acquitted on a directed verdict after witnesses testified he was out of the room when the shooting occurred.

Lincoln Highway Narrowed by Old Mine Cave

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 11.—Barriers have been erected for 12 feet along one side of the Lincoln highway between Idlewild Hill and Longbridge Hill as a result of a cavein.

The cavein was caused by the sinking of the abandoned Darlington mine, which at one time was located near the highway. One-way traffic is to be enforced until repairs are made.

AIMEE CHURCH PASTOR QUITS

POMONA, Cal., March 11.—(AP.)—The Rev. Temple Turner, pastor of the Pomona Four Square Gospel Church, and head of the Board of Trustees of the church, resigned yesterday. They have been involved for some time in a controversy with Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, over management of the Pomona branch of the Four Square organization. The Rev. W. C. Parham, former pastor of the Santa Ana Four Square Gospel Church, succeeded Turner.

Two weeks ago Roberta Semple McPherson, daughter of Mrs. McPherson, attempted to speak from the pulpit of the Pomona church, but was asked to leave by a policeman after opposition developed.

"Chain Store growth is a logical part of the development of large scale enterprise in the United States. . . . The chain store is doing much toward the desired objective."

OUT OF 45 PROFESSORS WHO WERE ASKED FOR THEIR OPINION OF THE CHAIN STORE METHOD, 43 REPLIED. EVERYONE OF THE 43 SAID THAT HE CONSIDERED THE CHAIN STORE A BENEFIT TO THE PUBLIC.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TAFT AT ARLINGTON

Thousands Pass Bier in Capitol; Caisson Bears Body to Church Service of the government, he took part in the short service.

The pew where Taft himself had worshiped for many years was banked high with flowers. His own pastor, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, read some bits of poetry, intoned a few lines of Scripture and said a prayer. The organ pealed the supplicating notes of "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light."

That was all. There was no funeral oration.

BODY LIES IN STATE

The funeral ceremonies began almost as soon as the city was astir.

Borne on a rumbling artillery caisson from the Wyoming avenue home where Mr. Taft spent his last days, the flag-draped casket was placed in state in the Capitol rotunda shortly before 10 a. m. Long lines of those who loved him already stood waiting under sodden skies outside.

All along the funeral way thin lines had stood with bowed heads to see the cortege pass.

At the Capitol, soldier bodybearers lifted their burden up the steep steps from the plaza and set it in the center of the rotunda, on a catafalque where Lincoln had lain in death.

A picked guard of sailors, soldiers and marines took station about the casket, and then the waiting crowd was admitted, to shuffle slowly past.

They came from every class of that citizenry with whose destiny the life of the departed had been so closely interwoven for four decades.

The notes of a bugle sounded. The military escort on the Plaza snapped to attention. The crowd lifted its hats. The Marine Band played the inspiring strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

RAIN DRENCHES CROWD

The rain increased to a downpour as the cortege proceeded up Pennsylvania avenue, drenching those in the procession and the waiting spectators.

The Marines, picked men, swung along in front of the caisson and next came a detachment of bluejackets, white capped, and immediately behind them was the casket. A guard of infantry, Marines and sailors brought up the rear.

The flags and guidons stood straight out in the wind, and the lines of the cavalry escort were irregular as the horses pranced and tried to turn before the whipping rain.

Although they had not gone to the capitol in the funeral cortege, some members of the family arrived to witness the last of the ceremonies. Charles P. Taft, a son, accompanied by two daughters, and Mrs. Robert Taft, the wife of the other son, watched from the Supreme Court windows the removal of the body and the departure of the funeral parade.

ANCIENT BELL TOLLS

The procession went forward slowly to the sound of muffled drums, under umbrellas hundreds lined the sidewalks. Hats came off as the casket passed in the midst of its rain-pelted guard of honor.

At the church, a crowd had waited since early morning. It grew in size as the procession approached.

From the belfry came the tolling of the bell, more than a century old. It has been rung upon the death of all Presidents since 1822.

A pew on the right was reserved for the President and Mrs. Hoover, who had arranged to accompany the body from the church to Arlington for burial.

The church had filled with distinguished personages long before the procession approached—members of Congress and the diplomatic corps and the justices of the Supreme Court.

Members of the Taft family occupied the family pew save one vacant place. Mrs. Taft, fragile looking in her heavy weeds, was supported by her sons.

HOOVERS AT CHURCH

The President and Mrs. Hoover arrived and a few minutes later—at 1:42 p. m.—came the caisson. The simple funeral services began.

The 6,000 who passed by, in two double files, saw dimly framed in black a face lined with the trial and sorrow of a long and full life. Only a trace of the old smile remained. The features were drawn by the weeks of illness.

The pallor of death lay strangely on a countenance which men had been so accustomed to see filled with the smiling light of joviality.

IN JUDICIAL ROBES

The departed president and chief justice lay in his coffin in the black robes of his judicial office, falling in pleated folds about his broad shoulders.

His face was turned slightly to one side, so that most of those who passed saw him in profile.

In the exact center of the rotunda, the casket stood but a few feet from a huge white model of the new Supreme Court Building to be constructed near the Capitol—a monument to the late Chief Justice, who pioneered the way for this long sought individual home for the nation's highest court.

Marshaled into line by Capitol police, the throngs moved by the casket at a steady pace, sometimes almost at a quick-step. It was estimated that 75 passed to the minute.

In the line were many members of Congress.

There were many children, some of them in arms, looking for the first and last time on the countenance of the former president and chief justice.

Hughes, on Bench Alone, Adjourns High Court

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(INS.)—The moment the body of William Howard Taft was removed from the Capitol to be taken to the church, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes convened the Supreme Court, in another part of the building.

Mounting the bench and taking the chair Taft had occupied, Hughes said:

"The court will stand in recess until noon tomorrow."

He was the only justice on the bench.

The court was compelled by law to convene today.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Congestion, colds

—from wet feet

Wet shoes, wet clothing . . . danger! Be careful of colds in the chest. That tight, smothered feeling of congestion can be eased . . . try this quick, simple way—

Pat Sloan's Liniment on the chest gently. Sloan's healthy heat warms like sunshine. Drives away soreness. Eases congestion. Used in 13 million homes. Get a fresh bottle. 35c.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

SMILE

YOU'VE heard Nick Lucas sing that song about painting the clouds with sunshine. Well, let's all grab a paint brush and help the job along. For a while a lot of us thought that the bottom had dropped out of the world, and our faces dropped right along with it. But President Hoover has got Old Man Prosperity on the job, and the way he's painting those clouds with sunshine is just nobody's business.

¶ So come along and be a cheer leader! Smile! Have you seen the way the steel business is staging a come-back? And all the other industries in the Pittsburgh district? Why the way things look, 1930 is going to knock the spots off 1929 as a business year! That we believe what we say about continued prosperity in the Pittsburgh district is shown by our recent big expansion in taking over the Basement, the First Floor and the Upper Floors of the adjoining theatre building. Unless we had absolute faith that conditions justified such a vast expenditure we would never have made the investment for a Greater Frank & Seder store.

¶ But we've learned a lesson. From now on Thrift is our middle name. Do you know what Thrift is? If you don't, it really means Spending Wisely. It doesn't mean to hoard. It doesn't mean to deny yourself something you really need. It doesn't mean to be stingy. It means in plain English, when you go to spend your money, take your common sense with you.

¶ Frank & Seder don't believe very much in conversation. We are going to show you Thrift in Action! Here's the way we're going to pass the good cheer along to the public. Frank & Seder National Sales Days on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, are going to brighten every home in town with Bargains in New Spring Merchandise.

¶ Take a tip from Amos and Andy, and "Check and Double Check" these Three Days. Keep the whole family home tomorrow night, to "check and double check" every item in our big opening ads for National Sales Days. And then on Thursday, you'll be here ready to Spend Your Money With a Smile—because you'll Save on Everything You Buy. It's going to be the greatest Three Day Thrift Demonstration ever staged in this town!

FRANK & SEDER

Six pages of advertising in Tomorrow's Papers—and 150,000 12-page bulletins, distributed to Pittsburgh homes—tell the story of National Sales Days.

VOTE MACHINE CAUTION URGED

The County Commissioners were urged today in a letter from Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the citizens' voting machine committee, to exercise cautions in choosing from the various types of voting machines on the market.

"It is most important to the whole voting machine movement," Harris wrote, "that the machine selected for use be one that will not only fulfill the specifications provided in the enabling act for performance at elections, but be so constructed that there is reasonable assurance that its life will justify the expense involved. Care should also be taken to ascertain that the organization behind the voting machine purchased is of sufficient solidity to insure servicing of the machine for a period of years."

Harris offered concrete suggestions for determining the financial standing of bidders for the voting machine contract, and also suggested they be required to give bond and guarantee serviceing for 10 years.

Suffered Severe Pain With Large Pimples. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were large and red and after a few days would fester. I suffered severe pain and it was hard for me to do my work. They itched so badly that I could not sleep well at night. My face looked terrible on account of them. The trouble lasted about eighteen months.

"I Am Convinced That Flaxolyn Is a Wonderful Health-Formula

It Has a Positive Action on Stomach, Liver and Intestinal Canal," Says DR. J. EVERETT CLARK

Every pleasant spoonful of Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn contains: 1—Vitamines equal to those found in a tablet of yeast. 2—The pure extracts of sun-dried herbs. 3—Bile salts, which help overcome bile deficiency of the liver. 4—Valuable therapeutic ingredients approved by the very highest authorities.

Dr. J. Everett Clark of Providence, R. I., in the Uniform of First Lieutenant

THOUSANDS REPORT QUICK, ECONOMICAL RESULTS

Dr. J. Everett Clark is a member of that school of doctors who do not, as a rule, prescribe any internal preparations whatsoever. It is, therefore, all the more noteworthy to find that he, as well as hundreds of other doctors all through this country, are today hailing Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn as the ideal aid to health which over 90% of our people are said to need.

Until now few people have realized the importance of correct internal cleanliness and proper stimulation of organic sluggishness. Flaxolyn safely, harmlessly, efficiently fills this need.

Few people walk around actually sick, but many—in fact, most—do go through their daily work and social activities in a condition very much below normal health.

Dr. Clark says: "After using the Flaxolyn formula, I am convinced that it is a wonderful product, built up along natural lines. Its positive action on the stomach, liver and intestines makes it a remarkably efficient tonic-laxative.

"While I do not as a rule recommend any internal preparations, I certainly am happy to advise Flaxolyn. Several of my friends have used it and call it a 'wonderful product of nature.'"

Dr. Haas Tells How Vitaminized Flaxolyn Helped His Family in Cases of Constipation and Stomach Distress

Why is it—with the whole world of medicine to choose from—so many doctors select Flaxolyn as the one formula to use for themselves and for their families? Certainly Flaxolyn must be an unusual formula to merit this preference.

"Flaxolyn Great Aid to Those Who Suffer From Headaches, Nervousness and Indigestion," Says Doctor.

Following is an extract from the personal letter sent to Dr. Harris H. Luntz, the discoverer of Flaxolyn, by Dr. Edw. G. Haas, of Andover, Ohio:

"Dear Dr. Luntz—I have used Flaxolyn in my family and have recommended it to my patients. The results have been excellent in cases of constipation and stomach disorders. Being a natural remedy, it is most effective in cases of headaches, nervousness and indigestion."

Gas Stops

When Flaxolyn acts, the formation of dangerous fermentative GASES in the intestines STOPS! The digestive process can work properly again and the body can perform its normal functions with ease. Sleep comes quickly—vigor follows naturally.

In the words of Dr. Benedict Lust, President American Naturopathic Association: "Flaxolyn is a natural food-laxative, following the teachings of the famous Father Kneipp. It is priceless in all digestive ills."

Dr. Edw. Haas of Andover, Ohio

Free Test of Flaxolyn

It is absolutely guaranteed in writing that Flaxolyn will help cases of general exhaustion, biliousness, sleeplessness, headaches, acid-dyspepsia, heartburn, belching, bad breath, blotchy skin, backaches, dizzy spells due to constipation gasses—or Druggists refund the purchase price.

Every reader who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better and look better, can obtain a bottle of the wonderful new vitaminized herbal Flaxolyn on this liberal offer: If Flaxolyn does not bring satisfactory results by the sixth spoonful, you may bring back the partly used bottle and have the full purchase price refunded! Flaxolyn is free unless it does you good.

WOMEN WITH NERVES MIGHT PROFIT

Lady Says World's Tonic Made Her Life Bearable.

Women who suffer from "Nerves" might profit by the experience of Mrs. G. W. Kinter, of Indiana, Pa., who told an interviewer about months of real distress happily ended by this great medicine. "Life," she said, "was getting unbearable because of my extremely nervous condition. I was so nervous I screamed whenever I heard a sudden noise, and I had neuritis all of the time. Every night when I lay down pains would shoot through my arms and legs, and I lay a long time before I could go to sleep.

"Often I got up in the morning with a severe headache, and I moved around all day as miserable as I could be. Sometimes I thought I was losing my mind. I would lay my pocketbook down on a chair and the next minute forget where it was, or I would start to do something and forget what it was. Every day or so it seemed as if some one was putting a knife right into my back. I had to keep close control of my tongue, because I was so frightened every time an unusual noise occured that I scolded every one around me.

"My children scooted every time they saw me coming, and I do not know how my husband ever stood those awful months. Of course I was treated for these troubles, but I might as well have saved my money. One day I was talking of my troubles with a neighbor, an elderly woman of much experience, who told me that I needed a good tonic, and said the best one she had ever found was the new medicine called World's Tonic. I brought a bottle home with me next day, but thought so little of it that I let it lie on the shelf for a week before I used it.

"I felt so miserable one morning that I got that bottle and began to take the medicine. In a few days I felt better. I began to get rid of the pains, and I had less headache. In a week the headache all disappeared, and I have not had it since. My nerves settled down, I became calmer, and I was not frightened so easily. My children began to come to me, and my husband talked of how much better I was. Now, at the end of five weeks' treatment, I feel well, and I know that I am so, thanks to World's Tonic, a marvel of help to nervous women." World's Tonic can be obtained at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or of any other first class drug store. (A-37)

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID SANFORD

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 11.—(AP.)—The nation tendered its final honor here yesterday to Edward Terry Sanford, justice of the United States Supreme Court, at funeral rites bare of all ceremony save the reading of an abbreviated Episcopal service.

Only the presence of famous personages—among them Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justices Stone, McReynolds and Butler—evidenced the position of the man they were there to revere.

The body and the funeral party arrived here from Washington at 1:30 p. m. Fifty minutes later the body had been carried to the cemetery and the last words of the service had been said by the Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Knoxville.

The service at the grave, at the foot of a hill fringed with pine trees, was said in the presence of Justice Sanford's colleagues, representatives of the Knoxville (Tenn.), and American Bar Associations and of delegations from the Nashville, Greeneville and Chattanooga bars.

Farmer Trips, Gun Accidentally Kills Him

NEWARK, O., March 11.—John Brown, 42, a farmer, was found dead at his home, when a milk agent called at the house to contract for milk. Brown had been dead for 18 hours, and had been accidentally killed by the discharge of a shotgun, he having evidently stumbled as he entered the door, according to the belief of Coroner John Thompson. He leaves his wife and five children. He was alone at the time.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

REALTY HEAD LAUDS CITY

Pittsburgh has combined its industrial and financial growth with cultural development and splendid residential districts, according to Harry S. Kissell, of Springfield, O., first vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, here today to address Pittsburgh realtors at the William Penn Hotel.

Mr. Kissell toured the city this morning and was greatly impressed with the growth of the South Hills. He also spoke of the construction in the downtown district.

In his talk to the realtors, Mr. Kissell said that it is the opinion of the best economists that the bottom of the business depression has been reached and that the country has started on the up grade. A telegraphic survey of the real estate credit condition in all parts of the country show that it is much improved, thus preparing the way for more activity in building and real estate.

MAIL OFFICIAL HEARTY AT 80

Superintendent of Mails L. E. Palmer, 80 years old, spent the day at his duties in the local post office and in receiving congratulations at having reached the eightieth milestone of his life.

One of the oldest members of the office staff, Palmer has not been affected in his activities in the least by the ravages of Old Father Time. He feels, he says, just as hale and hearty now as he did a half century ago. Palmer will be retired automatically August 19, of this year, having had five extensions of two years each from the retirement list.

"I started my career with the postal department," the octogenarian said. "In 1872 as a railway postal clerk and served 18 years, during which I was assigned to Cincinnati and later as Chief Clerk at Indianapolis and Pittsburgh.

"I was appointed superintendent of mails here in 1890 and served till 1916. A change of administration at that time resulted in the demotion of Mr. Palmer until 1922, when he was reappointed to his old position.

He lives at 2974 Mattern avenue, Dormont, is married and has two children and seven grandchildren.

RAIL MERGER PLAN STUDIED

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP.)—Officers and counsel for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads met in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., and considered plans for a unification which would exclude the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, now jointly controlled by the two lines.

An announcement after the meeting to the effect that a formal statement would be made this week was taken in railroad circles here to indicate that progress was being made in the undertaking.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, said the officials were giving "serious consideration" to two conditions outlined for the merger by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which called for divorce of the Burlington and a statement of policy on unified terminal operation.

He said that the other two conditions outlined by the commission, namely the acquisition of short lines and the granting of certain trackage rights to the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, had been met in the merger plan submitted to the commission.

Suicide of Girl Student Blamed On Shakespeare

DETROIT, March 11.—(INS.)—Shakesperian tragedies, particularly those grimmer passages dealing with suicide, were given today as the reason for 17-year-old Lena Aelling, a high school student, to take her own life.

William Hesse, a brother-in-law, who made his home with Lena and her mother, said Lena had been reading some of Shakespeare's works lately and was interested in the passages on suicides.

"I wonder if one can be happier after death?" Hesse quoted her as saying.

FISHER TO FILL MARTIN'S POST SOON

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

GUS FORBES was the most popular member of the George Sharp Stock Company, so far as the audience was concerned. But of more significance is the fact that he was a favorite of those who acted with him, which is the acid test. Temperamental creatures, actors more often than not are jealous of each other. Forbes wanted everybody to succeed, everybody wanted him to succeed.

He was in the hospital when the doctors told him that his was an incurable malady. He said, "Well, there's no use sticking around here then," and he put on his clothes and went back to rehearsals. He knew that he was going to die and he said that he preferred to pass on in the theater. He remained with his company until he was physically incapable.

In the four seasons he was with the Sharp Players he played more than 100 roles. Probably he is best remembered for his performance in "The Music Master," in which he played the role made famous by David Warfield.

The best story to come out of the so-called unemployment demonstrations reaches us from Newcomerstown, O., whose population is perhaps small, but enthusiastic. G. B. Meyer reports that the parade of the unemployed there was utterly ruined when three of the permanent loafers refused to march unless they were paid for their efforts.

HERBERT ASBURY has turned his literary talents in the direction of the gentleman whose contribution to another generation was the Tom and Jerry. The inventor was Prof. Jerry Thomas and the concoction was a contraction of the professor's name. Mr. Asbury does him the honor of writing that he was the greatest bartender in American history.

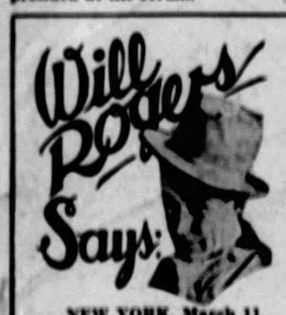
In "The Bon Vivant's Companion" you learn that Prof. Thomas concocted not only the Tom and Jerry, but the Blue Blazer, a mixture for the bravest. The professor introduced the Tom and Jerry first in St. Louis, as the Copenhagen, but the citizens of that town would submit to no such foreign label and the change was demanded. We shall not take up valuable space by revealing the professor's recipe.

However, there is no harm in listing a few of the drinks of 30 years ago or more: Tansy and Gin, Tea Punch, White Lion,

West Indian Punch, Thirty-second Regiment, Spread Eagle Punch, Coffee Cocktail, Catawba Cobbler, Aromatic Tincture, Bimbo Punch, Saratoga Brace-Up and, we have no doubt, a bit of water.

Urges Hospital Here For Mental Diseases

Speaking at the psychology forum of the University of Pittsburgh late yesterday afternoon, George R. Bedinger, executive director of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, urged the establishment in Pittsburgh of a state psychiatric hospital. Mr. Bedinger advocated such a hospital as the best known institution for the study of mental disease and method of its prevention. Dr. Manuel Elmer, head of the university's sociology department, presided at the forum.



NEW YORK, March 11.

GOOD chance now for President Hoover to smoke Mr. Coolidge out and see how he stands on the future. Offer him this Supreme Court vacancy. If Mr. Coolidge refused to take it, it would show that he had other ideas in his head, because it's been pretty well the idea of his coming back and run for president.

But poor Mr. Hoover, whoever he appoints, that Senate will hold a two weeks clinic over the body. Just off hand, Lindbergh would be the only one I know of that they might let pass. And I'll bet there would be a couple object to him.

Your,

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Boys Use Captured Cat for Target Practice

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

A COMBINATION of many knightly souls mixed with the blood of all the mighty Nimrods and Daniel Boones—add a touch of savage scalping zest—is in every small boy. Sometimes, this is hardly clear, because of his particular manner of headlong hunting, chasing, coursing in full hue-and-cry. It is somewhat of a comedown to the chasing of alley cats, but that perchance may be the only practical adventure in immediate prospect.

It has been true of boys, since the beginning, that they chase cats on sight, and yelp joyously at them. Paul Ireland, one of our associate cat-chasers—son of Maj. Ireland, who later became surgeon-general of the Army—yelped at cats in a penetrative tone such as could be heard two blocks, down Massachusetts avenue.

"Listen!" Q said abruptly. "Paul has treed a cat! Hurry! Hurry!"

We bounded away, coming upon Paul, at the base of a tree, eying the cat through his goggle-glasses, and ever and anon throwing his head back to yelp. . . .

For the cat, matters were complicated by the fact that it had been chased out of a limb by another cat, and in his, or her excitement, has finally slipped, hung for a moment by its claws, and fallen to the sidewalk, to be caught by Paul, whose cheek was clawed. Q fell upon Paul, and the Gang piled on top of all three, and held them down until we were sure of the capture of the cat. We took turns carrying it to the White House. . . .

Target Practice
Boys Shoot Arrows at Captive Cat

During its dangerous and somewhat painful progress, the cat had assumed the character of a wild and vicious animal, and we considered ourselves in the light of some noble band, which had succeeded in ridding the forest of one of the smaller, cross-roads dragons. This dragon we finally secured by tying some clothesline about his neck and giving him some 30 feet of the most exciting freedom in the south garden. A catnip ball, found by Q in the depths of a box in his room, was dragged about in circuitous ways about the gardens, for half a mile or more, expecting that the animal would follow it just as a foxhound would the drag. Then we rubbed its nose in the trail, but it showed no interest whatever in the proceedings, and hardly deigned to play with the catnip ball when we presented it directly.

Finally, Q conceived the brilliant idea of tethering the cat to a big stone, tied to the end of the clothesline. Thus anchored, we shot at it with bow-and-arrow. Suddenly we became aware of official notice of our target practice, TR calling to us from the south portico.

"That's not at all sporting!" he cried. "The cat can only go in a circle, and a small one at that. You're not giving him half a chance. Now if he were free, and some of you were beaters, to shoo him out of the bushes, so that others could get running shots at him, that would be better. Moreover: some of the beaters and the hunters might stand a chance of being wounded, which seems only fair to me. As a matter of fact, it is only because you are such poor shots, that you haven't filled him full of arrows, half a dozen times over—"

Observed
President Flushes, Orders Animal's Release

"Practice," Q responded in his, and our defence, "makes perfect—"

"Yes, yes, I know," TR agreed. "But don't you think you'd better practice on something better than a cat?"

Quentin looked dubious.

TR came down the curving steps of the portico, and directed our energies in a trial of distance-shots. "A well-shot shaft." "Pull back to the ear, like an ancient archer with his grey-goose quill." "Account for windage." "Oh! a w f u l!"—such was some of his running comment.

By this time, we were being watched from the windows of the State-War-Navy building. TR glanced in that direction, and his face flushed.

"The cat! Release the cat!" he cried suddenly. "They'll think, over there, that I'm shooting at the cat! Here's a pretty mess! I can see the newspaper, tomorrow, telling the far corners of the country that my favorite sport is shooting, with bow-and-arrow, at a tethered cat. 'The President has only killed four cats this week,' they'll say, 'a poor showing for him, since the presidential cats supplied, are meek, mild creatures, with no great fight in them. . . .'"

Source of Fun
Quentin Has Weakness For Joke Books

Q and the Gang laughed, but began, also, to see the point. "It would be almost as bad for us, wouldn't it, if they told the story on us?" asked Q.

"Worse!" TR replied—"far worse. For you are of the younger and more humane generation, and supposed to know better—"

The cat was released and, as Paul yelped, it squeezed through the iron fence, and made off in the direction of the Monument. A few minute later TR, to his t r e m e n d o u s embarrassment, broke one of our bows—a fortunate accident, because, later in the afternoon, a messenger appeared, with a new target, and bigger and better bows, for all of us.

As TR left to return to his official duties, he faced round to us, and said, in his emphatic way: "If you capture something really sporting to shoot at—something fast, and strong, and dangerous to life and limb—please let me know, at once. Otherwise, I shall not be interested, nor, do I think, should you. I'm not joking about this—"

Joke books were one of Q's failings. Piled together, he spent a heap of his allowance buying them, and worked assiduously through them, to find jokes about his father. "The worse they are against him," he explained once, "the better he likes them. Archie found a fearful one, a couple of weeks ago, and I'm still frantic to find a fearfuller."

It was from such incidentals, perhaps, that the Gang learned most.

The Principal
Scouts Give Warning When He Is Sighted

TR's instruction was, always, far more effective than anything we received at school. There, our elders contemplated us with profound misgiving, baffled, more or less, by the impossibility of ever doing anything with us. They, themselves, had not learned, that we were reasonable, a m e n a b l e young creatures.

Even Ben W. Murch, who as teacher, principal and division supervisor is remembered vividly by large numbers that passed through Washington schools, would turn away from us and walk away, heavily, to his office, a sorely-tried man, carrying a load of responsibility, of which the presence of the youngest Roosevelt formed no small part. "Cheese it! Murch!" was the warning cry of both schoolyard and class-

That's what one Gil Heyden tried to do yesterday to a curious but suspicious downtown crowd which refused to buy.

After inquiring whether he himself might buy one, the Magistrate discharged the defendant, who was employed by the exploitation department of the Stanley Theater.

Fifty cents for installing a bathtub will be the rule if Council passes an ordinance that was introduced yesterday.

The ordinance provides that, before installing plumbing or drainage fixtures, the builder must file a plan and $5 with the Bureau of Sanitation. MANY SEEK PLACE ON BENCH

Gardner, Dithrich, Clark and Waldschmidt Supported For Vacant Judgeship

Gov. John S. Fisher, due to return soon from a vacation, is expected to act promptly in appointing a successor to the late Judge Richard W. Martin in order to prevent further congestion of court procedure.

Judge Martin's death and the absence of four of the elder jurists reduce the membership of Common Pleas Court bench from 14 to nine.

Judges absent through illness or vacations are Josiah Cohen, John A. Evans, Thomas J. Ford and Thomas D. Carnahan.

GARDNER INDORSED

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner is frequently mentioned for the vacant judgeship and his friends believe his recommendations merit Gov. Fisher's favorable consideration.

Gardner was reported to have been indorsed by numerous leading attorneys and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who is also Republican county chairman.

County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich is said to be a close rival of Gardner and his supporters seem confident that Dithrich will be elevated to the bench.

In 1927, Dithrich was one of nine candidates who ran for as many judgeships on a ticket backed by the Republican county organization.

Judges James H. Gray, Frank P. Patterson and the late Judge Martin ran as independent Republicans and were elected over Dithrich, Judge Nelson McVicar and Judge Edward C. Chalfant.

Since then Judge McVicar was appointed a judge of Federal Court and Judge Chalfant to Orphans Court.

COLEMAN MENTIONED

William H. Coleman also has been mentioned for the vacancy. He managed the Herbert Hoover Presidential campaign in Allegheny County.

Friends of Mayor Charles H. Kline were said to be urging City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt for the vacant judgeship. He appeared to have won an enviable reputation as the head of the city's legal department and is believed to have the unanimous indorsement of City Council.

Some of Kline's supporters are hoping the judgeship will be given to Safety Director James M. Clark and that Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh be promoted to the safety directorship.

City to Sell Water To Shaler Township

An agreement by which the city will furnish water to Shaler Township was introduced in Council yesterday. Four thousand people are involved. Under the agreement the city will install meters. The amount of water to be used is estimated at 45,000 gallons daily and the city's quarterly revenue is estimated at $746.

Frank H. Schaffer, manager of the natural resources division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Bridgeville Chamber of Commerce to be held St. Patrick's night, March 17, in Bonnett's ballroom, Bridgeville. The committee in charge is headed by James A. Ellis, chairman.

Paper Distributor Freed In Taxicab Attack

A charge of contempt of court against Edward Nord, of Oakland, a district newspaper distributor for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in connection with the taxicab strike, was dismissed by Judge James R. Macfarlane, after a hearing yesterday in Common Pleas Court.

The petition, presented by the Pittsburgh Transportation Company, operating Green cabs, alleged Nord violated the existing injunction by hurling a piece of heavy pipe through a Green cab windshield February 19, at Forbes and Atwood streets.

Nord was arrested in his office in the Forbes Building after the disturbance. A number of witnesses of the disturbance testified that Nord did not hurl the pipe, contradicting testimony by taxicab drivers and guards and a policeman. Hearing of other contempt cases was postponed until tomorrow.

HURT BY AUTO, $50,000 ASKED

Mrs. Agnes Hartman, of McKeesport, seeking to recover $50,000 damages for injuries received when struck by an automobile, filed a suit in Common Pleas Court, joined in by her husband, Leo A. Hartman, against E. S. Shupe, of McKeesport.

The suit alleged that while Mrs. Hartman was crossing Versailles avenue, McKeesport, November 5, last, she was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by Shupe.

Burglar Suspect Captured on Roof

John Glancey, 34, "no home," today was held in the Central Police Station on a suspicious person charge following his capture last night on a roof of the Kirner Book Store, at 309 Market street, according to police. Glancey was forcing the skylight when the burglar alarm was sounded, police said.

Police Flayed by Lawyer For Seizing Liquor

"Why pick Dr. Thomas out of 20,000,000 or more Americans who have bootleg liquor in their homes?"

That question was asked by Attorney Ward Bonsall at a hearing before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, on the government's libel suit against four 10-gallon kegs of whisky seized September 29, 1929, in the home of Dr. DeLano C. Thomas, 416 Willow avenue, Edgewood.

The seizure was made by Edgewood police and the suit was "adopted" by the government, which now seeks to have the liquor condemned and forfeited to the government.

Attorney Bonsall, counsel for Dr. Thomas, said the seizure was unlawful. He declared there is no law against having liquor in one's home; that it was illegal to seize it without evidence of sale or manufacture. It was confiscated without authority of a search and seizure warrant, he concluded. The government claimed it unlawful to possess contraband liquor, and therefore the liquor is subject to condemnation.

Dr. Thomas, who has offices in the Forbes building, on the witness stand, told of Chief of Police John Dyer, of Edgewood, and two patrolmen, going to his home after midnight. He said that one of them had visited there before "socially" and he invited them into the house.

They informed him, he testified, that it was an official visit as they were on search of a still. No still was found, but, according to the testimony the police found the four kegs of liquor in a bin in the cellar.

Judge Gibson reserved his decision.

BOA MEAT NICE, EXPLORERS SAY

Boa constrictor for breakfast, lizard for lunch and fox for dinner doesn't make a very good diet, according to members of the Carnegie Museum expedition just returned from Venezuela.

"Of these," M. Graham Netting, assistant Curator of Herpetology at the Museum and head of the expedition, claims, "boa constrictor is the best. Well, anyhow, as good as the best."

The party went to the eastern part of Venezuela to collect specimens for scientific study or museum exhibition. Netting's special mission was to collect herpetological specimens—to the layman—just snakes.

With him was Harold J. Clement, anxious to find new or rare kinds of birds in Venezuelan mountains.

"Meat," says Netting, "was the one thing we forgot to take in. Which meant we could either return to the coast or take what we had.

"We ate boa constrictors, tree porcupines, tapirs, iguanas (small, lizard-like reptiles), a rattlesnake or two, even a fox—and we," he smiled a wry smile, "liked them."

BOA LIKE CHICKEN

According to Clement, "boa constrictor tastes very nice, something like chicken — if you're hungry."

One of the purposes of the expedition was to help chart the type of serum to be shipped to the interior for treatment of snakebite.

Besides snakes and armadillos, humming birds, toucans, lizards, the party brought back many trinkets, toys, articles of clothing of the Venezuelan.

Netting and Clement stated that a number of rare specimens with which they returned will probably be of considerable scientific value.

Clark Again Seeks Curb on Fireworks

A "safe and sane" Fourth of July is the aim of an ordinance sent to Council yesterday by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark. The same ordinance failed last year.

It would make it possible for the City to control the sale and display of fireworks, require dealers to take out licenses costing $100 each, prohibit the sale of fireworks in any frame structure and require fire extinguishers or the sprinkler system, according to the size of the building.

SEEK IDENTITY OF WOMAN

Morgue attaches today were endeavoring to establish the identity of a woman, about 50, found dead in bed late yesterday in a room at the Nixon Hotel, 974 William Penn way.

The woman, according to police, accompanied a man who registered as Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson, of Connellsville, Pa., at the hotel Wednesday night. An autopsy disclosed that she died from pneumonia.

Police reported finding several empty whisky bottles in the room. Among her effects, the deputy coroners found papers on which the name "Mary Cavanaugh" was written.

JURY SELECTED TO TRY WOMAN

Elizabeth Heffner, 32, Negro, the first woman to be tried for murder in Allegheny County since the acquittal of Mrs. Angelina Bove nearly two years ago, sat with an unmoved countenance today while the state offered its evidence against her. She is charged with killing James Forsyne, 36, Negro, her common-law mate in their home at 551 Lowell street last December 9.

He was cut with a razor and stabbed with an ice pick.

Letters calling customers' attention to overdue accounts and stressing terms of sale, were emphasized by the speakers. Questions regarding the passage of a proposed garnishee law were referred to the board of directors of the merchant owned Credit Bureau, Inc.

Several young women from the Credit Bureau presented a playlet "Wanted — A Cook." A dinner preceded the business program. President H. E. Wilson of the credit association presided.

31st Ward Alley Named "Vote Alley"

One of the greatest privileges of an American citizen is to be commemorated in the name of a Pittsburgh street.

One of 31 un-named alleys in the Thirty-first Ward is to be called "Vote Way" by an ordinance being considered by Council. Another ordinance changes the names of a large number of streets in the new ward. The names, according to the Department of Public Works, have been submitted to residents for approval.

Lang Warns Council On Street Repairs

Councilmen should notify the Department of Public Works when they present ordinances widening and opening streets, Director Edward G. Lang suggested in a letter to that body.

The department has found, he wrote, instances where such ordinances were being acted upon by Council without the knowledge of the city engineers.

A writ of mandamus to compel the removal of one and one-half inches of a garage wall extending over a property line was asked in an action in equity filed in Common Pleas Court by Edward J. Farren and his wife, Ann L. Farren, against Mrs. Isabella Davis.

The Farrens, who live at 5739 Kentucky avenue, averred that the garage of Mrs. Davis, on the property adjoining, encroaches one and one-half inches and the roof of the garage extends four inches over their property. They asked that a fence be restored on the line.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Would you rather see complete harmony in the state Republican organization than the present turbulent state which indicates there will be three strong aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination at the primaries?

ROBERT CLARK, City Clerk, Downtown: "Yes, I would rather see complete harmony in any political group because harmony works out for the interests of both the candidates and the voters. Everyone knows that factional warfare is extremely costly. More results can be accomplished by harmonious action than by any other course that might be pursued."

Robert Clark

JOHN HERRON, president City Council, Downtown: "Harmony rather than a turbulent state, always brings about better and more complete results. Harmony gives a better opportunity for the party to work for the betterment of the state. Factional warfare never pays. It costs a lot of money. Harmony results in many beneficial results both to the state and voters."

John Herron

RICHARD SMITH, City Fire Chief, City-County Building: "I like to see harmony at all times. It is the best method to pursue in any line of endeavor at any and all times. More results can be accomplished with harmony at any time."

Richard Smith

EDNA FALCK, secretary, Avalon: "No, it isn't the best policy to have harmony in the primaries, but it is all right after the nomination is won. Then I say, the Republican party should stick to the candidate it nominates. The best interests of the voters are served when they are able to pick out the candidate they feel best suited to the job rather than being forced to accept one named by a perfectly harmonized group."

Miss Falck

SAMUEL J. RENO, Duquesne Heights: "It is my firm belief that harmony is more desirable than anything else in politics, and especially in a gubernatorial race. The interests of the state and the voters can be served better by such a policy. Everyone knows that factional warfare is extremely costly, both in public service and in results to the public the constituent represents."

Samuel J. Reno

C. C. MOSIER, executive, Oakland: "Harmony is all right if the right candidate is put up for the nomination and election. But the best idea for the voters is to have three or four candidates running for the office, so that he has ample opportunity to judge the merits of the man he thinks best fitted for office. This applies to the senatorial race as well as that for governor."

2 CANDIDATES IN RACE FOR PLACE

Post Twice Made Vacant By Death Sought by Leaders in District

Death has twice made vacant the office of judge of election in the Second Precinct of the Fifth Ward since the November election, but, despite the apparent jinx, two men have filed applications for the position in Quarter Sessions Court.

Mrs. Mary Feldman, wife of City Assessor Harry Feldman, who is also Kline leader in the Fifth Ward, was judge of elections until her death December 10, ten days later Isaac Hall, Negro, was appointed to the position on application filed by Attorney Ralph Smith, of the Malone faction. Hall died March 6 and today the applications of James J. Tennyson, 2127 Wylie avenue, and Johhn Caldwell, 2122 Wylie avenue, are before the court. Judge Harry H. Rowand set March 20 for a hearing.

Two candidates are also seeking the judgeship of elections in the Fourth District of Ross Township, made vacant by the death of John T. Jackman. They are J. Edward Funston, Courtney Mill road, and Wilbur L. Gass, Gass road. Their hearing will be held March 21.

For judge of the Fourth precinct of the Second Ward of East Pittsburgh, Paul Orris, the judge, has moved away. Flors Owens, 312 Howard street, and John Petruska, 423 Ridge avenue, have filed petitions asking the appointment. Their hearing will be held March 18.

14 Flee W. Va. Jail; 2 Captured by Posse

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., March 11. (INS.)—Fourteen prisoners escaped from the McDowell County Jail at Welch early today but only 12 made good their escape. Clell Cline and Denver Allen were captured at nearby Bottom Creek by a posse headed by Howard Sly, chief of police of Welch.

Jailors said the convicts opened their cell doors with a duplicate key, and that they cut a wire leading to a bell in the officers' sleeping room before fleeing. All were serving short sentences for minor violations.

GIRL WITNESS MISSING 8 DAYS

The Missing Persons Bureau today was conducting a search for Margaret Ryan, 21, of 6585 Frankstown avenue, who disappeared March 3.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Nora Ryan, who reported her disappearance, told attaches of the bureau that she feared her daughter was abducted. Miss Ryan vanished on the eve of a Criminal Court trial at which she was an important witness. She left her home for the Miller Sandwich Inn, at 408 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, which she opened every morning. Other employes found the door locked and the key under the front door mat.

25 Dwellers Prefer Beltzhoover Name

Another hearing on the proposal to change the name of Beltzhoover avenue is a possibility since 25 residents have protested to Council against a new designation. They insist that the name should be retained because it has historical significance and commemorates the memory of a man who was prominent in the community for his good deeds.

Last week a group of residents desiring the change tentatively suggested "Tulane avenue," a proposal which most of the members of Council appeared to favor.

Failure in an attempt to effect a reconciliaton prompted Harold Prescott, 23, of Bethel Township, to shoot his wife, Jean, 22, and then himself, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jessie Dalrymple, Park avenue, Bethel Township, late yesterday, county detectives said.

With a bullet wound near his heart, Prescott, a truck driver for the Mutual Supply Company, at Mollenauer, was in a critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today. Mrs. Prescott, shot in the left arm, was treated by a nearby physician.

After shooting his wife he fired at Miss Madge Keddy, 18, of Brightwood, a visitor, and Mrs. Dalrymple, police said. He then fired a bullet into his chest.

THINK YOUTH DROWNED

Charles Pitichik

When a launch in which he and four others were crossing the stream caught fire Sunday night rescuers failed to pick him up, although the others were reported safe. A search over the river in the area of the fire, near Woods Run, failed to locate the body.

Pitichik gained the commendation of the magistrate in Morals Court last February 7, when he appeared there, accused of battering down a door of a restaurant. He told the court his father became intoxicated in the alleged restaurant and he used a poker to crash the door and get him out and home.

The court discharged him with compliments.

ERLANGER'S KIN RUN THEATERS

NEW YORK, March 11.—(INS.)—The nationwide theatrical enterprises of the late A. L. Erlanger will go on as heretofore, it was announced today at the Erlanger offices.

Control of the properties of the "Napoleon of the theater" virtually passed into the hands of Mitchell Erlanger, brother of the deceased, and his two sisters, Miss Ray Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman. These three were willed the entire $75,000,000 estate of the theatrical producer.

Following the filing of the document, Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Charlotte Leslie Fiscal, who says she was the common-law wife of Erlanger, declared that his client would continue to "fight for all her rights."

It was reported today that the heirs to the Erlanger fortune are anxious to avoid court action, if possible. Whether adjustment of the claim by Mrs. Fiscal will be made out of court remained to be seen. Neither side would comment on the report.

Erlanger, in his will, specifically declared he was "unmarried." The name of Mrs. Fiscal was not mentioned.

Sophie Levin Wills Mother Life Estate, Thanks Others

The will of Sophie Levin, probated this morning, leaves her mother, Esther Levin, a life estate with monthly payments of $100. The will requests that the mother shall live with no relatives, but establish a small home of her own.

At the death of her mother, the residue, according to the will, shall be divided among a nephew, three nieces and two sisters. Even though Miss Levin was widely known as a social worker, no money was left to charity.

To Carnegie Library the right to select and use any literature left by Miss Levin was granted.

All those who were associated with and aided her in charitable work were thanked, and credited with any success which she had won in welfare work.

The total value of the estate is not estimated.

East Deer Township police arrested Frank Powlak, 28, of Brackenridge, as the owner of the car. Police said today they were searching for the driver, who fled after the accident.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Gay Colored Gowns Seen At Theaters Suggest Gardens of Spring

YESTERDAY made us all think of the languorous days of spring, and last night the theaters with their gayly dressed audiences reminded one of spring gardens.

At the Alvin Theater the National Park Alumnae Association sponsored a benefit performance of "Follow Thru," and at the Nixon appeared "The Vanities of 1930."

The Alvin was filled with alumnae and their friends, with the boxes and the orchestra filled with smartly dressed men and women. Vivid colors featured the gowns worn with the aides and the various committee members looking particularly attractive.

Between acts the foyer and the lounge of the theater were thronged with gayly gowned women and their escorts. Among those I noticed were the William A. Duckhams. Mrs. Duckham wore a charming gown of cream lace trimmed with tiers of ruffles in the back and quaint bows of chartreuse green velvet. And a ruffled bertha collar of the lace accentuated the low back decolletage. Her wrap was of silver metal cloth collared in white fox, and lined in deep dawn pink velvet.

Colorful Costumes

Most distinctive was one of the aides, Mrs. A. J. P. Vandermyn, who wore a long clinging gown of black crepe with a novel v-decolletage in the back. And a quaint touch in her costume was given by long black gloves.

Florence Gilliland was in yellow taffeta. Mrs. Geier Shidle, I noticed, and Mrs. Ernest R. Braun wore green satin.

Mrs. C. Bradley Gibson wore red satin; Miss Harriet Hespenheide, black lace, and Mrs. R. J. Alderdice, green satin. Mrs. John Jones chose peach taffeta; Elizabeth Ewing, green satin, and Mary Alice Semple, green tulle.

Novel Gowns

Mrs. J. P. Provost wore green chiffon; Mrs. William Duff, printed crepe; Mrs. O. G. Butts, black lace; Mary Belle Meals, pale green satin; Mrs. William P. Ewart, green crepe, and Mrs. A. W. Meals, deep blue lace. Flowered chiffon was chosen by Mrs. Elmer Thomas, and white chiffon embroidered in crystals by Betty Dougherty. Eleanor Davis was in chartreuse green satin.

AND the Nixon, too, attracted quite a few society people to hear the scintillating music of the Vanities. During the intermission as they were smoking in the foyer I saw Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Jones III, and Mrs. Jones was wearing a smart gown of emerald green crepe, featuring rows of shirring at the molded waist line, and an extremely long skirt with a brief train. She was wearing a coat of mink too, as she left.

Foyers Thronged

I saw Louise Evans wearing an interesting gown of deep cherry red lace, with a deep decolletage. The skirt was formed of two deep ruffles, extremely long in the back, reaching the instep in front. Her wrap was of gold metallic cloth embroidered in the same red as her gown, with a collar of white fox.

I caught a glimpse of the Gordon Kings, and Mrs. King was wearing jade green chiffon with the deep circular decolletage outlined with a narrow frill of the same material.

Waiting for her car after the show I saw Mrs. F. R. Crawford, wearing a lovely gown of deep wisteria lace, and I noticed her slippers echoed the same shade. She wore a coat of black broadcloth with collar and cuffs of sable.

HONOLULU, throbbing with music and color, attracts society folk from everywhere and, of course, from Pittsburgh, too. The William Jackson Crittendens and their debutante daughter, Caroline, of Shields, and Mrs. James B. Oliver, of Sewickley, entertained recently at a large farewell dinner at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, preceding their departure from the resort. There were about 40 guests.

Hawaii Attracts

A similar dinenr was given recently for 22 guests by the Harvey Norton Van Voorhises and their nephew, Donald Scott Rodgers. Many of the Pittsburghers there plan to stay until the middle of April to include in their visit the Aloha Festival of Flowers and Music, which includes the flowering tree season and the Lei Day, May 1, when everyone wears garlands of Hawaii's tropical flowers.

* * *

ROBERT W. FLINIKEN and George M. McCandless, of the Hotel Schenley, are there and the John S. Wellers, of the Schenley apartments, and the C. R. Montgomerys, of Bellevue, the E. W. Pargnys, Mrs. A. Fleming Fell, Miss Clodagh McCune, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, and their deb daughter, Peggy; the William Christopher Robinsons, and their deb daughter, Mary Franklin Robinson, and William C. Robinson, Jr. The Robinsons are to leave soon for California. The J. Paul Butlers are there on their honeymoon, too, you know, and the William B. Klees are there.

City Has Colony

I might add that the William J. Crittendens and their daughter, Carolina, are in Los Angeles, now stopping at the Ambassador.

WATCHING REHEARSAL

Pacific America's Front Door, Lecturer Tells 20th Century Club

"THE Atlantic is America's side door on her kinsmen of Europe, the Pacific is her front door on the world," said Upton Close (or should one say Josef Washington Hall?) in his talk before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday, a talk that was marked by sarcasm and facetiousness, a talk that dealt with only basic facts as seen by the keen student of history who shears them of all idealism.

How "The Pacific Era Arrives" (his subject) for America, "land of paradoxes, of prohibition and idealism, of taxi strikes and philanthropy, of Bill Thompsons and Cathedrals of Learning, a land that bars slot machines and permits the greatest gambling game in the world, the stock market," was the substance of Mr. Close's address.

He gave the vast historic background showing how all the world is tied up together and how the lure of the Orient was the incentive that led Columbus, the Cabots, La Salle, De Soto and others to their actual discoveries; that it was John Ledyard's idea, posthumously carried out, that took the first American ships to China laden with mandrake root when European ports were closed against them that it was trade with China that made the first American millionaires. Mr. Close spoke of the Revolutionary War as "an economic struggle over the price of tea and cotton that has been idealized into a struggle for political freedom and that was won by sheer luck and the usual British blundering."

England has grown weary of "the white man's burden;" the peak of her power was reached at the close of the World War, and the very people who know that she has reached her zenith and is headed for a rapid disintegration are those who are asking for naval parity in London at the present time, he declared. He said no new impulses are coming from Europe today, that all art, poetry, music and sculpture are dominated by oriental influences. America, the half-way nation, is going to be affected by the culture of Asia, and her own new culture will be half-oriental, he prophesied, in painting an encouraging word picture of what East and West have to offer each other.

THE recital which the Twentieth Century Club Choral will give Thursday afternoon in the University Club is under auspices of the music and arts committee. Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton is chairman and has appointed as her committee for the day Mrs. John A. Bell, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. William Jessup Leisenring and Mrs. Francis A. Keating. Tibor de Machula, young Hungarian 'cellist, will appear as soloist with the choral.

IN place of the usual monthly meeting, the home economics department of the Aspinwall Woman's Club, is having a St. Patrick's bridge luncheon this afternoon. The clubhouse will be given over this evening to a meeting of the men of the town for whom the high school orchestra will play and the high school seniors will present a play, "Just Bluff."

A MOST interesting account of her last summer's trip on a freighter to Greece and Turkey was given by Miss Mary Watson Greene, dean of women at Carnegie Tech, before the Monday Luncheon Club yesterday. A requisite of such a mode of travel is that one shall be willing to live simply and be amused by the little things that come along, Miss Greene told her audience, adding an especially interesting word concerning the cosmopolitan character of the crew and the unusual privileges accorded the few passengers by the captain. Her visits to a boys' school outside Salonika and to the Woman's College in Constantinople, the beauties of Greece, the challenging conditions in Turkey and everywhere the kindly spirit towards American women, which she encountered, made a part of the informal but most delightful talk. Miss Greene was introduced by Miss Ella Ruth Boyce, president of the club.

THE Women's International League for Peace will open to the public the dinner which it will give next Tuesday night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. in honor of Miss Kathleen Courtney, one of the founders of the league, and, for the last six years, chairman of the British section.

DR. ARTHUR PILLSBURY and his extremely interesting and unusual motion pictures of plant and animal life gave the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club an exceptionally enjoyable afternoon yesterday. Dr. Pillsbury showed pictures of marine animals and of germinating plants and told of an expedition which he will conduct to the Fiji Islands for further extension of his work.

CHARMING SUITS OF WOOL FAVORED FOR SPRING WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 11.—Woolen yarns spin the story of the smart, jaunty little suits that take their place between the strictly tailored variety and the elaborate "dressmaker" affairs that are to be of such importance this season. These suits that are not really of any definite category are expected to find many friends among the members of the younger set who will want neither the tailleur nor the elaborate suit for every day activities. Tweeds, homespuns are of course the ideal medium for these "little" suits that loom so big on the style horizon. Straight, unlined jackets, frequently without any fastening and sensible skirts are the main features that distinguish such suits, that are essentially "livable," while the simple but smart blouse is usually of handkerchief linen without much trimming. Brown in various shades, and also a grayish-blue mixture are two popular colors for these costumes that will soon be seen in the daily promenade along the Bois that is at its best in the fragrance of spring.

SCHIAPARELLI is featuring the little tweed and homespun suits in her new and very interesting collection, and so, we are pleased to send you a sketch of one that was very much admired. It is of tobacco brown and beige tweed with bandings of darker brown. The straight little coat is box-like in line, and is worn without fastenings of any sort. The skirt arches high in front and is straight in silhouette with a group of short pleats at either side of the back. Like many of Schiaparelli's blouses, a small attached scarf is tied high at the throat, in a large bow. The blouse is of handkerchief linen in a sheer weave.

THE HAT is from Agnes and is of supple toile in pale rose turned back off the face over a closely draped band of dotted rose and white toile, tied in a small bow-knot over one eye. The brim at the sides is somewhat wider than at front and back, and is very simple.

MUSIC, FUN AND MYSTERY ON STAGE WHILE SCREEN OFFERS ROMANCE

By GEORGE SEIBEL

DEMURE debutantes and devout duennas had to work hard at the Alvin Theater last night not to follow through the flying innuendos of the musical comedy based on golf and entitled "Follow Through." There has not been a faster show in town this season—hectic and torrid are the appropriate terms. It is safe to take your grandmother—she won't get the chrome-color jests, though she may think the gowns in the ladies' locker room are somewhat inadequate.

George Seibel

That scene, with the two plumbers marooned on top of the lockers, is the funniest 10 minutes of the entire evening. Nearly as funny and not as naughty is the amateur golfing scene put on by Harry Tighe, who "strikes oil" in his frantic efforts to wreck the green.

Aside from these two scenes, the fun is rather forced. Here's one of those plots where somebody is in love with everybody, and somebody else is trying to get them, and all are running in circles.

Sometimes they stand still or sit down—that's when they have a spicy gag to work off or some rough love-making to stage.

And sometimes they have songs to sing that have zip and zest to them—like "Button Up Your Overcoat" and "I Want to Be Bad," in both of which Peggy O'Neill supplies the zip and zest, with considerable help from Bobby Jarvis.

Joe Miller Of Golf

The most innocuous and yet amusing element of the exhibit is the encyclopedia of golf jokes scattered through the two acts. There is the golf ball that can't be lost, if it could be found, and there is the invention of a golf club for hitting balls behind trees.

The philosophy of golf is summed up in the analysis of one man's game whose only fault is that "he stands too close to the ball after he hits it."

But these innocent diversions at the Bound Brook Country Club would not suffice to carry the show. Mostly it depends on lingerie straps and quips your dear old grandmothr will not understand—bless her soul!

The men have "it," and the women talk about "libido" and even the charming heroine drinks four cocktails straight to get ready for tomorrow's game. If there were a chance to get a double entendre out of David Thursby's Scotch burr, it would be extracted.

There were also some very beautiful spectators' sport frocks to which the most rigid moralist could file no exception.

"My Lucky Star," sung by Jerry, alias Warren Hull, with voice and feeling, is a very singable song. "Then I'll Have Time for You," sung by Betty Junod and Eddie Tamblyn has a ripping comedy lilt. And there are others like these, mostly in a very jazzy mood.

Good dancing, of course, is to be expected—but it is specially good. Audrey Christy has a solo number that's particularly fetching. Nayan Pearce dances with abandon in "He's a Man's Man" and other bits. The grotesqueries of Peggy O'Neill are infectious, while Lilian Bond wins favor by the vivacity and charm of youth.

That is one of the chief elements in this revue, for the plot is so negligible that it's hardly more than a revue. Youth and gayety, in principals and chorus—dewy freshness in the costumes—and no regard for the opinions of Queen Victoria in the business of getting laughs.

Really, it was hard work for the demure debutantes and devout duennas of the National Park Seminary, who were having a benefit, to follow through the good old rule of "Honi soit qui mal y pense." Hard work, but worth while.

HUMAN CAT PURSUES FAIR HEROINE IN PITT MYSTERY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Have a wealthy gentleman write a crazy sort of will, then have him oblige by dying and there is no limit to what may result.

John Willard must have realized this when he wrote that mystery of his, "The Cat and the Canary," which George Sharp has revived in the Pitt. It is a spine-chilling, laugh-spilling production.

A strange will, read at midnight in a somber mansion 20 years after the death of its eccentric millionaire owner, starts the play's action off on its sliding-panel way.

Before the Dawn

Six prospective heirs assemble to learn the contents of the document. And what a time they have before the dawn comes! And what a time the audience has before 11 o'clock arrives!

Like a canary in a cage, with the cat hanging about, the heroine, who is named sole heir to the estate, finds herself fluttering about. You can't blame her, either. Though she knows the cat can't harm a bird through cage bars, she can't be sure for herself. As a cage, that gloomy house isn't much help to her. Grabbing hands reach out from apparently no where and the very walls themselves open up like yawning jaws. More than that, there is a human "cat" stalking about.

As for the Cast

The play gets good presentation from Mr. Sharp. The cast does some effective emoting. We applaud the whole lineup: Harland Tucker, Edith King, Billy Link, Henry Wadsworth, Mabel Kroman, Robert Fiske, Alice Ann Baker, Walter F. Jones, Lucette Parker and Joseph Lawrence.

But we mustn't neglect the fellow who made the will. Though he doesn't appear in spite of the talk of spooks, he really is responsible for the entertaining evening. And some day, maybe, Mystery Drama will realize it owes a monument to eccentric millionaires, who make strange wills.

New Elephant Hunt Planned by Wales

KAMPALA, Uganda, British East Africa, March 11.—(AP.)—Friends of the Prince of Wales are remarking how well he looks for a man who has just been down with sub-tertian malaria.

The prince was at the wheel of a large, high-powered motor car during the entire 80-mile drive from Tororo here yesterday. Upon arriving at Entebbe, he played 18 holes of golf, remarking to Provincial Commissioner Postlethwaite, who met him at Jinja.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST UP-TO-DATE IN PENN BY ELINOR GLYN

With Warner Baxter playing the lead and Elinor Glyn responsible for the scenario, the flapper who has outgrown Hans Christian Andersen need go no further this week than the Penn Theater to grow up. "Such Men Are Dangerous" is the title of the screen romance, but it might as well be called "Beauty and the Beast."

Warner Baxter is the richest man in the world, but so ugly and ungallant that his bride runs away from him on their wedding night.

After the loveliest church wedding and a bridal gift of one million pounds, such a desertion would discourage the most optomistic of bridegrooms. But this one is really dangerous.

Enter the Beautician

He goes, not to a wicked sorcerer, but to a plastic surgeon, who spends a year in making him as handsome as Warner Baxter.

He is supposed to be dead, so it is no wonder his widow falls in love with him when he buys a kiss for 20,000 francs at a charity bazar in Paris. The kiss is delivered to a little boy—as the first installment of the spurned bridegroom's long distance revenge.

At last the remodeled millionaire wins the love of his own widow—but then he can't spurn her any more, and by now they are on their way to South America.

All of which is beautifully shown by Warner Baxter and Catharine Dale Owen, with many magnificent gowns and a profusion of courtly graces. The story may not be true, but neither is Hans Christian Andersen.

Here's a Human Farm

The most remarkable part of a very good stage show is Milo, who is made up like a tramp and can counterfeit any noise upon the farm from the bob-white to Young Dog Tray.

Then there is a dancer, Sammy Krevoff, who is a human top.

And piano-playing by Leon Navara, guest master of ceremonies, that proves he could make good as a comedian or a gymnast—which Paderewski couldn't.

And acrobatics by six Gypsy Daredevils who can find a place to sit no matter how far they fall.

Even Elinor Glyn's grouchy millionaire would have enjoyed the stage show even before he had his face lifted.

"Vanity Fair of 1930," Nixon Offering, Has Its Moments

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

GEORGE E. WINTZ, who recently brought Mitzi back to Pittsburgh in "Sari," and a short time previously offered "The Vagabond King," sent another of his productions, "Vanity Fair of 1930," to the Nixon last night. It is a revue featuring Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield. While it lacks novelty, and much of its better material is dated, and some of its wares are less than fair in quality, it is not a bad bargain.

They are not asking $4.40 or even $3.50, hence, based on comparative admission charge for revue type of entertainment, it is an amusement that leaves little sting.

Dancer High Spot

It is quite worth while just to watch Norma Gallo, easily the high spot of the bill, do her graceful dances. She does it so easily and prettily. And it is quite worth while to watch Danny Beck manipulate his drumsticks. Another Jack Powell, this chap, and, with Miss Gallo, plenty of reason for remembering part of "Vanity Fair" with pleasure.

Patrons also will get a kick from "Shadowgraphs," an illusion that, while it is not new, is startling and effective. Shadows cast by persons and objects behind a screen by means of lights of two colors from different angles, viewed through lenses of two colors, which are provided, are a source of a lot of fun. As they move forward toward the screen they appear to come right into the face of each spectator.

Screams of Delight

Imagine the screams, for instance, when the shadow is that of a spider, or a thrown ball, or a spear in the hands of what appears to be a savage, or a young woman disrobing and throwing her garments seemingly right into one's face! They are screams of delight, not fright. While not new, this illusion is not stereotyped either, hence it clicks perceptibly.

Miss Mayfield and Mr. Lean, stars of the production, are prominent in the skits and do several specialties in a vocal way. Elaine Pring and Carl Byal also sing.

Fall Kills Navy's Champion Swimmer

GUAM, March 11. — (AP.) — Claude J. Walters, radio man of the United States Navy here, and one of the outstanding swimmers of the Navy, was killed yesterday in a fall from the roof of a boat house. GREAT OPEN SPACES SPILL ACTION IN ALDINE

"The Lone Star Ranger," one of those galloping dramas of the wide-open spaces, is the new attraction on the Aldine screen. It is an all-talk version of the Zane Grey story. And it is a whiz of a "western."

The plot concerns a young bandit, quick on the trigger, who joins up with the Texas Rangers and, almost single-handed, rounds up a gang of cattle rustlers and foils a bank robbery.

The action, most of which occurs out of doors, rides along at a swift pace and builds to an effective climax. Horsemen, silhoutted against the skyline, ride into the dawn and into the film's big moment. One group, Texas Rangers, represent law and order. Another group, badmen, represent the lawlessness of the west that was. And when the two groups meet there comes a terific symphony of gunplay.

But all isn't boom-boom and galloping horsemen. Love has its way of getting into these screen dramas and so, when the smoke of battle clears away, the hero and heroine find each other's arms.

George O'Brien and Sue Carol head the cast. And it is a good cast, even though Sue seems a bit out of her element in her present role.

Yes—in story, cast, direction, scenic effects and, well, in just about everything—"The Lone Star Ranger" is as good a "western" as has come to our town in many moons. And it packs a better entertainment wallop than "In Old Arizona" did.

The NEW CINEMA bob accentuates the north-country type of dainty Elaine Melchoir of Columbia Talking Pictures fame. Her lovely hair is a striking example to show the importance of proper care.
No trouble, now, to have soft, easy-to-manage, lustrous hair!...
Modern hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.
Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair. Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair, makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine, makes it easy-to-manage. And it holds the hair in place for hours.
The consistent use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year is proof of its merit.

A Girl's Complexion

A BEAUTIFUL complexion depends largely upon the blood and the circulation. A satiny skin, pink cheeks and bright eyes depend upon the blood beneath. Enrich the blood, and the skin will take care of itself.

If you need good red corpuscles, strength, vivacity and health, take a safe and sane tonic made from native roots, which has stood the test of sixty years of approval by the American people—namely, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is made without alcohol and is safe to take in small or large doses.

It is surprising how quickly you feel the effects of this wonderful tonic. All druggists dispense it in fluid or tablet form. Where before, that tired, logy, dull feeling was frequent, now, the energizing influence of this herbal tonic brings back the pink cheeks, the bright eyes, the buoyant spirits. This "Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's tones up the stomach and is very efficacious in indigestion, while it increases the appetite and is a system-builder that thousands in every State of the Union have successfully used.

One woman makes this statement for publication: "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively all that it is represented to be. I wouldn't know how to get along without it now. This is the first time in all my life that I really felt like a human being. It took two years to bring this about, but that really is not long when the results produced are little short of a miracle. I always said it would be a miracle if I ever got any solid flesh on my bones, but it has actually happened."—Mrs. Herbert Snyder, 325 North 9th St., Easton, Pa.

CHICKIE

Jake Begs Chickie Not to Tie Herself Down

CHAPTER XXX.

HE said to her kindly: "Chickie, dear, you're not that sore at me now, are you? Why, I think this was pretty brilliant in your friend, Jake. I thought you would see the humor of it. Take a look behind you, my dear. Isn't Jonathan looking grand as St. Peter tonight? This is a night to be remembered, little white darling."

His exuberance was a magnetic current charging through her with its dynamic warmth. "Chickie, you're a poor sport. Now, I would have thought to get one smile anyway. Who's hurt if you take an hour of happiness—answer that."

"You could have told me though."

"Would you have come then?"

"No."

"That's the answer, my dear. I meant to have you in that box, hook or crook. You'll say it's worth it if there's an ounce of truth in you. I'll gamble on that."

He walked down the center aisle of the auditorium with his flashing, princely air and in spite of herself Chickie felt a high throb of pride. People in other boxes, arranged parallel with the stage about two-thirds of the way down the hall, stared at him. Many smiled.

He ushered Chickie to her seat as though she were the only girl in the world. He whispered close to her ear: "Look around, my beauty! Jake's got the brightest jewel in the whole blooming horse-shoe."

The scene dazzled. In all the boxes about her superb women sat in splendor of furs and diamonds. Their long, bare arms were white, their hair waved and glossy. They leaned forward murmuring delicately. Chickie's eyes rejoiced in the color, the swaying brilliance.

She caught a look at Jennie's face, vivid almost to pain; at Jonathan, erect and stately. Jennie whispered in awe: "Oh, Chickie, dear—My! My!" She could find no further word for her hushed, stupendous enjoyment. Chickie laughed.

Chickie Excited

"Well—you like it?" Jake asked.

She answered gaily: "'Tis, indeed, gorgeous!"

Jake folded his arms, smiling, leaning down to Jennie and pointing out this celebrity and that. Her startled eyes followed him, wide with gratification.

At the end of the first song the music stealing through Chickie's senses with soft, pervading glow, made her nerves tingle. The prima donna passed directly in front of their box. The whole audience stood up, thrilling to the power of that wonderful smile. It went through the house like a radiant light.

Jake whispered: "Chickie, dear, now you see. The world loves to kneel to the fair."

"Isn't she perfectly enchanting!"

He pressed her hand, his voice a-throb. "My dear—my dear—yes—enchanting—"

Chickie sat forward, on fire with excitement. Such crowds—such pageantry—and, oh, the rapturous singing. To the core of her spirit she was glad for these hours of beauty.

They went to the Ritz afterward. She and Jake danced. He said softly, his lips moving her hair: "You enjoyed it, Chickie?"

"Yes. Who could help it?"

"I have the box for the rest of the week. Help me fill it?"

"It was glorious tonight. Every other night this week is taken."

Jake laughed: "You aren't engaged, Chickie, and you aren't going to be married. Well—you said it yourself. But you have every night taken?"

"That's easy. You see I'm exceedingly popular."

"Break a date. That always adds to a girl's prestige. I tell you now it does."

Jake Pleads

She shook her head.

"So you've fallen that hard, Chickie? You don't even want to go out with any one else? You've fallen in love? But look here, he's a nice youngster and all that, but you can't go out with him every single night. That'll never do! Who's hurt if you give me the evenings he can't fill?"

She was silent.

"Here's something else for you to consider, my dear. That boy's just beginning. It'll be years and years before he can give you a tithe of the things you ought to have. Now, are you going to give up all the joys of life? Why, my dear, you'll make an old hag of yourself!

"You owe it to the lad to keep yourself gay and alluring. Tomorrow you'll be a thousand times brighter and more interesting because you've had a little spice tonight. Not so, my dear?"

They sat on a red divan at the far end of a corridor, shut off a little from the bright dash of the palm room and the couples moving in and out. Through locked glass doors they saw the lights from the building across the street—now and then a shifty-looking character ambling resolutely into the darkness.

Jake had his hand clasped on Chickie's bare elbow. His eyes sought hers with gay, insistent pleading. But she kept seeing another face. Barry's red to the roots of his hair as he told her there was no other since she had come upon the scene. Barry whispering: "Ah, Chickie, you're so sweet!"

She smiled answering dreamily: "Yes, it has been lovely—but all the other nights are taken."

"For how long are all your other nights taken?"

"Why—I just can't tell without looking at my date-book, you must know!"

"Chickie—are you the girl who has a friend named Mary? And another friend named Lucy?"

"Indeed, I am that very girl, kind sir."

Gives Her Advice

He shook his head, a touch of sadness in his eyes. "So you think you've changed, Chickie, dear? You think a little love will make you like all that? But it won't. We can get over our love much easier than we can get over our stomachs. Emotions pass, but appetites remain. We don't cease to be hungry; we don't cease to be cold. You'll still want luxurious dinners; you'll still hate that nice black coat of yours."

She sighed: "Are you pushing me into the yawning grave, Jake? But I'm not dead yet!"

"You're running into it yourself, Chickie. You don't seem to realize what you're doing. Why, my dear, the next five or six years are the best and sweetest of your life. You should fill them with pleasure—store up memories for the later quiet. No man has the right to expect you to cease living while you're waiting for him to catch up with you; while you're waiting for him to earn enough to give you what you should have.

"Think of that side of it. Don't be like other girls, Chickie, and throw away your head because you've found your heart. You'll need both when it comes to men."

"You're a hard lot to manage, aren't you?"

"We are! Now what night shall it be?"

"Please, Jake — you see I'm telling you the truth—"

His fingers drove against her flesh. She looked up at him astonished, found his eyes flaming: "No, Chickie, I can't let you do that. You're making a terrible mistake. You don't see it."

"It's you that don't see, Jake."

Chickie Stays Home

"I've looked for a long while, Chickie—and I've seen—I see. I've seen girls start as you're starting. I've seen all their charms dim because they thought it fine and honorable to neglect them. They went into seclusion and waited for their man. They grew colorless—tiresome—flat. When the man was ready he looked for fresh flowers. I tell you you've got to keep the garden watered or it will cease to bloom. Let me carry the watering pot, Chickie."

"I don't need it."

"So you'll make me trust to surprise, then?"

"Oh—you won't do this again, Jake? Why, you won't be so lucky the next time."

"You wouldn't close me out like that, Chickie? An old, old friend like me? If you do this, Chickie, if you shut the door on every gayety, I'm telling you you'll regret it."

"You'll find yourself a sorry prophet, Jake! Regret, indeed!"

That night, when finally Jennie, flushed as a girl, gathered the gray satin dress and went out of Chickie's room—Chickie took the orchids Jake brought her, put them in a glass on her bureau. She put them under a snapshot she had of Barry Dunne.

"Well, my own!" she whispered, with gay flippance. "Am I to regret it? Speak—yes or no?" She laughed.

Chickie was in the back garden, snipping ruthlessly through Jennie's bushes. She had half filled a great basket with baby chrysanthemums. Her mother sat at the screen window of the kitchen looking down at her, smiling.

"That's enough now, dear. It's getting cold. Come in." Jennie pulled down the dotted curtains, waddling about the kitchen, putting a pan of baked apples in the cooler, hanging the sauce pans on a rack near the stove. Her plump face had a quiet, satisfied air. That fine Mr. Munson was away. Chickie was staying home—home every night for a week. Jennie took this fact into her thought and fondled it.

Jennie had her own dreams. She saw her beautiful Chickie radiant as a young queen, robed in furs going up the stone steps of a white palace—her home. She saw a big limousine calling at the little yellow cottage, carrying herself and Jonathan off to dinner at their daughter's. She fancied the neighbors watching behind the curtains of their little parlors.

These dreams were not Chickie's. For more than the week she had indeed been home—not because Jake was away. Because Barry was working. The evenings were long, pale—but happy. Chickie was young enough to thrill with joy, at the thought of sacrifice. She could have gone to theaters—to dinners and dancing. She swept pleasure aside, accepting martyrdom gayly like a rose in her hair. She said to herself flushing at the boldness: "For you, my own!"

Refuses Jake

Regret the lost gayeties—not she. Jake kept his word, surprised her twice, coming right out to the house so that she had to go with him to dinner and a show. Then she refused him, because he had insisted in kissing her. Now he was away. She was immensely relieved.

Sometimes at night as she was drooping off to sleep his warnings shot through her ears. Grow stale and colorless? Lose all her charm—even her looks? A few hot, stifling breaths would catch her. Then she would flip these echoes from her. Why, she felt her mind flooded with lights; her spirit kindled to a manifold vitality.

She even felt kindly to the tart, grouchy Stella Wilson, whose desk was just behind her own. She even bubbled with laughter now when Stella said with her biting insinuation, "Well, of course! If I wanted to do what some girls do!" Indicating, of course, that Stella's virtue was the one and only bar to her popularity. Chickie answered her now: "You'd knock 'em all dead, Stella, only you're just too fine and noble for the men of today!" Stella liked that. She believed it.

Jimmy Calls

The days went softly, stepping on flowers. Chickie had no thought of years and years passing so. Her fancy sped the time away, letting her vision rest as it had when she was but sixteen, in a long immortal moment—she and Barry telling each other, "I love you."

The basket ran over with a flutter of blue, orange, crimson. She picked it up, saying half aloud: "You gaudy, brilliant things! You look like I feel—perky as the very old Nick."

The alleyway gate creaked—someone coming in softly—Jimmy. He swept his hat off, grinning: "Perky, is it? Good for you, kid! Say, if you feel perky—come on, then, give us a little, will you? Gosh, I'd like like everything to have the works up and sing tonight. Come to a show with your brother, Chickie?"

She said, hesitant: "It's too late to go downtown. Just down the street?"

"Anywhere you say, Chickie?"

"Can I go like this?" Just put on my coat?"

"Take off your shoes if you like! I'll carry you."

"Feeling strong tonight, Jimmy darling?"

His eyes tightened; he shoved the black hair away from his forehead. "Aw, say, Chickie—well, gee whiz, get a move on, will you? Shall I get your coat?" He took the basket from her, rushing her into the house.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 12

THE planetary configurations for this day point to sudden occurrences of a disruptive and devastating nature. Unplanned change may be abruptly precipitated, incited or aggravated by a tendency to rash, impulsive and turbulent personal behavior. There may be many trying and vexatious conditions to cope with.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of sudden, possibly disruptive change, with much commotion and vexation unless a firm attitude of equanimity and self-control be preserved. Avoid rash, impetuous and passionate words and acts.

A child born on this day may be quick and tempestuous, inclined to adventure and sudden action.

Withhold Sharp Word That Leads to Separation, Fay King Advises

I'M THROUGH! I'M LEAVING YOU THIS INSTANT! I'LL GET A DIVORCE!
IT IS EVEN MORE IMPORTANT TO AVOID QUARRELS THAN TO FORGIVE THEM!
IF I COME BACK, YOU PROMISE WE'LL NEVER QUARREL AGAIN?
YOU WOUNDED ME TO TAKE YOU BACK, AND YOU KNOW IT!
YOU'RE CRAZY- YOU BEGGED ME, YOU IMPLORED ME TO COME BACK AND YOU KNOW IT!
FAY-KING

THE time to forgive and forget is BEFORE it is too late. And it is almost always too late after a quarrel has reached the place where a couple separate and divorce.

Many have tried to forgive and forget after this. They have returned to each other and even re-married but I doubt if it has ever turned out to be really happy.

No matter how amiable the words and actions which mend a quarrel may be, they never entirely erase the scar of what has been said and done.

The time to be amiable, sensible, silent and forgiving is that very moment when you are about to snap out a word which is the beginning of the end!

Dicky Protests Against Long Separation From Madge

HARRY and Dicky came into the room in their usual breezy fashion, and I saw that no one in the hotel office had told them of Noel's accident. But Lillian put up a warning hand at their entrance and they stopped short, their inquiring and concerned glances going from the physician in conference with us to the open door of Noel's room, through which they could see Noel lying there with closed eyes and Mary keeping vigil over him. Neither of them asked any questions, and Lillian explained things in short crisp sentences.

"You're to be nurse tonight," she said to her husband. "The emergency nurse will come on tomorrow morning at 7, and Katherine will be here tomorrow night, so you'll only have a short time to serve. But the doctor wishes to tell you about tonight."

She left the two men together and crossed to where Dicky and I were standing. Dicky, in masculine fashion, protesting against any innovation which interfered with his own routine.

"Why Katherine?" he asked in a low voice. "Aren't there enough nurses in New York without yanking her out of her orbit. And what are you going to do with Junior?"

Lillian took my hesitating answer from me and made it crisp and emphatic, though her tones were as low as Dicky's.

"This is why Katherine," she said. "Because the Hippocratian gentleman has said Noel requires very careful and expert handling for a week or two—more a matter of shock and nerves, I gather, rather than injury. For such things there is only one Katrina. As for Junior, Madge has been champing at the bit to get down to see him for more than a week, so she and Katrina are going to change places. Madge is going to take her work down there tomorrow morning, and Katherine's coming in here tomorrow night. Everybody's going to be happy, so you'd better fall in line, old dear, unless you want to register a complaint that everybody is out of step but you."

Whether purposely or not, she had given him a chance to recover from his first surprise, and he quickly availed himself of the opportunity to yield gracefully.

"Who, me?" he asked blandly. "I'm not registering anything except approval of a clever plan. But if you're going to start in the morning, light of my heart, I would have speech with thee and find out the whereabouts of a few dozen handkerchiefs and socks and such unconsidered trifles which have never come back from the laundry. I shall be a subject for a charity aid society by the time you get back."

There have been many times in my life when this speech from Dicky would have irritated me distinctly. For it is one with which I am so familiar that I can repeat it by heart. Never have I known my temperamental husband to admit that he had his full quota of belongings. To listen to him one would infer that each week the laundry failed to return or I failed to put in his room fully a half of the articles he had put into the hamper.

But a second honeymoon, such as has been our portion for the last few weeks, is a great insulator against annoyance or petty standing upon one's dignity. Of course, if one looked at the thing from the logical standpoint, there was no more reason for my acting as Dicky's valet than there would be for my expecting him to check my belongings. But logic had had no place in my mental make-up since my reconciliation with my husband. As Lillian had laughingly remarked but a week before, I was "hugging my chains and gloating over their heft."

So it was with the tenderness that one bestows upon a much-indulged and careless child that I slipped my arm through his and laughed up into his face.

"I may desert Mr. Micawber, but I shall salvage his socks first," I said, and, with a chuckle, Dicky hurried me out of the apartment into our own, sweeping me into his arms as soon as the door had closed upon us.

"Never mind the clothes," he said. "What I want to know is something else. How long are you going to be away from me?"

I thrilled to the note in his voice, as I remembered, as impatient, as I remembered it in the first weeks of our marriage.

"Not any longer than I can help," I returned, forgetting even my boy in the bliss of being so desired. No one save a wife who has seen—or imagined—that she was losing her husband's love, and then has witnessed its second blooming, can realize how my pulses were leaping at Dicky's touch and words.

"That's my own girl," he said, and put his lips on mine. Then, as always when he is triumphant in even a slight difference of opinion, he became most reasonable.

"Of course, I know Katherine's the one best bet for Noel," he said, "and I'm not going to be a boor about it. You must stay just as long as she is in here, for mother's too old to handle Junior now. I imagine he's a handful for Katherine."

"I fancy he is," I returned with a reminiscent smile at some of our small boy's pranks. And then Harry Underwood's knock for the second time that evening sent me flying out of Dicky's arms.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Inviting a Dance Escort

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have had the pleasure of meeting a fine young man at his home on two occasions while visiting his sister (who is a friend of my sister's.) I am invited to attend a dinner dance in the near future, and I would like to know if it would be correct form to ask this young man to attend as my escort. He has been a gracious host in his home, but I did not know if our acquaintanceship would permit my being so daring.

2—If you should answer favorably, will you please print a form of invitation that I might send to him.

UNDI-SIDED.

1—I am not too sure that I should advise your inviting this young man to go with you to the dinner dance, but perhaps since your families know each other so well it might not be misinterpreted. If you do invite him, send your invitation in the form of a note, and then he will have time to determine his acceptance.

2—Write something like this: Dear Mr. Murray:

I have an invitation—and the privilege of inviting an escort—to a dinner dance to be given by ——— at ——— on Friday night, the first of March. I should very much like to have you go with me, if you are free on that evening, and if you think that you would enjoy going. I hope that you can go.

Best wishes.

Cordially.

Dessert Utensils

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please tell me the proper way to eat ice cream sherbet, and a frozen dessert with fruit mixed through it?

2. How should cake be eaten?

M. M'B.

ICE CREAM sherbet is eaten with a spoon, either an ice cream spoon or a teaspoon. A frozen dessert with fruit would be eaten either with a teaspoon, or, if the fruits are in rather large pieces, with a dessert spoon.

2. With a fork, preferably a small fork, such as a "tea" fork. Or with a dessert fork.

Monograms

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

The question of monograming my linens is rather a puzzle to me (I mean three initials). Do I use my husband's entire monogram, or is it correct to use my own first two initials and that of his last name? READER.

IT is customary for a married woman to use, as her monogram on her linens or silver, the initials of the first and last names of her maiden name before the initial of the surname of her husband. Therefore, Mary Smith, who married John Brown, would use the initials M. S. B.

The Marry-Go-Round

We Moderns

SMART CONVERSATION: A gallon of words to a spoonful of thought.

The first love affair is a miracle, the second an adventure, the third an experiment—and all the rest merely episodes.

Why should a golfer marry? He has something to love, something to swear at, something to brag about, something on which to work off his grouches, and something to amuse him on Sundays and holidays?

One reason why a man's love for his golf, his horse, his motor car or his hobby lasts so much longer than his love for the average girl, is probably because he can love them whenever he happens to be in the humor—and forget them when he doesn't.

An irresistible woman is one who is clever enough to start a man's imagination working—and wise enough to stop there, and let it do its own work.

The chief attraction of golf, for the average man, is the opportunity it affords him to get back into knee breeches and an old cap and "play hookey" from the office.

The great objection to the woman who insists on "living her own life," is that she is apt to end by becoming a banana-peel on the path of other peoples' lives.

* * *

Every day has its dangers. The woman who was always burning her fingers taking hot pans out of the oven, now has a daughter who is constantly cutting her fingers opening a can.

A declaration of love on the lips is worth two in the eyes.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

BEAUTEOUS eyelashes are long, thick, black, with the needle-point ends curling upward. They should never be clipped, as the growth is from the papilla, not from the ends. Anointing with vaseline strengthens the lashes and provides a fascinating glisten. Applications of witch hazel are beneficial. Dip pads of absorbent cotton in ice cold witch hazel and apply at bedtime. Witch hazel is also refreshing to the eyes. The reaction that ensues from the contact of the cold compress helps to scatter turkey tracks.

When the nose reddens in cold weather the circulation is not as active as it should be; in that event salt glows every morning are helpful—scouring the body with moistened salt and removing it with a cold spraying. If the nose stays stubbornly red, the trouble may be a mild inflammation of the cutaneous surface or the result of a diet that is too rich, too salty, too acid or too abundant. In any case, it is advisable to apply ointment of zinc oxide every night.

Breadth amidships comes from too much sitting and not enough strenuous exercise. Women who sit at desks all day are likely to develop hips. Bending exercises are slenderizing and all those calesthenics that twist the torso. Here is the best one of all: Upon awakening, lie on the back, hands under hips. Lift both legs slowly until you are standing on the back of your neck; lower slowly. Not so easy, but it does the business.

It is not safe to use ammonia as a water softener when shampooing the hair. It is too strong and drying and will cause the shafts to break.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Diseases of the Later Years.

CHRONIC disease, particularly what we call the "degenerative" diseases, are becoming more and more prevalent. In spite of the fact that enormous sums are expended in medical and health service, in almost every community these ailments continue.

DR COPELAND

Persons of middle-age and the aged are the ones who suffer from these diseases. Such persons are really paying the penalty of past neglect.

Many more people reach middle age now than formerly. Instead of an average life span of 40 years, as it used to be, we now have an average expectation of life of 56 years. The longer the life the more likely it is to acquire some ailment. It is natural, therefore, that we have more of the degenerative diseases in our day because they are characteristic of the latter half of life.

The most common of these chronic diseases are heart and circulatory troubles, cancer, rheumatism or arthritis, Bright's disease and paralysis resulting from brain hemorrhages. This is a very general grouping, but it covers what I have in mind.

There are, of course, numerous contributing factors in this increase of the average life span. This is an age of medical progress and much splendid public health work. It is a time of advanced thinking and of greater knowledge of health promotion through publicity of all kinds.

People are living richer lives. They contribute more largely to the welfare of society. Society as a whole is far better off than it was 50 years ago, in spite of the growth in degenerative diseases.

In many, and probably most, of our public and private schools early instruction in good health habits is the rule. Every child in North America should have health education in earliest life. The practice of habits of health should begin in the kindergarten years. Home and school should take part in giving vital health knowledge to every child.

Every community should have adequate medical and health services in order to meet this increased demand. Hundreds of patients there are who, if helped in time, can be restored to normal health and their place in society.

Every person should have a physical examination by the family doctor at least once a year. To "nip in the bud" any one of these degenerative diseases, before it gets into an advanced chronic state, means one more person saved from endless suffering. He is given years of active work in life. If you do not feel up to the mark, if life seems dull and uninteresting, and everything an effort, you had beter see your doctor.

The White House Gang

room when scouts reported the Principal as being sighted, bearing down upon conspirators, concerning some particularly impish practical joke, or harassing invention. Scouts were indeed necessary, for when the thick-set, swarthy Murch arrived it was with a rush, collaring boys and getting a very close approximation of the truth, from most of them. With an understanding and a gift for description, far beyond his years, Q said: "When Murch comes, the earth trembles with the thundah of his hooves! He terrifies boys into saying things they don't mean. I don't mean, at all, that he doesn't belong," he added, fearing lest his judgment should appear to be too harsh.

Q must have been thinking of the social distinctions, which when they were false, never were a part of the Roosevelt consideration. These were very serious matters, on one occasion, in the village of Northport, Long Island, when Q came from Sagamore Hill to visit me, while I was the guest of my cousin, Mrs. George B. Wilson.

Neighbor Peeved

Q's arrival had the village gossips in turmoil, and there was some resentment because certain families had not been selected to have their children meet the son of the President of the United States. This, however, my cousin had not considered; she wished, and rightly, to make no more of Q than of any other boy, or of any other friend of mine.

At lunch, Q, feeling entirely at home, and, with the utter frankness of a small boy, after eating two or three spoonfuls of his dessert, remarked: "This is Long Island ice-cream, I fear!"

So, although it was perfectly good, some of the ice-cream was left over. It was a broiling summer day, and Mrs. Wilson called a neighbor, by telephone, to ask if her children would like it. The answer was startling. The sum of it was, that since her children had not been invited to meet the son of the President (which had been expected as a social right), her children certainly would not think of eating Q's ice-cream.

"Well," my cousin replied, calmly, and counting, implicitly, upon Q's natural good sense, "would you accept it if the son of the President brought it over himself?"

This could hardly be refused; so Q, thinking it not at all out of the way, showed himself eager to help, took time to stagger the very considerable distance with the heavy freezer, very properly and democratically delivering it at the back door, where it was impossible, socially of course, for anyone to meet him but the cook.

"Ice cream for Mrs.—," Q said professionally.

"Thank you, boy," said that functionary.

"You're quite welcome, I'm sure," said Q.

Authority Boundary

Like any other healthy-minded boy he would help up to the point where is seemed unreasonable. Authority, without apparent reason, galled him and brought on one notably fierce dispute at school. . . . This was the burning question with regard to the actual boundaries of school authority. Did they extend to the street in front of the school; or were the frontiers, at the iron pickets, keeping the children away from the green grass plots, facing Massachusetts avenue? Q, I still think, was right, in fixing the actual line at neither place but at the outer edge of the curbstone. For as he asked: "Don't people in winter have to clean the snow off the sidewalks, in front of their houses? They don't clean any street, do they? Doesn't the city street begin outside the curb?"

This was an important legality, understood by the hokey-pokey man with his pushcart of dubious ice cream, and his box of questionably clean crackers. His close proximity to Q's pony, too, at recess, was perhaps as poor a hygienic policy, as it was good business. Where Q's calico, Algonquin, stood nervously, held by a White House servant, there was always the greatest density of children, admiring him, envying him, patting him, rubbing his soft muzzle. Incidentally, the problem of bringing Algonquin to school, to meet Q at the end of the afternoon session, was solved by Allan Deane riding a bicycle from the White House stables, up Sixteenth street and Massachusetts avenue, and leading the diminutive pony, who trotted along after him. Such a procedure would be quite impossible, in the motor traffic of today.

TRADE BETTER IN FOURTH AREA

Cleveland Reserve Bank Notes Moderate Recovery From Recent Recession

CLEVELAND, March 11.—"Industry and trade appear to be recovering at a moderate rate from the recession which began in mid-summer of 1929," the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland says in its monthly review for March. The industries first affected by the slump of last year seem to be showing definite improvement at this time, the bank says, although they are still operating under last year's levels.

The monthly review, which covers the Fourth District comprising Ohio, and part of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky, says in part:

"January is usually the low point of the year as far as employment in the Fourth District is concerned and this year has not differed from former periods in this respect.

AUTO SLUMP FELT

"The decline noticed in Ohio since August continuedin January but at a slower rate, the decrease from December being 2 per cent. This was caused entirely by seasonal declines in the construction field, industrial employment being at the same level as in December. The January employment figure was 7 per cent below the corresponding period of 1929, all major lines except construction, paper and food products being lower than last year.

"Failure of the automotive industry to continue in February the rate of expansion it developed in January was restricting iron and steel production in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown-Cleveland district to the rate which it attained in late January.

COAL PRODUCTION

"This was in contrast to the continued improvement evidenced in the Chicago district, where the customary first-quarter requirements for track material and the steady buying of rolling stock were providing the mills with enough tonnage to bring February operations well above those of January.

"Reflecting a decline in industrial and railroad operations, bituminous coal production in the Fourth District and the entire country increased less than seasonally from December to January and was lower in the latter month than in January, 1929. Output of local mines, however, was relatively higher than in other parts of the country, the decline from last year being only 1.8 per cent in this district compared with 3.2 per cent for the United States.

GAIN IN RUBBER

"January operations of rubber factories in the Fourth District showed their first sizable increase from the preceding month since May, 1929, (an almost negligible increase being reported in October).

"Shoe factories in southwestern Ohio were more active in January than a month earlier, but the increase from December, 4 per cent, was much smaller than the usual seasonal increase and compared with 37 per cent last year. Preliminary production figures for January in the Fourth District show a loss from January, 1929, of 19 per cent.

"As in other parts of the country, building contracts awarded in the Fourth District in January showed an increase from December, which was contrary to the seasonal movement of preceding years, but was not so marked as the increase shown in the first month of 1929."

ELEVATOR LAW DELAYED

The ordinance requiring electrical safety gates on all elevators is not to be enforced rigidly immediately, Councilman Robert J. Alderdice informed his colleagues yesterday.

Conferences with H. L. Ley, of the Bureau of Building Inspection, and Director of Public Safety James M. Clark resulted in that decision, Alderdice said. Immediate enforcement of the ordinance was complained of by the Building Owners' and Managers' Association whose spokesmen said it would be impossible to comply, especially for those operating hydraulic elevators.

When the ordinance was passed originally there was an unwritten agreement that the building owners should have five years' grace to comply. Recently Ley issued an order that all appliances must be installed within 90 days.

SEEK FIVE MEN IN ARSON RING

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 11.—(AP.)—Luther Patrick, assistant attorney general of Alabama, has wired Alfred M. Hogston, fire marshal of Indiana, asking him to arrest five English (Ind.) business men for extradition to Gadsden, Ala., on grand jury indictments, alleging complicity in operation of what was termed an "incendiarists' ring."

In addition to Claude A. Roberts, who surrendered to authorities at Gadsden, Patrick asked the arrest of Clyde W. and Alson Roberts, Alfred T. Turley and Joe Merrells. At the capitol it was said that no extradition papers for any of the men had been issued.

The ring of which Patrick charged Roberts with being a member, is alleged to have caused a series of fires in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama. Their method of operation, Patrick said, was to ship heavily insured goods to points south of English which were burned upon their storage in warehouses.

Sore Buttocks—Chafed and Raw—Doctor Specifies Oil

The young mother was unable to account for the irritation that was causing her baby so much trouble in the diaper region. Its tender skin broke out into galling red rashes causing pain and sleeplessness.

And all this in spite of the fact that she changed the diapers frequently, and laundered them thoroughly. Consulting her doctor she found that he immediately discovered the cause.

He advised her to rub her baby's entire body daily with Mennen Baby Oil—to massage it gently into the folds and creases of the skin. Mennen Baby Oil is a blend of those oils indicated or in use by leading baby specialists and in principal maternity hospitals.

And after every diaper change the buttocks were to be rubbed with oil to act as a water-proof coating against urine scald. And after the excess oil had been wiped off with a piece of cotton, the talcum was to be dusted over the buttocks and into the diapers themselves. Baby was instantly relieved from the irritation that attacked its skin and its entire body soon became free from chafing. Since Mennen Baby Oil and Talcum are scientifically medicated they will prevent and cure diaper rashes.

Special Offer! This week your druggist is offering a can of Mennen Borated Baby Talcum FREE with a purchase of a bottle of Mennen Baby Oil for 50c. Mennen Baby Oil is a sterilized blend of oils, properly medicated, pleasantly scented, and will not become rancid.

BABE GETS $520 PER PENNANT GAME

WHEN the new two-year contract into which he has entered with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, expires at the conclusion of the 1931 season, Babe Ruth will have taken almost three-quarters of a million dollars out of baseball since he began his professional career with the Baltimore club in the International League in 1914. Without reckoning the possibility that some extra pay may come to him through another world series participation or a finish in the money, Ruth at the close of 1931, will have pulled down exactly $739,397 for 18 diamond campaigns, according to some figures gathered from past contracts by the New York World. Of this $670,000 will have been drawn in straight salary from Ruppert's club alone in 12 years. No other player in the history of the game has ever approached that mark in total earnings as an active athlete.

Col. Jacob Ruppert

From the Baltimore, Boston and Providence clubs in 1914, Babe received the modest sum of $1,900. Now he gets approximately $520 for each pennant game. In 1915 and 1916 his salary in Boston was $3,500, in 1917 and 1918 it was $5,000, and in 1919 it was $10,000.

THE season of 1920 saw Ruth sold to the Yankees by the Red Sox, and he drew $20,000 for each of his first two years in New York. From 1922 to 1926, inclusive, he was paid at the rate of $52,000 per campaign, for the last three years he received $70,000 annually, and for the next two seasons he will receive $80,000 per year. That's a total of $698,900 in salary.

The Bambino has figured in nine world series, receiving as his share $3,780 in 1915, $3,910 in 1916, $1,102 in 1918, $2,510 in 1921, $2,852 in 1922, $6,530 in 1923, $4,169 in 1926, $6,711 in 1927, and $5,812 in 1928, or a total of $38,377. In position money, Ruth drew $420 when the Yanks finished third in 1920, $850 when they landed second in 1924, and $850 when they came home second in 1929. That makes $2,120 extra, and $739,737 altogether, not counting the many tidy sums he has received on the side from newspapers, magazines, theaters and other sources.

GROVER ALEXANDER, coaching the Philly pitchers in addition to getting himself ready for another season on the slab, says the Quaker hurlers' main trouble is lack of confidence. "If they could only keep their minds off that short right field fence in Philadelphia, and realize that they have eight men behind them who also can hit the ball over that barrier, they would be better off," he said.

Grover Alexander

"They have the stuff, no doubt of that, and all that they need is to be taught that they have something on every batter that comes up there. I have always worked on that principle, feeling that I had something on the batter until he showed me I was wrong.

"DO the pitchers on the other clubs dislike to pitch in the Phils' park?" Alexander was asked by Stan Baumgartner, himself a former major league flinger. "I'll not say they dislike it," was the reply, "but I might say they'd rather not." "How about yourself?" "It never bothered me. I pitched 16 shutouts one year, and many of them were in that park." "But that was in the days of the dead ball." "That brings up another matter. I'd like to say something about the lively ball. The continued discussion of it has ruined half the young pitchers. It has reached such a point that the young fellows on the rubber believes that every time he hits a bat with the ball the latter is going over the fence.

"I DON'T say that the ball is not lively, but the emphasis put on the change has given the twirlers an alibi behind which they are continually hiding. This same talk has not only hurt the pitchers, but it has hurt the game. The outfielders play again the fences, when many times they could cut off base hits if they were in closer.

"Just how good the various men on our staff are I can't say until I have worked with them a while longer. Last year they would go along all right for the better part of a game and then would fold up. We'll have to find out what the trouble was there. With the punch that this club has we ought to finish in the first division."

BY stopping Jack Gross in the fifth round of their bout in Philadelphia last night, George Godfrey made a successful start in his drive to re-establish himself in the eyes of the public and various fight

BARTELL GOES TO CAMP

DUKES MEET GROVE CITY TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

The end of a long basketball trail will be reached tonight by Duquesne University, second of the local collegiate fives to end its playing season, as the Dukes meet Grove City. After tonight Pitt's games with Wash-Jeff and Penn State will be the only college contests remaining on what was a rip-roarin' card.

It has been a long, hard pull, beset with many pitfalls and alternately shaded and brightened with defeat and victory for the Dukes. The great disappointment of the campaign was, of course, missing out in the conference title race, said disappointment being doubly keen because of the fact that the conference campaign, which closed with the Thiel game Saturday night, is the last for the Dukes. The local university will withdraw from the league at the close of the present scholastic year.

Grove City was defeated in a game here on the Bluff some three weeks ago. So tonight, as the Dukes attempt to make it two straight over the Crimson, the Crimson will have a revenge motive behind its play.

If the Dukes take this one tonight, they'll have a mark of 11 games won and three lost to show for their battlin' in this district, which is not bad at all.

SAINTS EXTEND PITT

Pitt won its torrid game from St. Vincent's last night at the Stadium after the W. P. I. A. L. fuss, but covered itself with little or no glory in the doing. The score was 29-28, which, on the basis of the form shown by the Panthers, about represented the difference between the clubs.

The Saints hopped away to an 8 to 3 lead, but the locals pepped up their offense and pulled up even and then ahead at 11 to 9. A goal by Crean, his third of the period, tied the count, but Hyatt scored twice in rapid succession and sent his team off the floor at the intermission ahead by 15-11.

PITT USES SUBS

Doc sent Timmy Lawry, Brown, Steve Kowlis, Al Wrobleski and Milt Cohen in to play for Pitt in the second half, and left the second team in until the last four minutes of play. They managed to hold the Saints about even, the varsity returning to the fray with the count 27-25. Hyatt immediately flipped a long one, and it was a good thing he did, for a successful foul by Crean and a field goal by Bodnar put the Irish within a point of the Panthers.

Crean led in the scoring for the evening, throwing four field goals and three fouls for 11 points. Hyatt had as many baskets, but one less foul. The lineup:

Pitt—29		St. Vincent's—28
Hyatt	F	Genovese
Kowlis	F	Bodnar
L. Cohen	C	Lengyel
Amato	G	Crean
Bickel	G	Westfall

Score by periods:

Pitt	11	18—29
St. Vincent's	11	17—28

Substitutes: Pitt, S. Kowalis, Lawry, Brown, Wrobleski, M. Cohen; St. Vincent's, Grabowski.

Field goals: Hyatt 4, Zettron, L. Cohen, Crean 3, Genovese 2, Bodnar, Lengyel, Amato, Westfall 2.

BUCS EXPECT TO SIGN DICK SOON

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 11—Richard (Dick) Bartell is on his way to the Pirate camp carrying symptoms to indicate that within a day or two the holdout infielder will be back in the Buccaneer family.

Pirate officials announced this morning that Richard the Lionhearted, via long distance telephone had asked for permission to come to the camp of the Buccos. Manager Ens and Vice President Dreyfuss gave their consent.

It seems to have been a case of acute baseball fever, or maybe it was the Ben Sankey-Charley Engle complex that was upon the gingery one as he telephoned his superiors from his Alameda home.

Only a few days ago, Bartell was invited to the training site by Sam Dreyfuss, Dick, according to the vice president, turned down the proffer. But his action was not taken as an absolute ultimatum by the officials, who this morning indicated they had thought he would soon be stirring.

WILL BE WELCOMED

The Alameda youngster will be welcomed by his bosses. He did not say whether he would land today, but it was felt that he would be in camp by tomorrow at the latest. According to the rules of procedure, holdout players are not supposed to take part in spring training, but there is nothing wrong, it seems, in talking terms.

Bartell, it was reliably reported, demanded $10,000 for next year's work. He did not get any more than half that amount last season. Once he gets on the ground, it may not be a hard task for the Pittsburgh officials to get his name on a document, but they insist that the amount in the new document will not approach the five figures mentioned.

The Grimes tangle today did not seem to be any closer to solution. Vice President Dreyfuss, when asked for a statement on Burleigh's recent utterances, said he had nothing ready to give out at this time, but he implied he might have something to say soon.

Dreyfuss did not deny that Grimes had not been offered a raise in pay for this year, as has been reported. It is not the policy of the club officials to delve into figures.

BUCS GIVEN LONG DRILL

By Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 11.—After spending most of the daylight hours of yesterday on the playing field, the Pirate rookies and regulars this morning were a bit sore as they faced two more drills. The sun pushed the thermometer up to the 80 mark yesterday, thereby providing the greatest day for preparation the athletes have yet experienced.

Manager Ens listened to the pleading of many of his players who did not care to quit the afternoon session as the sun headed toward the Western horizon. Ens, a very hard worker himself, eventually left with a smile after three hours of hustling. Jewell had finished his bath and was almost ready for dinner when the more ambitious ones came trailing into the hotel.

The skipper today selected the six pitchers who will lead the third scrap of the regulars and Yanigans tomorrow. Bednar, Green and Lang will toss the pellet for the first team with Kremer, Brame and Erickson working for the Yans.

PIRATES PLAY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, March 11.—The Pittsburgh Pirates will be out to even their season series with the Toronto Leafs when they meet the local skaters here tonight for the fourth and last time in the 1929-30 National League campaign. The Bucs overwhelmed the Leafs, 10-5, in their first battle, but the locals pulled out two close decisions in their next two duels.

The game has failed to arouse much interest, for little more than the exercise is at stake. Both teams are well down in the standings, and neither has a chance to get into the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The visitors boast a losing streak that has attained double figures, and the locals are favorites to win.

National Union Enters C. & I. League Race

By TOM BIRKS

Now that the National Union nine, headed by Henry Stuckert, is teamed up in the Commercial and Industrial League with the Reliance Life aggregation, headed by George Miller, aside from fighting for the league title, the insurance company championship of the city will be at stake.

The Commercial and Industrial loop will be the greatest circuit of its kind organized in this district. When J. T. Ryan, Jr., of the Mine Safety Appliance team, officially entered his club in the loop, the league's success was assured. Mine Safety has copped two league championships. National Union and Reliance Life also have tasted of championships and with B. & O., Joseph Mumea, and leaf seasons champions, Reick McJunckin and Carnegie Steel, should give the fans some real baseball. It is certainly a compact loop.

The Joseph Horne team again will play on the road during the first half of its schedule. Camp Horne is not adaptable for baseball during the month of May, and A. H. Burchfield, Jr., one of the real boosters of the league, plays with Hornes, and acts as the league treasurer, usually goes out of his way to make the visiting clubs have a good time at Camp Horne in the second half of the season. The league secretary will hand out the players contracts at the meeting on Thursday evening. This is the only loop which requires all its players to work at the concern entered in the league.

The pair scored a 12-and-11 victory in a scheduled 36-hole match with Leonard Schmutte, Lima, and Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City.

While they, as favorites in the lower bracket, were accomplishing their rout, Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, L. I., and Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., won a similarly handy 7-and-6 victory over Johnny Manion, St. Louis, and Joe Davis, Madison, N. J.

New Kensington, champions of Section I, matched New Castle, of Section III, by advancing into the quarter finals of the annual W. P. I. A. L., title elimination tournament in the Pitt Stadium last night, eliminating Harding High, of Aliquippa, 22 to 21, with as thrilling a last period rally as any high school team ever staged.

Tonight, the lower bracket will complete its second round play, Monessen and Uniontown clashing on the Stadium court, the winner to meet New Kensington Friday for the right to get into the tournament finals.

Nate Lippe taught one of his players a lesson in self control and lost a ball game last night. Teaching lessons in a game as important as last night's is risky business, as was attested by the developments of the battle.

KEN HIGH OFF

New Kensington, possibly as good a passing quintet as is in the tourney, was away off form, and, after missing seven consecutive fouls, found itself far in the ruck as the play entered the final period. The count, mind you, when the boys went out for the last eight minutes, favored Harding by 21 to 12. A nine point lead with only eight minutes to play. What a situation.

About three minutes after the quarter started, Jones, Harding forward, became incensed when called for steps and deliberately kicked the ball into the crowd. Referee Beggs Snyder rightly called a technical foul on him, which was missed, and Coach Lippe pulled him out of the ball game. Before he could be returned, the Kensington passers had pulled up to within a point of the Hardingites. Forward Wilson leading the attack with three field goals. Then, taking a pass from under the hoop, Dayoub, the big center, dribbled to the side and flipped one in over his shoulder to put his team in the lead. It was the pay-off shot of the ball game.

HARDING BLOWS CHANCE

Harding tried hard, and got one or two shots after that, but had only one chance to tie. Harden was fouled, but missed the toss and the ball game was over.

A field goal by Harden, his lone scoring contribution of the evening, and a brace of fouls by Milonvich, gave Harding a 4-2 lead in the first period, New Kensington counting on McCandless' field goal. The Kensington boys missed out on four chances at the foul line.

In the second period, Harding made a gesture to sew up the ball game, scoring six points to New Kensington's one, the latter continuing to show poor form at the charity mark. Jones and Chotner tallied from the court, and Milonvich and Chotner from the foul circle.

FINE RALLY WINS

New Kensington rallied ferociously in the third session, but were outscored by 11 to 10. Wilson, McCandless and Dayoub gave a hint as to what might be expected by scoring from the court and McLoughlin, Dayoub and Wilson counted single pointers on fouls. Jones and Milonovich added one basket each to Harding's total. Markowitz, in for Murphy, getting a pair. Milonovich sank his sixth consecutive foul goal, making three during the quarter.

Then came the last stanza of the song and the blow-up of Aliquippa. Not only were the men of Lippe held scoreless, but they were run ragged by the thoroughly aroused Kensington warriors, who rang up 10 points and put the clinching tack in the old ball game. Wilson led this bombardment with three fine goals. The lineup:

N. Kensington—22.		Aliquippa—21.

ROSENBLOOM FOULED; PETE ZIVIC KAYOED

BERNARD STOPS LOCAL BOXER IN SIXTH

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, playboy of Harlem, won from Larry Johnson, stiff punching Chicago Negro, on a foul in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round feature match in Madison Square Garden last night. A swinging left, deep in the groin, stretched Rosenbloom writhing on the canvas after 29 seconds of the sixth. Rosenbloom weighed 173½, Johnson 174½.

It was an unsatisfactory ending to a vicious battle that was fought on fairly even terms through the first five rounds. The thumping Negro, swinging into action with solid left hooks to the body, an occasional right to the head, annoyed Rosenbloom considerably, but could not spike the Harlem harlequin's whirlwind attack. Rosenbloom was badly hurt and was unable to leave the ring for several minutes.

There were no knockdowns but Rosales' nose was badly battered by Scozza's left hooks and bled constantly from the first round. Scozza weighed 169½, Rosales 171.

PETE ZIVIC STOPPED

FLINT, Mich., March 11.—(AP)—Roger Bernard, Flint featherweight, scored a technical knockout here last night over Pete Zivic, of Pittsburgh, in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. He had knocked Zivic down for a count of nine in the third, fifth and sixth rounds. A towel was thrown into the ring after the sixth knockdown. Bernard weighed 127½; Zivic 126½.

GODFREY VICTOR

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—(AP)—George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight of Leiperville, Pa., won from Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., by a technical knockout in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round windup at the Arena last night. Godfrey scaled 250 pounds, 39 more than Gross.

COUNTY LEAGUE LEADERS FACE BIG TESTS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

A triple deadlock for first place in the Allegheny County League will be broken tonight when the Duquesne Lafayettes and J. J. Veronas, two of the three clubs involved in the triangular deadlock, face tough opponents. The Homestead Ackermans, the third team in the deadlock, are idle.

The J. J. Veronas face an old antagonist in the Goldensons at Columbus Temple, while the Duquesne Lafayettes oppose the Fintex team on the Duquesne Library floor. If both the Lafayettes and Veronas win tonight, they will move into a deadlock for the lead, the Homestead entry dropping to third place.

In the Commercial-Industrial League Pittsburgh and Lake Erie plays at Dravo Construction and Pressed Steel Car at Potter Title and Trust.

Catholic Men's Club plays at St. John's in the only Catholic Lyceum League game; Trinity Cathedral is at Canevin Club in the Central Pittsburgh League, while St. Phillip's faces the Baptists in the Crafton-Ingram loop.

With the league season here practically completed, local followers of professional basketball are turning their attention to the American League contest here Thursday night between the Cleveland Rosies and the Paterson Crescents. The contest promises to tax the capacity of the Duquesne University gym.

The Goldenson Vanities are back home after winning the Cleveland Municipal tournament, the result of which gave them a string of 21 victories for the season. The Vanities, according to reports, made a decided hit in the Forest City.

The Y. M. H. A. nosed out the Penn Five, 25 to 24, and the Schneiders defeated the Knickers, 32 to 29, in a pair of close West Penn League contests last night. Manchester tripped Trinity Cathedral, 47 to 28, in the Central.

Pittsburgh Railways won over Equitable, 46 to 24, and Duquesne set down Bylesby, 42 to 31, in the Philadelphia Company loop. Real Estate topped Riecks, 33 to 20, and P. & L. E. capped Carnegie Steel, 36 to 31, in the C. & I.

BUCS IN MOVIETONE

A movietone of the Pirates in camp at Paso Robles, Cal., is being shown this week at Loew's Aldine Theater. Manager Ellis and other notables speak their piece for the fans.

Nick Altrock Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 11.—I see Babe Ruth is going to save his legs this spring and not try making so many home runs in exhibition games. That ought to satisfy the customers, because, next to making a homer, there is no grander sight in baseball than Babe Ruth striking out.

Art Shires is now squawking for $10,000 a year and it ought to be worth that much to Comiskey to shut him up. I would speak in deaf and dumb signals for half that money myself. Anyway, Shires is baseball's first 100 per cent talkie. I would rather have a dozen saxophones on a ball club than a guy like him.

CORSEY TO BOX YOUNG HERE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Young Corsey, of Canton, O., who has been beaten three times by Battling Gizzy, will meet Bobby Young, of Duquesne, in the eight-round semi-final to the Jackie Rodgers-Archie Bell fight at Motor Square Garden, March 24. This after Gizzy recently was refused permission to box Young at the Moose Temple on the ground that Young was considered too good for him.

DAVIES VS. ATHERTON

Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, are in the main bout and Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Billy Holt, of Canton, in the semi-final. Beatty's fight with Rudy Thomas at Flint, Mich., last night was called off.

Shires Returns Unsigned Papers To Chisox

CHICAGO, March 11.—(INS.)—Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires has mailed his unsigned contract for $7,000 back to Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, it was learned today.

Not until the pugnacious first baseman gets what he thinks he deserves for the 1930 season will he consent to sign a contract, he announced. As a box office attraction Shires let it be known in Dallas, Tex., last night that he feels he is worth at least $15,000.

Between Rounds

Phil Raymond, of Baltimore, is anxious to break in here against any of the welterweights. He has beaten Eddie Reed, Bobby Garcia and other good ones and holds a knockout victory over Lew Majors. He would not be averse to tackling Joey Goodman, Tony Herrera, Tommy Crawley or Phil Goldstein. Herne Bluestein, trainer of Joe Dundee, is his manager.

Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, and Paul Pantalon, Chicago heavyweight, box the main bout of a show in the Chicago Stadium Friday night. In other 10-rounders, Rene DeVos meets Clyde Chastain and Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, knows Emery Ciabata, of Philadelphia. Harry Fiorito, of Chicago, is paired with Vidal Gregorio, of Spain, and Frank Hayes, of Philadelphia, with Jimmy Landy, of Chicago, in six-rounders.

Eddie Reed and Ernie Casser meet at the Broadway Club in Philadelphia Thursday night. Eddie Dempsey and Theodore (Kid) Snowden are on the same card. Jimmy Smith and Carmen Spagnolia box at the Cambria Club in the same city Friday night.

Young Ketcher and Nate Goldman are down for a return bout at Chester, Pa., Thursday night. Goldman, doing a comeback, recently won a decision over Ketcher in Philadelphia.

Hans Roberts, German welterweight, of Brooklyn, knows Ted Yarosz, of Monessen, at East Liverpool, O., tonight. Sammy Paris and Frankie Furio provide the semi-final and Kenny Davis meets Frankie Leute and Eddie Loos boxes The Sawdust Kid in the preliminaries.

Bob Olin and Italian Jack Herman are booked for a 10-rounder in New York tonight. Primo Carnera meets Sully Montgomery at Minneapolis.

Following is the makeup of the team that will represent Cincinnati in the inter-city amateur boxing show with Pittsburgh at the Keystone A. C. next Monday night: Bobby Kelso, flyweight; Earl Stevens, bantamweight; Leo Sandhaus, featherweight; Jimmy Ludwig, lightweight; Paul Evelon, welterweight; Erwin Blocker, middleweight, and Joe Seta, light-heavyweight. The Pittsburgh team has not yet been selected.

Ken Hargreaves, of New Kensington, has been substituted for Mike Hogan, of the North side, as the opponent of Fearless Gallagher, of Universale, in one of the preliminaries at Duquesne Garden, tomorrow night.

Primo's 'Heart' Admits They're Not Engaged

LONDON, March 11.—(AP.)—Miss Emlia Tersini smiled prettily and enigmatically this afternoon when told that Primo Carnera had denied they were engaged.

"Well, Mr. Carnera knows best," she said. "We are only friends anyway."

When asked directly, however, whether she really was engaged to Primo, the dark-eyed girl was explicit in the negative.

"No," she replied, "I am not and will you tell people so?"

"So congratulations are not in order?" asked the interviewer.

"No," she said.

But with another smile she added:

"Not yet."

MINNEAPOLIS, March 11.—(AP.)—Reports from London that Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight boxer, planned to marry Miss Emelia Tersini, a British subject, were denied here today by Carnera and his manager, Leon Cie.

Mellon Entry Wins Trial at Aintree

Glangesia, R. K. Mellon's entry in the Grand National Steeplechase, run each year at Aintree, England, last Saturday won a trial over the Aintree course, according to a cablegram received from the owner of the Rolling Rock Farm yesterday.

The obstacles at Aintree Saturday were the same as those to be encountered in the Grand National, and as a result of the Mellon entry's fine showing the odds on Glangesia to win the international event have been considerably shortened.

Seven British Cup Golfers Announced

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, March 11.—(AP.)—The championship committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews today announced the names of seven players who have been definitely chosen to play in the Walker Cup match at Sandwich May 15 and May 16. Roger Wethered, veteran golfer, will captain the team.

The seven whose names were made public today were R. W. Hartley, Sir E. W. E. Holderness, J. N. Smith, J. A. Stout, C. J. H. Tolley, T. A. Torrance and R. H. Wethered. This leaves three still to be chosen.

"It is to be regretted," adds the club's statement, "that Dr. W. T. Tweddell and Mr. John Wilson will not be available."

Charley Hyatt

Defeating Gross wasn't a world-beating feat, perhaps, but allowing for Godfrey's long period of enforced inactivity following his queer bout with Jimmy Byrne in Boston, it is at least something in George's favor. Now if he can follow up by stopping Ace Clark as quickly as Carnera did, there will be some assurance about his form, showing that he has the present fitness, as well as the size, to make him the right man to demonstrate whether or not there is anything to the Italian giant as a title-contending prospect.

WHILE basketball followers hereabouts are taking up their annual pastime of ranking the college players of the district and unanimously awarding first place among the individual performers to Charley Hyatt, of Pitt, Coach Harold G. Olsen, of Ohio State, goes several steps farther and pronounces the Panther star the best he ever saw. "Johnny Miner, of Ohio State's old championship team, was the best player I ever saw in the Big Ten Conference," said Olsen, "but I must rate Hyatt, of Pittsburgh, as the best court player I have ever watched in action," said Olsen. "The difference comes in Hyatt's burst of speed and quick change of pace, combined with his ability to feint. Hyatt is great in every department of play, including shooting baskets, floor work and defensive cleverness."

SPEAKING of Hyatt, the South boasts a prep school edition of the Pitt luminary in the person of Paul Worley, of Georgia Military Academy, of Atlanta, according to Hayden Lee, of Lock No. 4, who writes that he has observed both boys in competition and has never seen two floor stars who came closer to playing the same kind of ball. Morley is a product of Asheville (N. C.) High School, where he was captain in his final year and was picked as all-state forward.

In his first year at G. M. A., Morley has been the sensation of Southern prep school circles. He has starred for his team in every game, and against all sorts of opposition has played with a consistent brilliance that has made him an impressive standout, just as Hyatt has been in the collegiate division. Following a prep school tournament in Atlanta in which 16 teams competed, Morely has been unanimously chosen as all-prep forward in that region. One Southern expert says of him: "Morley handles the ball better than any other man I have seen in the prep league. He is in a class of his own as a dribbler."

ANOTHER fighter who probably won't quit until they take his gloves away from him is Jock Malone. The St. Paul veteran is still at it, and is billed for an appearance in Kansas City tonight, when he meets Tiger Johnny Cline.

Malone is 33 years old, and this is his fifteenth consecutive year in the ring. He never reached a championship peak, but his failure was not due to any lack of effort, as he has fought six different world champions in the welterweight and middleweight classes, including Jack Britton, Mickey Walker, Johnny Wilson and Tiger Flowers, several of them a number of times.

Dutch Dehnert

MANY outstanding professional basketball stars will be seen in action next Thursday night, when the Cleveland Rosenblums meet the Paterson team in an American League game on the Dukes' floor, such as Dehnert, Barry, Lapchick, Husta, Borgeman, Grady, Roxbury, Nagel and Bellerman. It's a hard matter to pick out the greatest, but Dehnert is the choice of the majority of basketball experts because of his skill as a team worker. He never equaled Nat Holman in shooting, perhaps, but that was largely because he was the feeder of the old Celtics and is again the feeder of the Rosies. He handles the ball more than any other player in the game, and handles it better possibly than any man ever did in the past. He is rated the sport's greatest passer, and makes more assists than any two other players in the professional ranks. If assists were counted in the scoring, as in hockey, he would be right up among the leaders at all times.

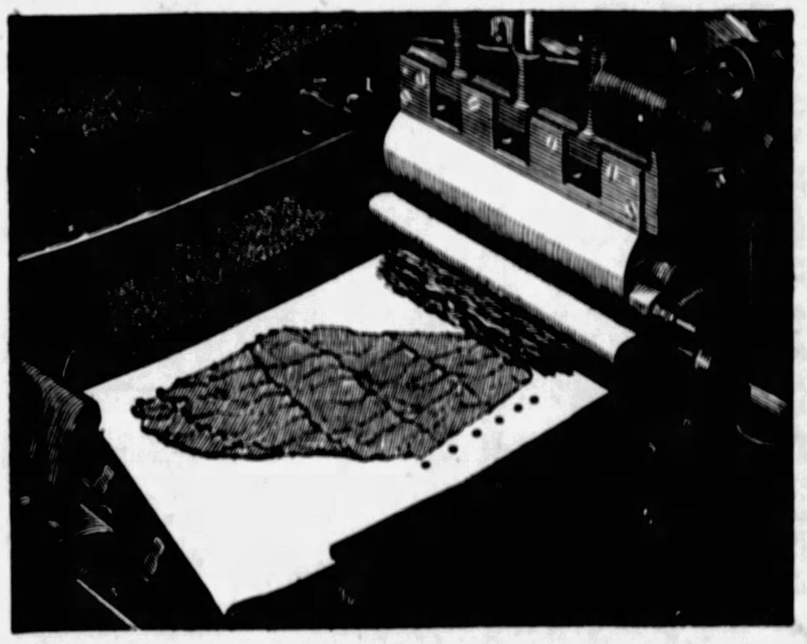
The 5¢ CIGAR with the 50% finer tobacco



. . . because busy machines make ROCKY FORDS five times as fast as human hands . . .

Electric machines keep ROCKY FORD as clean and wholesome as a loaf of baker's bread. Machines compress the filler, shape the cigar, roll it in the binder, seal it in the wrapper . . . without the aid of human hands.

But purity is only half the story. Because ROCKY FORD is 100% machine-made . . . it brings you 50% finer tobacco. Finer leaf for its cool-smoking long filler. The choicest crops of imported Sumatra for its sleek brown wrapper. Tobaccos aged two full years, then transformed into ROCKY FORDS by electric machines in one of the world's most modern, sunlit factories!

Rocky Ford the better 5¢ cigar

Best Business Asset Is Many Real Friends

By B. C. FORBES

A FATHER has written a letter to his three young-men sons commenting on a recent statement in this column. His observations contain so much unartificial human nature and so much homely philosophy that they are worth giving.

THE article which inspired the letter included this, from a veteran millionaire business man:

"It would be a wonderful thing if all of us who are engaged in business could realize early enough in life that the greatest thing in the world is not making money—although that is necessary—but making friends. The older I grow the more I see that the thing which counts most of all is the friendship we have succeeded in forming.

"If the younger fellows who are now carrying on could only learn the value of friendships, the business of the world would be carried on much more harmoniously. There would be far less fighting and quarrelling. There wouldn't be so much misunderstanding and bitterness. They would always have in mind that the wealth most worthwhile of all is a wealth of friends, and they would not be very ready to do things that cost them friends."

THE fatherly letter, written away from home and addressed to sons at home, follows:

"I want you to read the enclosed column by B. C. Forbes, show it to your mother, and then when you two have read it word for word, send it to L—— at Stanford University.

"If you will sit down and read this article as I want you to, you will have a very much better idea of what the old man meant when we had our family conference last Saturday night when he spoke of building up a (underline) background (end underline) of friendliness and friendships.

"If you will recall, I not only stressed the need of that, but tried to emphasize the importance of you boys beginning to put in an enduring foundation now.

"I was delighted to learn last night that plans already have been made to make a more companionable use of your frat house. I know of nothing that has pleased me more than to feel and to know that notwithstanding the fun we had at the family conference a few nights ago, the real seriousness of it did sink in.

"Sometimes I do a lot of thinking as to just how we all would feel if bad luck should come to us and we should have to give up some of the many things that we now enjoy. If it should come tomorrow, I for one would be a little ashamed of the fact that we hadn't made the best of our stewardship while fortune favored us.

"No one can say that bad luck will or will not come to us but this much I know to a certainty: that if we handle ourselves well, and if we make the proper use of the tools that lie ready to our hands now, then in the event that bad luck should ever come to us, we can laugh at it.

"Always remember this—that ill-fortune never stays long with anyone who can look it in the eye and make fun of it. Those of us who lived through the earthquake and fire discovered that in the rebuilding of San Francisco.

"So read this article. If it does you the good it did me, we all should be very thankful.

THIS week a prominent out-of-town financier said, when the name of a not particularly popular big New York banker was mentioned in an unflattering way: "But they tell me he is loyal to his friends." And that was considered a priceless offsetting asset.

WHY should those of us still youngish wait until too late to appreciate that, in the end, no human being is genuinely rich who is poor in friendships?

Good Results Shown by United Founders

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A MAXIMUM of diversification has been secured by the United Founders group of companies which has shown an exceptional record for successful operation in the investment trust field.

United Founders heads the group through the ownership of about one-third of the common shares of American Founders Corporation. While this is less than a majority it constitutes practical control.

Under a plan announced recently the operations of the two companies will be even more closely united through an offer to exchange two shares of United Founders common for every three shares of American Founders common. An additional two-seventieths of a share of United Founders common would also be given in adjustment of the scrip dividend, which would be payable on May 1 on every three shares of American Founders.

The offer, which is subject to withdrawal at any time, will create an organization with consolidated resources of about $300,000,000.

Underlying Companies

THE American Founders Corporation, in addition to directly owning large investments of its own, has the controlling interest in four underlying companies. These are the International Securities Corporation, Second International Securities Corporation, United State and British International Company, Ltd., and the American and General Securities Corporation.

American Founders renders investment advice and supervision to its subsidiaries and also to other companies on a fee basis. The size of the company may be realized from the fact that it has 300 employes engaged in handling its affairs and in making investigations relative to its investments.

United Founders, in addition to its holdings in American Founders, has substantial interests in United States Electric Power Corporation, The Public Utility Holding Company of America, Investment Trust Associates, United National Corporation and Hydro-Electric Securities Corporation.

Earned $3.54 a Share

UNITED Founders in its annual report for the fiscal period ended November 30, 1929, showed net cash earnings of $14,067,103 which was equivalent to $3.54 a share on the average number of common shares which was 3,929,601. The company also had an equity in undistributed cash earnings of subsidiaries of $7,580,624 which was equivalent to $1.90 a share. The income account did not include stock dividends which had a market value of $4,124,631 or $1.03 a share. The total of these three items is $6.47 a share. The company started operations on February 4, 1929, so that no comparisons with previous years are available.

American Founders which constitutes 42 per cent of United Founders' investment, reported consolidated earnings of $19,182,076 in the fiscal year ended November 30, 1929. This was equivalent to $8.33 a share on the average number of common shares.

Profits Gain

ACTUAL cash net earnings, not including undistributed equities in subsidiaries, were $11,548,750, or $4.59 a share. This compared with $3,589,193 or $1.63 a share in 1928 and with $2,006,122 in 1927.

Earnings have been computed on the basis of the number of shares outstanding before the distribution of two additional shares of common for each share held, which was equivalent to a three-for-one split.

Both American Founders and United Founders reported the market value of investments at the close of the fiscal year substantially in excess of original cost.

PAYROLLS GAIN MILLION

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 11.—The February payroll of $6,711,353, announced by Valley steel companies, is $1,040,655 higher than January, and reflects the improved operating rate and employment last month. However, it compares with a wage distribution of $7,554,206 in February of 1929.

Newton Steel Company has declared regular dividends of 75 cents per share on common stock and $1.50 on preferred, for the first quarter.

STOCKS CLOSE HALF SESSION IRREGULAR

Prices Turn Unever After Opening Upswing—Ticker Falls 20 Minutes Behind

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP.)—The stock market turned irregular today after an opening outburst of buying had carried more than twoscore issues to new high levels for the year. Trading was in heavy volume, with the ticker falling more than 20 minutes behind the market. The exchange was ordered closed at 12:30 p. m., out of respect for the memory of former Chief Justice Taft, whose funeral is being held today in Washington.

Call money renewed unchanged at 4 per cent, with indications that the rate would be maintained. Wall street is looking for a temporary stringency in call money over the week-end because of the heavy March 15 income tax payments, and the expiration of about $70,000,000 in stock and bond subscription rights this week, the largest of which is the Baltimore and Ohio issue.

CRUDE OIL CUT

One of the most constructive news developments of the day was the private estimate of another huge decrease in crude oil production last week. This decline, coming at a time when the seasonal demand for oil products is increasing, was widely hailed as a constructive development because of the large surplus stocks on hand. General Asphalt crossed 60, and was accompanied into new high ground by Atlantic Refining and American Republics.

General Motors crossed 45 to a new high level for the year, one block of 15,000 shares changing hands at that price. Checker Cab, Dupont, Radio, Timken Roller Bearing, Coca Cola, Consolidated Film, Warren Bros. and General Refractories were among the many other issues to sell at new peak prices for the year.

PEOPLES GAS AT HIGH

Peoples Gas, large blocks of which are reported to have been taken out of the market by investment trusts, was marked up 5 points to a new top at 289. Auburn Auto responded to reports of increasing sales by climbing 5 points to a new peak at 254.

J. I. Chase broke 7¼ points, Vanadium Steel 5½s, and Industrial Rayon 5. Renewal of selling pressure against Simmons Co. carried that issue down more than 3 points to 58½, or below the low price touched in the November break last year. U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Hershey Chocolate and American and Foreign Power fell 2 to 3½ points.

PGH. PLATE NET INCREASES

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company reports for the year ended December 31, 1929, net profit after taxes, depreciation and depletion of $11,685,311, which was equivalent to $5.39 a share on the 2,166,524 shares of capital stock. This compared with $8,468,773, or $3.91 a share in 1928.

Additions to plant investment, after deducting depreciation, obsolescence and depletion, amounted to $11,925,620 during the year. Unexpended appropriations for additions and improvements on January 1 amounted to $5,577,507.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Freedom's Price

IT was Saturday.

She scarcely waited to catch her breath, after the walk up three flights of stairs, before she unlocked her trunk and took out an envelope carefully hidden in a compartment lining.

From this long and strong manila envelope Barbara took the entire contents, fourteen ten-dollar bills. She counted them.

Then from her handbag she produced another ten-dollar bill. This was from her week's salary. She put it with the fourteen and counted again. Fifteen of them—one hundred and fifty dollars.

Barbara Moore stared at the money in her hand and smiled—a smile of relief and happiness.

On Monday she would go to her lawyer and give it to him—all of it—give it to him gladly, for he would secure her divorce from Tom, her husband, for that amount—and that was the freedom she must have.

She was glad—almost happy. Glad because her marital freedom was soon to become a reality—glad because she was self-supporting, and yet there was the shadow—Margery, her four-year-old daughter. She might possibly lose Margery—she didn't have her now. Even if she got her divorce there might be some trickery and she wouldn't be given the child.

Barbara stretched herself on the bed to rest and think, and also, in her feeble way, to pray.

Woman-like she indulged in self-pity and began to cry.

She was going over past events. She was only seventeen when she met dashing Tommy Moore. She was only eighteen when she married him, believing that love and romance and fidelity would be her happy portion.

Romance Bitter Joke

Margery was born when she was nineteen. Now she was just twenty-three and disillusioned. She felt like forty-three at times—and then at other times, almost like seventeen again.

Tom had soon turned cruel to her. She could stand that. Then he became wild, unfaithful—and boasted of it when in his clubs, which was all too often.

Finally it was more than she could endure. Romance had long ago become a bitter joke. Then love fled and after that hatred came—hatred of Tom. But for Margery she would have fled long before.

In the midst of her thoughts the rooming house slavey came and told her she was wanted on the telephone.

Marvin was the junior partner and general manager in the big office where she worked. It was Marvin who had hired her, six months ago when she had finally made the plunge away from Tom to earn the price of her freedom.

Marvin had been wonderful. And during the last few weeks he had done much to dispel her loneliness. She had been out with him on many occasions.

Marvin was fond of her. Her intuition told her that. Just how fond of her he might be she wasn't certain—but it was the right sort of fondness.

Loves Marvin

She already loved him. That was why she never got up sufficient courage to confess that she was married, the mother of a little girl. If she told him she might lose him.

Of course she had given her maiden name at the office, Barbara Hall. Her lawyer advised that—said it would be easier to find work.

"Too tired for dinner and dancing at a nice country club, Barbara?" Marvin asked over the telephone.

"Never—it will be wonderful."

"It's a short run; I'll call about seven," he said.

Back in her room her thought was "What shall I wear?"

Nothing original in the thought. She went through her scanty wardrobe—two spots on her one half-decent gown. And she needed slippers. Her old ones were shabby.

She had to look attractive for Marvin. She loved him; she hoped he would love her. She thought of the adorable little dress at the Howard shop—just her color—thirty dollars—exactly her week's wages. Ten had gone into the divorce fund, the last payment. Ten for board. New slippers, six or seven at the lowest.

She just couldn't dip into that divorce money—the price of her freedom. She had a thought and smiled ironically—why not? Why not go and ask her husband for it? He had spent plenty on other women, cheap women—rotten women. He might give it to her if she thought up a good excuse. When she left him he had promised a regular allowance. His mother insisted on keeping Margery. But Tom had never sent her one penny!

Decently Nervy

Barbara thought it would be nervy to ask him for money to buy a dress to wear out with another man—but decently nervy. She would ask him for a loan, then.

She put on her hat. She would go to him. Then a thought came. Tom had been dissipating more than ever lately, as she knew from a mutual friend. Suppose he were broke? No dress—no trip with Marvin.

She couldn't think of that so she went to her trunk and took out the envelope with the "Freedom" money.

When she reached Tom's home his mother came to the door. There had never been any love lost between them. Tom's mother had been crying.

"What it it—what has happened to Margery?" Barbara asked, that being her first fear.

"No, Margery is all right—it's Tom," said the mother.

"Sick again?" asked Barbara, and the way she said "sick" made it mean "dissipation."

"No, terrible accident."

"Oh!" Barbara was first angry because it would mean no money if Tom were "sick," but a terrible accident was different. Barbara wasn't that hard-hearted.

"The doctor is here—says he ought to go to the hospital."

They were inside.

"How did it happen?" Barbara asked after she had kissed Margery and sent her back to play.

Tom's mother claimed she didn't know. From the doctor she found out that the "accident" included a drunken brawl, a woman, broken bottles and fractured skull. She felt sorry for Tom's mother, just the same.

Margery came back and said, "Mamma, come see Daddy—he's sick."

Barbara made an effort for Margery never to understand the real situation. Tom would be unconscious, so she went.

"An operation is the only chance," said the doctor.

"But we haven't the money," whined Tom's mother.

"How much will it cost?" asked Barbara.

"Not over two hundred dollars—I can make hospital arrangements."

"When must it be done?" Barbara asked.

Barbara stopped him with a gesture.

She took the envelope from her bag—her "Freedom money."

"Here is a hundred and fifty—I will see that you get the rest," Barbara said, quietly.

Marvin Calls

She went to her room and tried to think.

Fifteen more weeks at least—unless Tom died. She wasn't that mean—she hoped he'd live—and be decent.

"What's up, Barbara—trouble?" Marvin asked when he saw her red eyes.

"I—I can't go—I—I haven't a decent dress—"

"Come to a nice, quiet little place, no style at all—and tell me," he begged.

Barbara could do that.

The place was dimly lighted, foreign. The food was marvelous.

Marvin talked cheerfully.

The wine from those funny bottles that were fastened together and held three kinds of wine—it made her pale cheeks glow.

"Now, Marvin, I've got to tell you——"

"Oh, wait, have some more food, more wine—I'll tell you a funny story," Marvin said.

The story was funny—and clean. Many will say this is not possible. At any rate, from a clean mind to a clean mind, it was funny.

Finally Barbara stopped him.

"You'll hate me, Marvin—I'm married. I've got a 4-year-old girl, I—"

"Yes, Mrs. Thomas Moore, I know that—baby's name is Margery," said Marvin.

"Why how—how—"

"Looked you up when I hired you—always do that. Now what happened today?"

"I'll look after the divorce—and we'll be married as soon as you are free—I was just waiting for you to tell me, Barbara," he said.

"I can't let you pay the price of my freedom—"

He leaned over and kissed her. No one paid the least attention to it except Barbara and Marvin.

"One of Knapp brothers in Xenia heard a racket among his hogs last week and got up in the night and found three hogs with their throats cut by thieves. He phoned neighbors to come help him dress the hogs. They hung the hogs up to cool while they slept and in the morning the hogs had been hauled away. The foulest crimes are perpetrated and the bold robber and criminal simply laughs at the law as it is dealt out here lately. By the time winter is over no farmer, store or woman or girl will be safe out day or night. The law ain't enforced enough.

Lady Traffic Signals Plan of Mr. Frisby

HERE is one of the standard traffic signals which Congressman Frisby plans to post across the continent for the guidance and delight of motorists.

"My idea is a simple one," said Congressman Frisby in his national broadcast by telephone, now under way. "We have in this country I don't know how many attractive and unemployed young women. Some of them are worthy; all of them are charming. What would be more humanitarian to motorist and humanity alike to break the monotony of a trip by stationing these beauties at crossroads? They could be trained to assume a motionless attitude, but would, of course, be permitted to relax when no one is nigh."

The Frisby plan has been turned over to the authorities for what it is worth.

Permit Sought to Give Taxicabs a Competitor

A Pittsburgh resident has expressed intention to engage in the taxicab business providing he is given authority by Mayor Kline and the Public Service Commission,

That permission should be given, in the interest of the public, providing the proposed organization, upon examination, appears to be fully qualified to engage in the business,

The permission should be given because Pittsburgh is entitled to home competition with the Chicago-owned Parmelee Transportation Company, which controls the local taxicab situation now,

The projector has announced willingness to meet the scale and other conditions of the striking taxicab drivers and thus restore service. Of course, this has nothing to do with the merits of the case before the Public Service Commission, but it shows willingness to give service, and that is what the public demands,

From the standpoint of the people, the situation here is deplorable. They want transportation and can't get it because drivers and their employers cannot agree,

There never was such trouble here before the taxicab business became a monopoly and it is reasonable to assume there would be no trouble now were the companies competitors, as they formerly were,

Even if the strike is settled, there should be competition,

Final Week Rush Is On For Income Tax Returns

Here it is the last week for income tax returns and you—and you and you—have not made out your income tax return yet. You could have sat down and done it any evening, but, like Andy Brown, the big business man, you have been putting it off, hating a trivial task that, like Andy's, just grows to be a bigger bugbear through delay,

Some of you will continue to procrastinate right up until the last minute and then, when it can't be dodged longer, will get at it and join the final rush next Saturday, March 15, the last date for filing to avoid penalty,

D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue, is familiar with your habits. Consequently, he has prepared for the assault on his office force, by arranging for extended office hours. Closing time today and Wednesday will be six; Friday, nine, and Saturday, 12, midnight,

Like Christmas shopping, the earlier income tax return is attended to the better. That applies even to the last week,

More Death Sentences

And More Deaths,

Something to think about, for those who favor capital punishment and those who oppose it,

In 26 states that inflict the death penalty there are twice as many murders as in states that do not inflict it,

That's quite a difference. It makes you wonder just how effective the death sentence is in preventing crime,

Not very, it would seem on the face of it,

The details are interesting,

The homicide rate in the 26 "killer" states, from 1919 to 1928, was 8.3—more than 8 murders or other fatal crimes for every 100,000 men, women and children,

That is the average for those states. In Florida, Mississippi, Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee and Virginia, where death is inflicted for various crimes besides murder, the rate was 18.3.

The situation, you are glad to learn, is not so bad in the killer states of the East. In Pennsylvania there were only six murders per 100,000; in New York, five,

Contrast these with murders in states that do not have capital punishment. In the East the average is 2.1, and in the Middle West 4.3.

Where there is no death penalty, generally speaking, the murder rate is low. Where there is a death penalty the murder rate is high,

That must be more than a coincidence,

These facts and conclusions from the League to Abolish Capital Punishment are based on the federal census. They show further, says the league, that "the homicide rate is NOT rising in states that have abolished the death penalty."

The failure of capital punishment to prevent crime, and the barbarous theory of "social vengeance" behind it, cannot be disregarded much longer by any state that presumes to call itself civilized,

Pharaoh's Curse

Thousands Believe in It,

Twenty-two deaths among the archeologists or their associates who opened King Tut's tomb a few years ago have occurred since the opening, and the usual number of credulous persons have nodded wisely and said: "There's something in Pharaoh's curse after all."

Popular legend has it, you recall, that the Pharaohs put some deadly but insidious poison in their death chambers which would kill impious intruders even though they broke in 3,000 years later,

It is a romantic idea and there may be something in it. But it hardly explains all the deaths in the King Tut party,

Some of the "victims" were old enough to succumb of old age anyway. One killed himself by jumping out of a window. Another died under the wheels of a London cab. And such prosaic matters as mosquito bites account for the passing of others,

So we must conclude that most of the deaths were merely "deaths," or that they were due to supernatural agencies,

And it is surprising how many intelligent, hard-headed, businesslike men and women will secretly prefer the latter theory,

Chicago: Federal farm board complains it has been paying the farmers too much for wheat. Congress must have lost its Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS,

GIRLS don't like to have each other boast too much about their fellows. If one girl in a crowd gets too proud about some guy she's going out with, the other girls will either take the fellow away from her or pretend he ain't so hot anyhow.

There was a girl that was pretty excited about a young bookkeeper she had got a pretty firm hold on, and she was boasting about him, because she was right sure the other girls couldn't steal him.

"Anyhow," she says, "Rudyard has got an air about him. Everybody notices that."

"Yes," says one of the other girls, "but I wouldn't hold that against him, Margie. He can't help it if he has to work at the stockyards and carry the air around with him afterwards."

100,000,000 HALF-BLIND MEN

By Herbert Kaufman

YOU need stronger glasses! But the optician can't provide 'em. He deals only with local flaws and minor faults.

His skill is sufficient for the problems of astigmatism, myopia and sclera, but he can't prescribe spectacles that will help your particular trouble one iota.

It lies farther back than your eyes. It's deeper than iris or retina: Your brain's wrong—it's an undersized, undeveloped skullful of pulp—annually shrinking for lack of daily dozens.

You haven't yet applied a single per cent of your slacking mental forces.

YOU gaze, but you do not see. Your head is a camera fitted with lenses more wonderful than the new 200-inch crystal that astronomy is about to create, but most of the time the shutter's closed—the light can't penetrate.

The plates are always in the holder, but day passes day without printing an original fact or enduring truth on your memory.

Whenever you walk a block, opportunity stares you full in the face and you never press the chance or the button.

Every morning, the world records some discovery which you carelessly disregarded.

Whatever has been searched out by any other human being might have been perceived by you.

The few things we do know aren't worth calculating, when compared with the unestimated and unattained disclosures slated for revelation in the immediate future.

Every first-class city still yearly destroys, in its garbage plants, oils and pigments and drugs and fertilizers and chemicals to the tune of millions.

ALUMINUM was in clay banks—the wealth of Midas was buried in coal tar, through all the ages that your forefathers were breaking their necks and hearts prospecting for tu'penny el Dorados.

The biggest gold mine in action produces less than the potential yields of your own back yard.

But they might as well be on Mars as far as you are concerned.

You're all but blind. Your sight doesn't reach beyond your nose, and your nose doesn't sense beyond its tip.

Learn to see when you look. Concentrate hard enough on any subject—speculate long enough on any possibility, and it must, like Edison's goldenrod rubber on Baird's radio pictures, become a practical fact.

Look into the smoke above you and ponder how to extract the valuable gases and control the bridled power now lost through the squanderous handling of half-consumed fuel.

The twin fairy godmothers, who attended the cradles of Bell, Marconi and Ford, were present at your birth, too—lest you forget—their names are imagination and determination.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

BOTHERED? Worried? Pestered? Misunderstood? Ninety-nine chances out of a hundred you are—

But why blame it on marriage?

Suppose you hadn't married. Suppose you'd stayed single and gone along in the usual bachelor or spinster rut. Wouldn't you have tangled with people and conditions just the same? And wouldn't those conditions have bothered and worried you—wouldn't those people have pestered and misunderstood you? Sure they would.

Then why blame it on marriage, when it's just life?

Suppose, even, that you could have avoided all disagreeable circumstances and people. Suppose you could have plotted your own life exactly as you desired. Are you kidding yourself into thinking that you then would have had perfect bliss? Get over it! Life would still have been one darned thing after another for you'd have been nagged and heckled by your own fears and fidgets . . . by the racket you generate inside yourself. For there's where your trouble starts, right in yourself, in the weakness and cussedness of your own Self. And, married or single, you must lug that Self along.

So why blame it on marriage?

Yet we do blame it on marriage. From the second the wedding ring is popped on our finger, we make it the goat for every grief that comes our way. Do we wake with a peeve or go to sleep with a grouch? Then it's because we're married. Are we bored, blue, restless, confused, discontented . . . we're married, that's why. Listen to us, and you'd think life would have been one long, sweet song if we hadn't taken that fatal step. You'd think that we had always been perfectly happy, hopeful, popular, contented and successful until that tragic day. And we say this so often that we believe it ourselves. But it's the bunk!

We are, after marriage, just what we were before. And life would have been just about the same for us whether we had married or not. For it isn't the missis or the mister who cramps our style—it's ourselves.

Is the missis a nagging nitwit? Well, the same sap streak that made you marry her, Bill, would have gotten you into some other jam if you hadn't fallen for her. Is the mister a big bully, Bessie? Well, the same spinelessness that makes you stand for his stuff would get you kicked around, even if you had stayed single.

Nitwit wives and bullying wives aren't the cause of our trouble—they're just the consequence. And until we eliminate the source of the trouble within ourselves — our own silliness, laziness, greediness, cussedness, cowardice and conceit—we will go right on having consequences.

The Rhyming Optimist

Life, Let Me Drift!

OH, green waves lift
And far skies, smile!
Life, let me drift
To some bright isle
Where tall palms bend
And warm winds blow;
Give me no friend,
Give me no foe!

Let day by day
Unchangefully pass,
With cold salt spray,
With stiff marsh grass,
Moons wax and wane
To sea-wind's kiss;
Give me no pain,
Give me no bliss!

Text For Today

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells,

THE tapir, for example, is an anachronism. At one time it had a wide and extensive distribution, but now it lingers on insecurely and prowls by night in one or two marshy patches of jungle, in South and Central America, in Malaya, and Java and Sumatra. And the okapi, lurking in the deepest recesses of the forests of the Belgian Congo, evaded scientific description,

It may be that other forest-dwelling mammals lurk on in the same way. But these creatures we may note are not very striking departures from those that are more widely distributed; the tapir is a distant poor relation of the rhinoceros and the okapi is a closer poor relation of the giraffe.

H. G. Wells.

Even here, unless some novel ape or monkey amazes the world, there is little chance of a really striking departure from the forms of life we know. In passing, we may set aside as quite untenable the very wild rumors of gigantic survivors from the reptile age that invade the press from time to time.

The reptile age was very much more ancient than the forest mammal age to which we have just referred, its climatic condition may have been very different from any now on earth, and it is so improbable as to be inconceivable that any of the dinosaurs, for example, should have lingered on unseen to the present day.

To sum up, then, it is probable that the range and variety of life as it exists today is already pretty well charted.

Perhaps an unromantic conclusion. One likes to dream of strange, evasive creatures that are still at liberty, that have eluded the cold systematic docketing of science. But there is wonder enough in what we already know.

In our brief review we have noted something of the variety of life, of the astonishing diversity of its forms. Consider, for example, its range of size.

The largest organism living today are the whales and giant trees; the smallest that we know of are somewhere about a tenth of a micron across.

The largest organism weigh about 10^{25} times—10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 times — as much as the smallest.

The sun weighs about 10^{34} times as much as the largest; the whole material universe, according to a recent calculation, weighs somewhere about 10^{54} times as much as the sun. An electron, the smallest known particle of matter, weighs about 1 $10th^{12}$ as much as the smallest organism.

So that the range of size of organisms is over a quarter of the total range of size within the universe. And within that size range there is room enough for a wealth of different anatomies and ways of life.

Compare, for example, the life of Mr. Everyman and his wife with the life of an amoeba, a life where an individual tears himself without residue or wastage into two and in which two individuals blend permanently and without reserve to form one.

Consider the reconstitution of a sieved and scattered polyp, or the alternation of forms in the life-story of a liver-fluke. The world as we know it is surely strange enough to satisfy the most curious; the fabled sea-serpent and the fabled African brontosaur are banal imaginings compared with such mysteries as confront us already,

BOOK III.
THE INCONTROVERTIBLE FACT OF EVOLUTION.
CHAPTER ONE.
The Fact to be Proved.
Sec. 1.—Evolution and Creation.

HITHERTO we have described the forms of life, avoiding as far as possible the introduction of any controversal matter. We have now to take up aspects of our subject that have been the centers of great controversies.

We have first to tell of the gradual recognition of a great reality—the Evolution of Life. And having done that as clearly and plainly as we can we shall have to discuss in the book that follows certain theories about which opinion still varies widely and at times violently,

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 11.—This is a true story of a damozel who had a futile fling at the movies in Hollywood and descended upon New York with the avowed intention of "capturing a millionaire." She had beauty, a becoming hauteur and the nameless glamour often surrounding those a trifle theatrical.

With a bankroll of $5,000 she established herself in a fashionable hotel on Park Avenue's Gold Coast. Every day she donned a stunning frock to which she attached a corsage of orchids and had luncheon, aloof and alone, at one of those restaurants Michael Arlen describes so fascinatingly.

At the end of 10 days she had attracted a "prospect." A wealthy and estimable young man she knew by sight and reputation began discreetly to drop in at the various places where she lunched. And as discreetly managed to jockey himself to a table near her.

He tried repeatedly to scrape up a chance acquaintance. Once he inquired if she happened to be Miss Blank a Vassar mate of his sister and again he graciously offered his limousine when she was trying to hail a taxi in a shower. He sent anonymously gorgeous bunches of roses.

To all such overtures, she was politely indifferent and in this remote fashion added zest to the chase. He became her faithful shadow—always in the offing and keeping respectful distance. And then, after a time as though tiring of the quiet, disappeared.

In the meantime the lady's purse was becoming depleted. In an agonizing moment of desperation she telephoned him at his office. She explained who she was and an appointment was made for lunch the following day. But when she turned huntress, the romance withered.

They never met again. Her many notes and telephone calls were unanswered until one day she received this coldly typewritten explanation: "I am sorry but your charm was in your unawareness. The moment you became pliable it was all hopeless." And that is the way of love.

New York's theater for children—an offshoot of the Hecksher Foundation—at 104th street and Fifth avenue — has proved a charming experiment. The playhouse is decorated in a manner to delight childish imagination and seats several hundred. Such plays as "The Wizard of Oz" are presented by a cast of children selected by the management and carefully trained. The performers give their services free and the proceeds go to a children's charity.

It struck me the most delighted of the spectators at the children's play was an old pappy with white mutton chop whiskers. His eyes sparkled and he interrupted with frequent applause. I was tempted to invite him to join me in leap frog.

Similarly, at the Punch and Judy shows along the Champs Elysees in Paris, two-thirds of the audiences are grown-up men. Then, too, there are those arch-hypocrites who affect such utter boredom each spring when they "have to take the children to the circus."

John Ringling is living proof that few ever lose the thrill of the big tops. He was brought up with the circus and has known little else yet he never tires of watching a performance from beginning to end. Whenever his friends want to spend an evening with him they invite him to dinner and suggest going to the circus.

We Scotch are slow to anger, but I had a feeling all day I should be sore about something and just discovered what. Late last night entering my hotel a tipsy fellow lurched up to inquire if I would be interested in something in purple ties. I just recall I was wearing a purple tie at the time.

I also have a life-long secret sorrow if I could just remember what it is.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

BACK of each hope there is a fear.

That should not make you afraid to undertake worthwhile things.

The question is whether you have schooled yourself to overcome difficulties.

Have you been a quitter when the way was hard and things went against you?

Unless you can inspire yourself with confidence you cannot expect to instill the right spirit among those who must work under you.

Of course there is an element of uncertainty about everything.

But why think about it?

Keep your mind on the star of hope—the goal you want to make.

Your feet will take care of themselves if your eyes are glued to the bull's eye. You hesitate, wondering if the future may not hold a better time to start.

Lack of confidence in yourself coming to the fore with too many thoughts of possible failure.

If thoughts control you, why not make them success thoughts?

Drill into yourself a greater fighting spirit, more confidence, more hope, a stronger decision to make success irrespective of difficulties.

You will need such a spirit throughout your life.
